IN MEMORIAM.

BIBBY—In cherished remembrance of our dear grandmother, Sarah Bibby, who was called Home on 7th November, 1931. "From earthly toils sweet resting place."—Belle, Sadie.

CHRISTIE—In loving memory of John, eldest son of William and Annie Christie, Riversdale Cottage, Lucan, Co. Dublin, called Home on 7th November, 1935. "Till we meet again."

CLARKSON—Birthday Remembrance of mother, Ann Calderwood Clarkson, who fell asleep on 14th March, 1935. Hymn 572.—Martha.

ELLIS—Eighteenth Anniversary — In loving memory of my dear father, William, died on 4th November, 1918; my dear mother, Ellen, died on 10th December, 1921, at their residence, 10 Graham's court, Dublin; my dear brother, Henry (Harry), beloved husband of Elizabeth Ellis, whom God called Home, suddenly, on 27th November, 1930, at his brother's premises, 75 Middle Abbey street, Dublin, my dear sister, Annie (Nannie), beloved wife of George Parker died on 23rd September, 1935, at her residence, Knockbrackin, Belfast. Interred in Knockbrackin Cemetery. Sadly missed by their loving daughter, Mary.

GRAHAM—In loving memory of John Henry (Harry) Graham, died on 7th November, 1907. "Till we meet."

JONES—In loving memory of my dear wife, Susan Rebecca Jones, Oak Park, Carlow, who died on November 7th, 1931.

KELLY—In undying and beautiful memories of my darling sister (Queenie) Henrietta Fergusson Kelly, whom God called on November 7th, 1934. Now in "God's gracious keeping."

KERR—Thirteenth Anniversary — In loving memory of my dear husband, William Henri, who passed away on November 7th, 1922. "Till we meet."

McKENZIE—In memory of a loving wife and mother, called Home on 7th November, 1954.

Nature never sees thee more—
Faith but sees thee gone before,
We, patient wait the high decree
That calls our spirits home to Thee.

WILKIE—In ever-loving memory of our four dear children: David, died on November 7th, 1931; Bess, died on January 29th, 1925; Dick, died on October 28th, 1918; Sam, died on May 31st, 1901. Always remembered by all at home.

Treasured thoughts of ones so dear
Often bring a silent tear.
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time rolls on, but memory lasts.

NOTICE OF CHARITABLE BEQUESTS.
In the Goods of
ANNIE KENT, late of Strathearn, Monkstown, in the County of Dublin, Widow, Deceased, who died on the 8th day of August, 1936.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Statute 30 and 31 Vic., cap. 54, S. 19, that the above-named Deceased by her Will, dated the 3rd day of May, 1932, appointed Edward Francis Stephenson, of Strathearn, Seafield avenue, Monkstown, Co. Dublin, M.D.; Kathleen Stephenson, of 24 Lancaster road, Wimbledon, London, S.W.19., and Constance Hewins, of 51 Drax avenue, Wimbledon, London, S.W.20, Executors thereof, and thereby bequeathed—

£50 to her Trustees to be expended by them in Masses.

To the Parish Priest for the time being at her decease of the Parish of Monkstown, in the County of Dublin, £10 for Masses.

To the Very Reverend Father Prior for the time being at her decease of Storrington Priory, Pulboro, in the County of Sussex, £15 free of legacy duty for 30 Masses of Saint Gregory.

To the Lord Abbot of Mount Melleray, in the County of Waterford, £10 for Masses.

To her nephews, Patrick Stephenson, S.J.; Noel Stephenson, S.J., and Anthony Stephenson, S.J., £10 each, free of legacy duty, for Masses.

All said Masses to be celebrated for the intentions expressed by the Testatrix.

Testatrix executed a Codicil to her said Will, dated the 9th day of April, 1935, but did not thereby alter or revoke any of the foregoing bequests.

And Probate of the said Will and Codicil was on the 27th day of October, 1936, granted to the said Edward Francis Stephenson, Kathleen Stephenson, and Constance Hewins, forth of the Principal Registry of the High Court of Justice (Probate) in Saorstat Eireann.

Dated the 6th day of November, 1936.

Conditions of Contract may be inspected at my office or at the office of the Consulting Engineer in Dublin during usual office hours. Drawings and Specifications, together with a Schedule of Quantities and a Form of Tender, may be obtained at either of the above offices on payment of a deposit of £5 5s. 0d., which will be refunded to contractors who submit bona fide Tenders not subsequently withdrawn.

Sealed Tenders on the Form provided, endorsed "Tender for Ballysodare Water Supply," and accompanied by the Schedule of Quantities, priced and extended in ink, should be delivered to the undersigned not later than 6 p.m. on the 16th day of November, 1936.

The attention of Contractors is directed to the requirements of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health in regard to the recruitment of labour for schemes carried out with the aid of unemployment relief grants. These requirements form portion of the Conditions of Contract.

The acceptance of any Tender will be subject to the sanction of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, and the Board do not bind themselves to accept the lowest or any Tender.

CITY AUDITORS SUED

BREACH OF DUTY ALLEGED

FIRM THAT SUFFERED BY DEFALCATIONS

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

ARGUMENTS were heard in the action in which Hunt Walsh Leech, solicitor, Coleraine, claimed £3,750 damages against R. Stanley Stokes, Francis H. Pim, and G. Francis Klinger, carrying on business as Stokes Bros. and Pim, chartered accountants, College Green, Dublin, for alleged negligence and breach of duty by the defendants as auditors.

The plaintiff's case was that, during the years 1928 to 1933, the defendants furnished certified profit and loss accounts in reference to the firm of Crookshank, Leech and Fetherstonhaugh, Kildare street, Dublin—of which the plaintiff was senior partner—and that during the period covered by those accounts misappropriations of money received for the firm were carried out by a clerk employed by the firm and were not discovered at the time.

The defendants pleaded that they were instructed solely to prepare accounts of the firm's profits for income tax purposes from books produced to them, and that they had no duty to check entries in those books with the firm's bank books or accounts, which were not made available to them. They denied that there had been any negligence or breach of duty on their part.

Mr. FitzGerald, K.C., and Mr. Poole (instructed by Messrs. S. S. and E. Reeves and Sons) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Frank FitzGibbon, K.C.; Mr. Phelps K.C., and Mr. Monks (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Sons) for the defendants.

Mr. Phelps, for the defendants, said that the plaintiff's claim was based on the belief that the defendants had been instructed to make, and had made, a full audit of the books of the plaintiff's firm, whereas the defendants' business was only the preparation of accounts for income tax purposes. The real claim would involve a charge against the defendants of negligence in doing what was necessary for income tax purposes, and to that the defendants replied: "No; we carried out all our instructions." At the time the instructions were given, the last thing that was in Mr. Leech's mind was that there was any necessity for an audit.

The further hearing was adjourned until next Monday.

RUNNING DOWN CASES

ACTIONS SETTLED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

Mr. D. B. W. Good (instructed by Messrs. O'Hanlon and Robinson) applied on behalf of Dermot Coombes, of Carlton, Torca Hill, Dalkey, to have a consent to settlement of his action against Stanley Charles Mayes, of Seapoint terrace, Blackrock, received and made a rule of court.

The plaintiff claimed damages for injuries caused to him by his having been knocked off his motor cycle by the defendant's motor car at Seapoint avenue, Monkstown, on 15th of last May; and the consent provided for the payment of £400 to the plaintiff and a sum for costs.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne received the consent and made it a rule of court.

Mr. Good (instructed by Messrs. O'Hanlon and Robinson) applied also on behalf of John Kenny, of 31 Annamoe Park, Cabra, Dublin, to have a consent to settle his action against Connie Ryan, of Annamoe road, Dublin, received and made a rule of court.

The plaintiff claimed damages for injuries caused to him by his having been struck by the defendant's motor car at Cabra road, on 1st March of this year; and the consent provided that the defendant should pay £450 to the plaintiff in full discharge of all his claims.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne received the consent and made it a rule of court.

On the application of Mr. Sean Ryan (Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.), for the defendant, a consent to settlement whereby the defendant was to pay £260 and a sum for costs was received and made a rule of court in an action in which Robert Flynn, of Boherboy, Saggart, Co. Dublin, claimed damages against Timothy Corcoran, of Foley street, Dublin, for injuries caused to him by reason of alleged negligence in the driving of the defendant's motor lorry at Crooksling, on 28th of last January.

A consent to settlement was, on the application of a representative of Messrs. Corrigan and Corrigan, solicitors for the defendant, received and made a rule of court in an action of Miss Kathleen M. Tracey, of Lasgarvan, Herbert road, Bray, against Maurice Dempsey, of Main street, Bray. The action was for damages for injuries to the plaintiff caused by her having been knocked down by the defendant's horse and van at Herbert road, Bray, on 28th March last.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT

FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT

DUBLIN DRIVER CHARGED

(BEFORE MR JUSTICE SULLIVAN.)

William Stephen Scuffil, Victoria villas, Clontarf, pleaded not guilty to having caused the death of Eugene Darby, Portlester, Ballivor, Co. Meath, by knocking him down with a van which he was driving on Sunday, April 12th last.

Mr. P. Lynch, K.C., with Mr. R. McLoughlin (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuting, said that Darby and his wife were cycling to Mass, and when they entered the main road at Portlester Darby was struck and was killed almost instantly. He was dragged for some distance by the van, which was being used in the delivery of newspapers.

Guard Cooney, Drogheda, testified to the good condition of the brakes, steering and horn of the van. In a test he found that a driver 160 yards from Portlester cross could have a view of the head and shoulders of a cyclist for 100 yards in the side road, while a cyclist could have a full view of the car for virtually 200 yards.

In reply to Mr. Joseph Healy, the witness admitted that the view depended on the height of the cyclist. To see the cyclist all the time the driver would have to take his eyes off the road and look at right angles.

John Garry, farmer, and Christopher Garry, his son, said that the van was travelling very fast approaching the scene of the accident.

Miss Mary Greene said that the van was travelling very fast. After it passed her she heard "tearing and screeching," but a hedge prevented her from seeing anything.

Answering Mr. Justice Sullivan, the witness said that she heard no horn sounded.

Edward Higgins, who was travelling in the van with Scuffil, said they were travelling at about 30 miles an hour, and were about six or seven yards from the cyclist when they first saw him. The horn was sounded twenty or thirty yards from the scene of the accident, and when the driver braked and turned suddenly witness fell back in the van.

Michael Cummins, Portlester, said, while standing in a field, he heard brakes being applied and heard a crash. He then saw a green Independent newspaper van on the grass margin, and three men saying the Act of Contrition in Darby's ear.

Sergeant Hugh Quinn, Ballivor, in reply to Mr. Healy, stated that, to anybody driving along the main road, a cyclist travelling along the lane would be completely obscured for a distance of forty-one feet back from the mouth of the lane.

Guard M. Lang, Ballivor, stated that the defendant made a statement in which he put down his speed as between 25 and 30 m.p.h. He had slowed down near the by-road because of a pony and trap, and had sounded the horn. The cyclist, who suddenly appeared before him, seemed to have no control over the machine. He did his best to avoid the man, but the front lamp struck him.

The defendant, in evidence, bore out his statement, and said he had no drink that day, and was not in the habit of taking drink.

The defendant was acquitted.

Mr. W. Callan (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) appeared for the next-of-kin.

TRINITY COLLEGE NOTES

REMEMBRANCE DAY ARRANGEMENTS

SOCIETIES' MEETINGS

THERE are still two opening meetings to be held before the various College societies settle down to the routine of ordinary meetings. The Law Society and the Experimental Science Association are both due to open their respective sessions on Friday and Tuesday of next week. At the former Mr. J. E. Lynch, the Honorary Secretary, will read an address on "The Rule of Law." The supporting speakers will include Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C.; Professor D. A. Binchy, M.A., Ph.D.; Mr. T. C. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Dr. O. L. Skeffington, M.A., and Mr. Samuel L. Brown, K.C., Regius Professor of Laws, will take the chair. At the latter, the President, Dr. James Bell, F.T.C.D., will read a paper on "The electrical phenomena of living tissue." Emeritus Professor T. H. Milroy, of Queen's University, Belfast; Professor F. E. W. Hackett, of University College, Dublin, and Professor D. S. Torrens will contribute to the discussion.

Debate on the Press

On Monday Mr. L. A. Elliott, B.A. (Cantab.), will read a paper to the College Theological Society on "Our Lord's Teaching on the Kingdom of God." The paper will deal with (1) "The parables of the Kingdom," and (2) "With the teaching of Our Lord outside the parables." On Monday after noon the History Society will meet at 3.30 in the G.M.B., when the motion, "That this House regrets the break up of the Holy Roman Empire," will be debated. The motion will be proposed by Miss F. Darley, and the negative will be led by Mr. L. F. Seymour. At 8.15 the Neophyte Debating Society will meet to discuss the motion, "That this House considers the Press detrimental to the public outlook." The chair will be taken by Mr. J. Marshall Dudley, M.A.

Remembrance Day

At a meeting of the Modern Language Society on Tuesday, at 3.30, Mr. K. O'S. Molloy, Sch., will read a paper on "The Mind of Keats." The College Historical Society will meet on Wednesday, when the Auditor will propose the motion, "That this House would welcome a victory of the Madrid Government in Spain." Mr. C. A. Preston (Mod.), B.A., will move the negative. On Thursday Mr. S. N. Ross will read a paper to the University Philosophical Society entitled "Twinkle, twinkle, little star." It is announced that a short Service of ten minutes' duration will be held in the College Chapel on Remembrance Day, November the 11th. Lectures will cease at 10.45 a.m. and will be resumed at 11.15 a.m. Lecturers are asked to draw the attention of their classes to this arrangement.

The select preacher to the University tomorrow will be the Rev. R. R. Hartford, B.D., the Archbishop King's Professor of Divinity. The subjects for the Elsington Theological Prize for the next three years have been selected, and are as follows:—The Nestorian Churches (1936). A Critical Study of the Pastoral Epistles (1937), and Modern Psychology and Christian Ethics (1938). The essays, with fictitious signatures, together with an envelope containing the writer's name and address, should be sent to the Regius Professor. The essays must be type written or printed.

Motor Sport

A Socialist Club has been formed, and intends to hold meetings each Monday. The secretary of the club is Mr. A. T. Hanson, Sch., from whom all information can be obtained. The club will meet on Monday at 3.30, when Mr. W. Swift will read a paper on "Irish Trade Unions." On Saturday, the 21st November, the Motor Cycle and Light Car Club will hold their annual Bush Cup trial for solo machines. The trial will take place at Old Bawn, and begins at 2.30 p.m. It will cover a course of thirty miles through the Counties of Dublin and Wicklow. Entries close on Wednesday, the 18th of November, and should be sent to A. G. Moore, "Old Orchard," Rathfarnham, County Dublin. The club awarded two colours for the past season, one to S. D. Campbell, the captain, and the other to A. G. Moore, the secretary.

Rugby

The College Historical Society held an extraordinary general meeting last Wednesday, at which a vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of the late William Morgan Jellett, K.C., who had been a vice-president of the Society since 1920.

The Rugby Club suffered its first defeat this season against Clontarf at Castle avenue last Saturday, when by a single point the home side secured victory, after a keenly contested game. Trinity's back division was under strength, C. V. Boyle, Park and McCall being absent. To-day the XV. meets Blackrock in the College Park. The hockey XI. were put to the pin of their collar to maintain their unbeaten record when they met and defeated Naas by one goal on Saturday in the College Park. To-day they will play Pembroke Wanderers at Serpentine avenue.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT

BITTEN BY DOG

£131 DAMAGES AWARDED

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT AND A JURY.)

Alfred Bennett, Strand road, Sandymount, on behalf of his infant daughter, Yvonne, sued Joseph D. Walsh, civil servant, 43 Sandymount road, for damages in respect of personal injuries caused to her by being bitten on the face by the defendant's dog on August 28th, 1935, in the defendant's garden, which was next door to his, and into which she had been invited to come and play with some other young children.

The defendant denied responsibility.

Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., with whom was Mr. Hare (instructed by Mr. E. Keegan) appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. P. McGilligan (instructed by Messrs. A. Cox and Co.) appeared for the defendant.

The evidence of the children was to the effect that Anne Walsh, a daughter of the defendant, had her Irish terrier there at the time, and that the dog jumped upon Yvonne and bit her face. It was stated that she would to an extent be permanently disfigured. She was treated in hospital.

Mr. Barry said that the dog had a bad reputation and that it had been involved in previous attacks on other persons. On one occasion it devoured a litter of kittens.

Mr. A. Burns, a neighbour; Mrs. M. O'Rourke and Mrs. L. Brown gave evidence as to the vicious temper of the dog.

Surgeon Keegan stated that the little girl had in all six marks on her face.

Anne Walsh, in evidence, said that she remembered an incident on the strand at Sandymount when Barton Brown, a little boy, had trouble with the dog.

Joseph D. Walsh, the defendant, said that he got the dog in April, 1935, and he saw nothing about it that would lead him to believe that the dog was vicious.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff and assessed damages at £131.

The Judge gave a decree for that sum with costs.

On the application of Mr. McGilligan a stay of fourteen days was granted.

THE LATE CAPTAIN FOSTER

The funeral took place yesterday at Glasnevin Cemetery of the late Captain Thomas J. Foster, 50 Windsor avenue, Clontarf, a retired captain of the Mercantile Marine. Requiem Mass was celebrated in the Church of the Visitation, Fairview, by the Rev. J. Pigott, C.C.

The chief mourners were:—Mrs. Kavanagh (daughter), Mr. William Kavanagh (son-in-law), Miss Kavanagh, Mr. John Williams and Mr. William Williams (nephews).

The general attendance included:—Mr. E. J. Smyth, Captain Freyne, Mr. Tom Casement, Mr. Y. O'Connor (Mercantile Marine), Mr. J. M. Chichester, Mr. E. A. Aston, Mr. V. Gaffney, Mr. J. Doody, Mr. P. MacEvoy, Mr. George Firth, Mr. J. Richards, Mr. C. Jackson, Mrs. Keighany, Mrs. Robinson, and Mrs. Bryan.

LAST YEAR HE TRIED A FEW ACRES

Some people told him that wheat was a "fair weather crop" certain to fail in a bad season. Others said his land wasn't good enough for it, and anyhow it took a lot more care than oats or barley. But he also heard about the good crops farmers in other parts were reaping—and the good guaranteed prices they were getting—so he tried a few acres. It did well and he reaped such a good crop that he and his neighbours are putting in wheat again this year. He's proved for himself—and for them—that wheat can be grown successfully on average land.

NOW HE KNOWS THAT WHEAT PAYS

GUARANTEED MINIMUM PRICES

Next season's guaranteed minimum prices per barrel will range from 23/- after harvest time to 27/- in the Spring, according to quality. Note that these are minimum prices. 27/6 per barrel on the farm is now being paid for home-grown wheat of good quality.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

GIRLS CALL FIRE BRIGADE.

ORDERED NOT TO ASSOCIATE

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN, SENIOR DISTRICT JUSTICE.)

A 14 year-old girl, who, with another girl, appeared on remand, charged with having caused a public nuisance by telephoning a false alarm to the Corporation Fire Brigade Station at Tara street, was told by the Senior Justice: "The report of your conduct apart from this case is so bad that I would be ashamed to insult other children in this court by reading it in public."

From evidence given at a previous hearing, it appeared that the two girls had telephoned from a kiosk in O'Connell street. The operator told a girl to wait a while. She did so, and soon after a Guard arrived, and one girl was holding the telephone receiver and the other standing by her side laughing. When arrested they said they did it for fun.

The two girls' parents pleaded for leniency and promised to exercise more careful supervision over them in future.

Mr. Cussen said that, in view of the pleading of the parents and the promise they had made, he was prepared to give the girls another chance. He would allow them out on probation for twelve months on their parents' bail of £5 each.

"I am making a condition in that order," said the Senior Justice, "that these girls must not speak to each other during that period. They must be indoors during the winter by 8 o'clock at night and by 9 o'clock during the summer. If they are seen speaking to each other or associating in any way they will be brought before this court and dealt with."

The two girls, on their parents giving an undertaking, left the court in tears.

THREE BOYS CHARGED

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST CIVIC GUARDS

Charged with breaking into shops in Aungier street and stealing cigarettes, three small boys, whose ages range from eight to ten, appeared before the Court.

Guard Feeny stated that during the time that they were being questioned and making statements they were not taken from their parents. They were not at any time frightened or threatened. None of the Guards had firearms.

Mr. L. T. McCarthy, who appeared for one of the boys, asked if it were not a fact that the boys were in a room at the back of the station and that the parents were in the day-room, and that the boys were heard crying out loud.

Witness—That is not true.

Mr. McCarthy—Is it not true that one of the mothers could not bear it any longer and ran out on the street?—No.

Did one of the mothers show a lump on her son's head and say: "Is that what I brought my son here for—to be beaten and murdered?"—No.

Mr. McCarthy—I suggest she did, and as soon as she did so she was put into the street?—No.

Did she make any complaint?—None whatever.

Can you suggest any reason why the boy was brought immediately afterwards to hospital and has been treated there since?—It is not because of anything that happened at Lad Lane Station.

Mr. Cussen—There is no doubt that he was taken to hospital, and he was brought here last day with a plaster on him. Do you know if he received any injuries in Lad Lane Station?—None whatever.

Guard Cullen also denied that the boys were ill-treated.

The further hearing was adjourned.

A BOY'S EXPLOITS

A sixteen-year-old boy, who had been remanded for a week, charged with travelling on the G.S. Railway system from Edgeworthstown to the Broadstone, was sent back to Summerhill Home for a further report as to his conduct.

Mr. Cussen said that the boy seemed inclined to a wandering career, and it would be difficult for his parents to control him. He read the Probation Officer's report, which stated that on August 10 last the boy had stolen 30s. from his mother and gone to Sligo to stay with his aunt. He was brought back, but on August 19 took a suit of his father's clothes and pawned it, broke open a gas meter and took the contents and returned to Sligo. His aunt brought him back on August 20, but the same night he travelled back from the Broadstone to Sligo. His father brought him back on August 30, and on the 31st August he stole a costume belonging to his sister, and again went to Sligo. On September 1st he was arrested and remanded to Summerhill. In view of these exploits Mr. Cussen said he could not deal with the case that day and sent him back to Summerhill.

MISSING SHEEP

DROVER CHARGED WITH STEALING

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

Christopher Green, Attracta road, Cabra, was remanded on bail for a week on a charge of stealing 19 sheep, value £45, the property of Patrick Diviney, Forthill, Gort, Co. Galway, from off the lands of Woodlawn, Santry.

Detective-Officer McNiff said that, following a visit to the Cattle Market, he went to a public-house in Prussia street, where he saw the accused man in company with Mr. Diviney. Green then told witness that he had had a conversation with Mr. Diviney, and that everything had been settled up. Witness asked him about the sheep, and he replied that he had taken them, sold them, and that was all he had to say. When brought to the Bridewell, the accused man made a statement, saying that he had met a man who told him that he wanted to buy 20 sheep. Green told him he had 20 sheep, and they went together to Santry, where the man bought 19 sheep for £40, paying in cash. Green said that he had spent the money on racing and drink.

Thos. Monks, Woodlawn, Santry, gave evidence of missing the sheep on Friday, October 30.

Patrick Diviney said that he knew the prisoner for over twenty years, and Green had been in his employment off and on for the last ten years as a drover. He did not give him permission to take the sheep from the lands at Santry.

Trespass on Golf Links.—At Dundrum District Court yesterday, before District Justice Reddin, John Doyle, Milltown, was fined 10s. for trespassing on the Milltown golf links.

£1,195 for 38 Acres.—A grazing farm of 38½ Irish acres at Pleberstown, Thomastown, which was sold by auction, realised £1,195 and commission. Mr. William Walsh, Cappa, Thomastown, was the vendor, and Mr. David Murphy, victualler, Thomastown, was the purchaser.

FORTY-TWO THOUSAND HOUSES COMPLETED IN FREE STATE

ACTIVITIES OF PRIVATE BUILDERS AND PUBLIC UTILITY SOCIETIES

THE house-building campaign in the Free State continues with unabated vigour, and the latest official information shows that up to the 30th September a total of 42,886 houses had been completed under the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Acts, 1932-36.

Of the total, 15,324 were new houses completed by private persons and public utility societies and 7,402 were houses reconstructed by private persons.

Dublin City and County had 11,207, of which 5,752 were new houses built by private builders and public utility societies, while local authority was responsible for 4,723 and 712 labourers' cottages.

In Cork City and County the total was 4,545, and there also the private builder was ahead of the local authorities with 1,491 against 1,156 new houses, and there were also 1,714 houses reconstructed by private persons, whereas Dublin County had only 20.

Co. Louth stands third in the list with 2,546, of which 1,046 were reconstructed by private builders.

Co. Mayo had a total of 2,302, of which 1,324 were new houses by private builders and utility societies.

Co. Galway, with a total of 2,341, had 1,255 new houses completed by private builders.

339 FOR CO. KILKENNY

Mr. P. J. Meghen, B.E., B.Sc., M.I.C.E., Commissioner administering the affairs of the Kilkenny County Board of Health, held a sitting at the Boardroom, Central Hospital, Kilkenny.

In connection with the erection of cottages throughout the county, the Commissioner said that he had received a letter of approval from the Minister sanctioning tenders for thirty new cottages. That meant that contracts had been entered into for 339 cottages approved in the two orders. In addition thirty-eight cottages were being proceeded with in Urlingford, and a fair number of cottages was now nearing completion. About twenty-seven cottages had been practically completed, and in the case of cottages in Freshford now practically completed he (Commissioner) was instructing the secretary to issue advertisements for applications from prospective tenants.

He had also heard from the Department that their inspector, Mr. Seamus Murphy, has been appointed to hold local inquiries into the two further orders made, one for the non-municipal towns scheme and the other for voluntary sites. The inquiry would be held before the end of the month. As soon as the inquiry would be held the engineer to the Board would proceed with the further schemes.

The lowest tender received by Dublin Corporation, that of Messrs. J. G. Malcolm and Co., Ltd., at £504, was accepted for the painting work, renewal of roofs, etc., in the Fruit, Vegetable and Fish Markets.

The lowest tender received, that of Messrs. L. and J. Duff and Co., at £179 15s., was accepted by Dublin Corporation for painting work in the Iveagh Markets.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO BUILDERS

Limavady Guardians adopted a scheme for selection of sites on which 151 labourers' cottages are to be erected.

Offaly County Board of Health has approved of raising the following loans:—£20,000 towards the cost of the new County Hospital; £12,568 for water supply to Clara; £8,000 to Banagher, £5,700 to Daingean.

Offaly County Council have applied to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health for sanction to the raising of a loan of £5,000 for the purpose of erecting and equipping vocational schools at Ferbane and Shinrone.

Ballymoney Rural Council decided to apply to the Ministry for a loan of £157,500 for building 420 cottages in the district. The cottages will have a small scullery, with three rows of shelving, sink and draining board, with drainage outside. There will be a kitchen and small bedroom on the ground floor and two bedrooms upstairs.

500 FOR LIMERICK

Two Corporation housing schemes are now in progress in Limerick City. Work has been started on the Distillery housing site, where 90 houses will be erected, and on the Island Field (No. 2 scheme) of 80 houses.

A site for 100 more houses has been acquired at Janesboro', while preparations are being made for the holding of an inquiry to declare the Carey's road area a slum clearance district. It is intimated that 500 houses will be necessary to meet the requirements of the people now resident in this district.

Mr. James Stokes, B.E., son of Mr. E. J. Stokes, Limerick, has received an important engineering appointment in Nigeria. Mr. Stokes has been resident engineer for the past few years on the housing schemes carried out by Limerick Corporation. His new appointment has been made by the Public Works Department, Nigeria.

£30,000 FOR CO. CLARE SCHOOLS

The Clare Vocational Committee recently decided to erect seven rural technical schools at an estimated cost of £20,000 provided that the Clare County Council sanctioned the raising of a loan for that amount. At a meeting of the Co. Council a deputation from the committee, headed by the Very Rev. Canon Vaughan, President, St. Flannan's College, addressed the Councillors in support of the scheme. The Council approved of the scheme and sanctioned the raising of the £20,000 loan. Coupled with a loan of £10,000 for two technical schools at Ennis and Kilrush, the total amount to be spent on all schools will be £30,000, which will mean a rate of three-farthings in the pound for thirty-five years, a grant from the Department being taken into account in the calculation of this rate.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Mr. Roosevelt's Election : "Captain Potts" : The Pillar Box
Mr. Hilton Edwards

Roosevelt

Last year various members of America's "Four Hundred" made up their minds that, if Franklin Delano Roosevelt was re-elected this month, they would pack up their things and quit. They figured it out that Franklin's relief schemes were going to break them—for, they said, in order to carry those schemes to fruition, he would be obliged to take all their money, or most of it, in taxes.

Now that Roosevelt has won his election, I suppose, the exodus will start immediately. But I wonder if the quitters will be allowed to take their fortunes out of America with them.

Perhaps, some of them will come to Ireland. I have heard of quite a number of Americans who are anxious to spend at least six months of the year here in Ireland. Their wealth would be of real use to the farmer, but our taxing masters are as difficult to cope with as President Roosevelt, so I suppose these expatriated Americans will have to be content with a home in the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne, or a place in Leicestershire or Scotland.

But I hope, for America's sake, that her rich and leisured classes will remain there; for I believe, with Arthur Griffith, that an aristocracy, however many its faults, is necessary to a country.

Home from Sea

I am grieved to learn that my old friend, Captain Foster, of the Irish Coast Life-saving Service, has died. I had lost touch with him since a memorable day, about four years ago, when in my presence he destroyed an extraordinary "log" which he had composed in the course of a lengthy voyage during the 'eighties. He read me some extracts from that log; and to this day I repent that I lacked the courage to prevent him from destroying it.

A remarkable person he was. From his early years he had followed the sea: starting as a fisherman's boy, and rising, as men did by hard work and ability in those days, to command his own ship. He served on the Atlantic packet-boats out of Liverpool at a time when the tough mates —we know of them now from Conrad and Clark Russell and Frank Bullen and Morley—made a seaman's life a hard one. What exactly a "Sou' Spainer" is I do not know. But that it is something important in seamen's eyes I have gathered from the admiring tones of those who told me that Captain Foster had been one.

There can be hardly a port in the seven seas that he did not visit at one time or another. Nor have there been many people whom he honoured with his confidences about his innumerable experiences, and I take pride in the fact that I was one of them.

But many people who never knew him in the flesh have known him as "Captain Potts" of Mr. Denis Johnston's play, "The Moon in the Yellow River," and, as often as I see that admirable play, his image will come before me again.

Newmarket December Sales

The Newmarket December Sales, for which preparations are now being made, are among the most interesting of the year at the English racing headquarters. These Sales attract the purchasing breeder on both sides of the Channel, and the man on the look-out for a good brood mare or a cheap one, or a bargain in a colt or filly, is already planning his trip to Newmarket.

I notice, however, that there will not be many big drafts from Ireland this time. Perhaps, this is really a good sign, as it may mean that people are retaining their stock.

There are some executors' lots in the list—notably those the property of the late Mr. J. Sheppard. Major Holliday is sending up a few animals out of training, and some brood mares as well. Sir Walter Nugent has something in the list. The Haras de Piencourt-Bailleul are sending over some mares from France, and the executors of the late J. Johnston Cooney are offering a mare.

Pillar-Boxes

The Oxonians who have been protesting that scarlet pillar-boxes clash with the greenery and mellow greyness of Oxford cannot ever have tried to find a green wall box on a dark night. Have you ever passed along a strange suburb in search of a pillar- or wall-box, even in daylight?

It may have been patriotic to paint these things green, but it was not kind. Everything appertaining to the old pillar-box was thought out carefully on utilitarian lines, and the conclusions of their designers should have been respected.

The pillar-box is circular so that letters should not cling in the corners and be overlooked by the groping hand of the postman. They are painted red so that they should be easily visible—the brightest possible red. They have a domed top to allow the rain to pour freely from them. The base is black to show mud-splashes as little as may be. The lip is given a little pent-roof to keep the rain from entering the interior. Where they are large they are oval, not circular, to occupy less of the width of pavements. The little entablature about the rim is the only non functional element in the entire design.

I had almost rather our pillar-boxes were painted green, white and yellow than that they should be camouflaged so successfully from the eye by this secretive dark green!

Odd Man Out (of Work)

That interesting Saturday night feature of the B.B.C., called "In Town To-night," has for some time made a feature of curious jobs.

Men who work in the great underground sewers of London, men who collected newts and toads and frogs for the research laboratories of the big hospitals and universities, rat-catchers, a man who used to carry the red flag before his employer's motor car in the long ago—they all have come before the microphone.

But the man who does the occasional peculiar job has not been enlisted. The recent report from Glasgow's office of the Ministry of Labour should supply a goodly list. They have sent to one lecturing bureau a man whose required qualification was a particular kind of squint, and a big department store has got from them (for a special window display) the "dead spit," as we say, of Long John Silver, a man with a wooden leg.

In London I know a firm called "Useful Women," which might also help with such a list. It publishes a list of the odd jobs that its members can fill, and a comical list it is, in parts, ranging from ladies who will take the dog for an airing to ladies who can play bridge and look like ladies at the same time. I once met a girl who assured me that her job was to count the bits punched out of the tickets by tramway collectors; but I am wondering. . . . Anyway, tickets are never punched now in that way.

Still, there must be women who spend all day sewing glass eyes into tiger rugs. When once I went to the gifts department of a famous make of cigarettes to present my four hundred coupons there was a girl who seemed to do nothing else but measure these bundles with a heavy pair of callipers!

"Twelfth Night"

Mr. Hilton Edwards is at present rehearsing "Twelfth Night" at the Gate Theatre, where it will be staged next week. "Twelfth Night" is one of the Shakespeare plays selected by the Egyptian Government for production by Mr. Edwards in Cairo next March. The other is "Othello," and it will not be produced in Dublin.

This is the first time that Mr. Edwards has produced "Twelfth Night"—to my mind the most delightful of Shakespeare's comedies—at the Gate Theatre. It is one of the later comedies; for it was first seen at a feast in the Middle Temple during February, 1602.

After "Twelfth Night" Mr. Edwards has planned to produce "Laburnam Grove," by J. B. Priestley.

"Artist's Model"

I hear that Mr. Michael Egan has been in Ireland recently searching for a small, dark actress to play opposite Mr. Arthur Sinclair in "Artist's Model"—and has, it appears, found her.

He wrote this play two years ago, according to report, and has waited ever since for the time when Arthur Sinclair would be free to create the part of the Irishman in it. The play contains six characters in all, but only two are Irish.

Michael Egan, who is author of "The Dominant Sex," a definite box office success in London, is a Kilkenny man. He was educated at the Marist College in Dundalk, and after leaving Ireland at an early age he took up journalism in London for a time. Then in later years (he is now forty) he became connected with the Embassy Theatre, where his new play will shortly be produced.

GARDENS FOR NEW HOUSES

A talk on co-operation between professional gardeners and new householders was given by Mr. D. F. MacSweeney, Deputy-Chairman of the South County Dublin Horticultural Society, to professional gardeners at a meeting in Dun Laoghaire last night.

He pointed out that many new houses were being built in and around Dun Laoghaire. Good, well-planned gardens not only improved the general appearance of the district, but added something to the value of the house. Gardeners, by offering their advice, could not only help to give the district a good "face," but would be finding more remunerative work for themselves.

Mr. MacSweeney spoke of the growing importance of the South County Dublin Horticultural Society shows—one of which is to be held next week—and asked for the co-operation of professional and amateur gardeners to improve the appearance of new housing areas and to still further increase the value of the local shows to horticulture.

GERMANY UNDER ADOLF HITLER

A Country of Intensive Building Schemes

THE "KRAFT DURCH FREUDE" MOVEMENT: A FINE EXAMPLE

(BY NICHEVO)

(SIXTH ARTICLE.)

It would be churlish to deny that there are many good points about Herr Hitler's Germany. Outwardly, at any rate, the country, if not prosperous, seems to be exceedingly active. The apathy that was so manifest in the Germany of a few years back has disappeared, and one senses a feeling of, at least, temporary security, which was notably absent then. Part of the Nazi philosophy is to keep the people busy. The result is that everybody is working, and working like grim death. When the Nazis took over power in 1933 there were some six million unemployed in the country. Now there are only little more than one million, and, according to the party agents, the number is being reduced every week. It is true that the workers are not getting much money. They have to be content with wages at which the humblest Irish worker would turn up his nose; but Herr Hitler takes the view that it is better to have a large number of people drawing small money than to have a smaller number drawing big money, and he and his propagandists have managed to convince millions of their fellow-countrymen that almost anything is better than to be on the dole.

Building Up

"Adolf Hitler Baut Auf!" Hitler is building up. This slogan one sees everywhere, and there is no doubt that it is true. Wherever you go in Germany—in the cities, in the towns, even in the depth of the country—you will find extensive building operations in progress. Germany even before the War was a good-looking country, with fine public buildings and all that sort of thing. Now it is infinitely better-looking. During the period when the German Government and municipalities were borrowing money from the United States in almost unlimited amounts many of the cities were virtually rebuilt; and now, without the aid of foreign loans, Hitler is continuing the process at an increased tempo. All Bavaria gives the visitor the impression that it was built last year. All over the place you see new buildings, railway stations, hospitals, municipal offices and the like, and they are being built in double quick time.

Take the case of Berlin. I was there last autumn when the big disaster occurred on the portion of the Underground Railway that was being constructed in the Unter den Linden. The thing was only in its infancy then, and half of the Linden, from the Friedrichstrasse up to the Brandenburger Tor, was piled up thirty feet high with earth from the excavations. The whole work now has been completed. Every trace of untidiness has been removed, and right down the Linden have been erected twin lines of new electric lights, giving it a brilliance at nights that makes it comparable with the Champs Elysees. Then there is the new building that belongs to the Air Ministry. When I was in Berlin last year there was no such thing as an Air Ministry; for Germany officially had no Air Force. It was described as the Ministry for Air Sport, or something equally euphemistic. Furthermore, the building was only being started. Now it is complete, with its three thousand spacious offices, having arisen like one of Aladdin's palaces in an incredibly short space of time.

New Motor Roads

These and many other similar achievements must be written down to the credit of the Nazi Government. Certainly no time has been lost. On most building operations which I saw in progress work goes on continuously. Men are at work during the night as well as during the day, and there is no such thing as ca'ing canny in the new Germany. Every man works as if his life depended on his job, and, as it probably does, one has an explanation of the artisans' unusual zeal. Very large numbers of men are at work on the new motor roads, which are among Herr Hitler's most notable innovations. These roads are incomparably the best in Europe, if not in the world. They are almost dead straight, avoiding the cities and towns, and when they are finished they will run right through Germany. It has been suggested that their main purpose is strategic—to reinforce the magnificent network of the German State Railways; but, whether they are or not, they are marvellous roads, and a joy to the motorist. There are no cross roads or herring-bone entrants. These are carried either over or under the motor roads by means of bridges, and for those who wish to leave, or to enter, the motor roads loop-lines are provided which enable them to slip unobtrusively off the main track.

There is at the moment no speed limit. Germany has pretty powerful cars, and when you see a big Maibach or a Horch flashing along at between eighty and ninety miles an hour, you get a real impression of speed—particularly if it happens to be coming towards you. The German Government, however, has adopted a measure which is providing a very efficient safeguard against furious driving. If a motorist is convicted of undue speed, the traffic department affixes a washer, or some equally effective gadget, to the throttle, seals it with an official seal, and then lets the driver loose once more, but now he may step on the gas as hard as he likes, but he will not do more than thirty miles an hour. This check on the motorist's speed is maintained for a stated period, during which he must pay periodic visits to the authorities to see that he has not been monkeying with the seal, and, although the system has been in operation only for a short time, it already is stated to have worked wonders. Do not ask me how all this building is financed. I just cannot guess. Everybody knows that Germany has hardly any money and virtually no credit—and whatever cash she has is being devoted to rearmament, on which millions are being spent. Yet apparently her almost bankrupt Government can afford to promote by far the most extensive and most efficiently run schemes of public reconstruction in Europe. It all seems very queer.

Kraft Durch Freude

As I said already, the men who have been reabsorbed into German industry from the ranks of the unemployed do not get much money; but, as a quid pro quo, they do see life. The Hitler Government realises that, in the last analysis, it can remain in power only if it can contrive to keep the workers quiet, and consequently it has been devoting a great deal of its attention to the development of the Socialist side of its National-Socialist policy. In pursuit of this aim it has produced one of the most brilliant and successful schemes of social reform in the history of civilisation. I refer to the so-called Kraft durch Freude movement. Kraft durch Freude means strength through enjoyment, and the movement is known everywhere as Kah-dey-eff (KDF). The basic idea is to promote proletarian efficiency and contentment by giving the working classes some of the privileges and opportunities that formerly were available only for the well-to-do; and it has been worked out in a really magnificent way. It is the one thing in the new Germany which deserves unqualified praise.

The system was explained to me in some detail by the chauffeur of a big manufacturer from Stuttgart, who happened to be staying in Berchtesgaden, and I was more than pleased to be able to hear the worker's individual point of view. The KDF movement operates in two ways. One is by the provision of cheap holidays for the workers; the other by paying close attention to their cultural development. The holiday business is organised with really astonishing skill. Every worker, in order to take advantage of the KDF movement, must be a member of the German Workers' Front, which, in effect, is a gigantic trades union, lacking only the right to strike! Every member must be given a certain holiday period during the good months of the year, and he is encouraged to spend it as far away as possible from his home and his work. The facilities that are provided for him are extremely wide. German liners run cruises to the Canary Islands, to the Norwegian fjords, and around the several Baltic ports. The cruises to Madeira last for about a fortnight, costing fifty marks a head, and the travellers are given excellent food with all the advantages of liner life. All these ships are crowded; for the German always was a great traveller, and, as the workers are encouraged to take their wives and children with them, the benefits of trips abroad are spread over the widest possible area of the population.

For those for whom fifty marks represent an exorbitant figure—and there are many such in the new Germany—very much cheaper holidays are provided at home. My chauffeur friend told me that he and his wife had had a fortnight on the Rhine, at very good hotels, for thirty marks each, including their return fares from Stuttgart. Similarly cheap rates, he said, were to be had in all parts of the country, with the result that the Hamburger was taking his family to Bavaria, the Rhinelander was taking his family right across the country to Silesia, or up to one or other of the North Sea or Baltic resorts, and so on. In addition to these longer holiday undertakings, provision also is made for the "week-end." Germany has not yet adopted the British system of the "long week-end"—which, according to one of my German friends, is likely to bring about the ultimate collapse of the British Empire!—but the worker can get off from Saturday midday until Monday morning. In order to enable him to get away from his working surroundings, the KDF movement supplies enormous 'buses, in which, for an absurdly small sum, he and his relatives can get away into the country or to the seaside at frequent intervals. I saw several of these 'buses in Bavaria while I was there, and, although the weather was anything but favourable, they all seemed to be packed with cheerful-looking workers.

Things of the Mind

The other part of the KDF movement is less spectacular, but, in some respects, even more valuable from the national point of view. Germany's educational system is admirably thorough. The average workman is far more literate in Germany than in any other European country outside Scandanavia, and one often finds that his tastes are inclined towards æsthetics. To develop this tendency, and to give the working classes an interest in things of the mind, the KDF movement has organised things in such a way that workingmen can get extremely cheap tickets for the opera and the theatre. He is admitted free of charge to certain picture galleries, museums and the like, and, although in this country it may seem superfluous to admit navvies and dock labourers to such places, you would be surprised to see how many men of this type take advantage of their opportunities in Germany. Lectures on scientific subjects in popular form, concerts, recitals, etc., also are provided by the KDF. Everything possible is done by Herr Hitler—whose sympathy with the working man is possibly his finest quality—to break down the cultural barriers between the proletariat and the middle classes. "We are no longer men of the second class (Menschen der zweiten Klasse)," said a worker to me. And in that fact lies the secret of much of Hitler's popularity.

PICK OF WEEK-END WIRELESS

TO-DAY

"SLICES OF LIFE," at 7.40, will bring people in various walks of life to the Radio Athlone microphone to-night, when they will describe some of their experiences. Arthur Johnson follows in a violin recital at 8.10, to be followed (at 8.30) by the programme of Musical Comedy Memories given by the Station Orchestra and Maisie Cranfield. For this broadcast, and in Tea Time Music at 5.45, the orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Vincent O'Brien.

Sir Henry Wood is the distinguished guest conductor under whom the Northern Ireland Orchestra will play in a concert at the Ulster Hall, Belfast, when portion of the programme will be relayed. The orchestra, augmented for the occasion, will be led by Philip Whiteway. They are playing, among other works, the Second Symphony of Sibelius. Jo Vincent (soprano) is to sing two Handel arias to orchestral accompaniment.

A short recital of humorous songs by Percy French, sung by Sam Carson (baritone), occurs at 9.45, also from Northern Ireland.

Chamber music, played by noted chamber musicians, offers itself from two of the B.B.C. stations. The Regional recital will be given by the Isolde Menges Sextet, assisted by Sophie Wyss (soprano). At 8.40 West Regional listeners will hear another of the Cardiff Ensemble Chamber Music Concerts, relayed from the National Museum of Wales.

"That Advertising is a Burden to Industry and Harmful to the Community" is a startling title. This subject will be debated to-night between Dr. C. P. Snow, Fellow and Tutor of Christ's College, Cambridge, and Mr. Barrington Hooper, Managing Director of Industrial Newspapers. Sir Michael Sadler, the distinguished educationist, will act as chairman (Regional, 9.20).

TO-MORROW

ROSCREA contributes the main portion of Radio Athlone's Sunday broadcasting this week, the occasion being the Muintir na Tire Week-end at Roscrea. In the morning, commencing at 10.30, High Mass will be relayed from Mount St. Joseph's Abbey, Roscrea, when there will be a ten-minute sermon by Rev. Dr. R. Harrington, D.Ph., O.P.

From 4 to 6 will be occupied by a relay of the proceedings of Muintir na Tire Week-end, at which the speakers are the Hon. Lord ffrench, Dublin, who will preside; Rev. E. J. Coyne, S.J., Tullamore; Rev. P. Swayne, Knockbeg College, and Major Little, Borris.

Later (at 9) a further relay from Roscrea will bring the Muintir na Tire concert, given under the direction of the Professor of Music at Mount St. Joseph's.

The music of Handel, including arrangements by Elgar and Harty, will be played by the B.B.C. Northern Ireland Orchestra, under the direction of Peter Montgomery. Joyce Newton (contralto) will be heard with the orchestra in the vocal items.

Remembrance Day Services are included among the religious broadcasts this week, while the "Week's Good Cause" is devoted, in every case, to an appeal for the Earl Haig Fund. The Jewish ex Service Men's Remembrance Service, conducted by the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire and by the Senior Jewish Chaplain to H.M. Forces, at which the music will be rendered by the Band of H.M. Scots Guards, will be relayed from the Horse Guards' Parade, Whitehall, at 4 (National).

The Sage of Ferney

Mr. Noyes Does Justice to Voltaire

(BY MONK GIBBON)

Voltaire. By Alfred Noyes. London: Sheed and Ward. 12/6 net.

ONLY a few years ago a croquet box—it is rumoured—at Malahide Castle disgorged a number of interesting documents which had been reposited there by some tidy soul. Among these was the journal of a young Scotsman touring Europe in the 18th century. "I took a coach for Ferney, the seat of the illustrious M. de Voltaire. I was in true spirits; the earth was covered with snow; I surveyed wild nature with a noble eye. I called up all the grand ideas which I have ever entertained of Voltaire. The first object that struck me was his church, with this inscription: Deo erexit Voltaire." Those who are surprised to hear that Voltaire erected a church to God will be still more astonished when they learn that Mass was said there regularly, and that Ferney sheltered a Jesuit priest who played chess with Voltaire in the evenings, and prayed daily that a little more Christian orthodoxy might be added to his patron's many unquestionably Christian virtues. That Voltaire was not a Christian—at least in Père Adan's sense of the word—did not trouble the young Scotsman unduly, for he himself was deficient in sympathy for religion. His name was James Boswell, and he even took the opportunity of admonishing the Jesuit on a subject on which he felt strongly. "Worthy father! I reasoned with him against the eternity of hell's torments. He could not escape from the opinion of the Church, but his humanity made him say, 'Je serais charmé s'il sera autrement.'"

Claimed by Sceptics

Voltaire has been too long the possession of the more extreme rationalists. They have not hesitated to put him to what they considered his best use, and they have been quite unscrupulous in omitting any other aspect of the man than that which seemed to serve their purpose. Because Voltaire was witty, had a strong sense of injustice, lived in an age when the abuses of religion must have been terribly evident even to those who had least wish to admit them, he has been claimed joyously by the sceptics and looked askance at by the devout. Partisans are blind to whatever does not serve their purpose, and in this case both sides have contributed liberally to the Voltaire legend, though actuated by different motives.

How distorted certain features of that legend are will soon become evident to those who can give a little time to Mr. Noyes's long, patient and extremely readable book. It is lively without being unscrupulous, serious without being tedious, and it is a rebuke to all those biographers who for a picturesque phrase are willing to falsify slightly their facts. Even Carlyle was not above making vigorous use of the gossip of lackeys for the sake of some thundering sentence. Other writers have interchanged occasions, transferred sayings from the lips of characters in Voltaire's novels to his own, accepting and supplementing whatever eighteenth-century chatter — preferably malicious — offered them, without enquiring too closely into either its source or motive. Worse still, whatever was not in keeping with their own conception of the man, they have either suppressed or used as an illustration of his spirit of raillery, so that even Voltaire's own utterances are met with a polite shrug of the shoulders when they seem inappropriate.

Voltaire and the Bishop

"The older one grows the more one ought to purge one's heart of bitterness. The best way of meeting calumny is to forget it. Every man ought to make sacrifices; every man knows that all the troubles of this fleeting life are lost in eternity; and that resignation to God, love of our neighbour, justice, beneficence, are all that remain to us in the sight of the Creator of all ages and all beings. Without the virtue that Cicero calls caritas generis humani, man is only the enemy of man; he is only the slave of vanity, of empty pomp, of frivolous distinctions, of pride, of avarice, and all the passions. But if he does good for the love of good; if this duty (purified and consecrated by Christianity) rules in his heart, he can hope then that God, before Whom all men are equal, will not reject the affections of which He is the eternal origin. I annihilate myself with you before Him; and, not forgetting the formulas introduced among men, I have the honour to be respectfully, etc." This is not a bishop rebuking Voltaire: it is Voltaire rebuking a bishop.

It may be said that Voltaire had too much depth, too passionate a detestation of injustice and too fine an intelligence, to be irreligious in the sense in which shallow minds are irreligious. The conception which Maurois's facile little book, or even Ludwig's brilliant essay, gives of him is more than a little misleading. Richard Aldington, in his introduction to "Candide," though his sympathies are in the same quarter, is more honest. He accuses Voltaire of "trying to think scientifically with a mind which, for all its alertness and clarity, was still encumbered with theology." How many fine minds besides Voltaire's have been similarly encumbered!

The Impish Element

No biographer ever gives us a complete man. It is possible that Mr. Noyes will be accused of under-emphasising the frivolous, impish element in Voltaire, and that those who may turn from this biography to some of the tales will receive a shock. The Maupertuis incident receives full justice, and could not be more amusingly summarised than in the chapter devoted to it. But Voltaire's wit on that occasion was in deadly earnest; nor was it ever seen to better advantage than in the Diatribe of Doctor Akakia. Mr. Noyes, though his honesty of purpose is a rebuke to most of his predecessors, is not without his prejudices. His analysis of the Châtelet ménage probably goes considerably nearer the truth than has been gone before, but his treatment of Madame du Châtelet herself is harsh to the point of savagery. It is difficult to believe that Voltaire could have endured so long or mourned with such obvious sincerity a woman either so stupid or so entirely unpleasant as Mr. Noyes makes her outlook to be. And he omits what, perhaps, was worth keeping; the anecdote which makes Voltaire, when the whole question of that tragic parentage is being discussed in solemn conclave, finish the conversation suddenly with: "We will simply include the child among Madame's miscellaneous works."

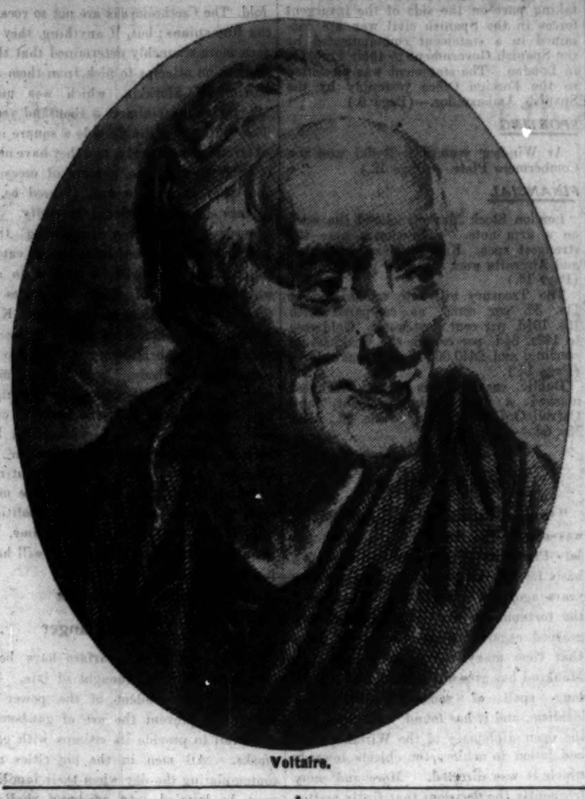

"Ecrasez l'Infame!"

Mr. Noyes's book is a profound study of a being in whom many moods alternated, an attempt to penetrate the mask and to reach the man. And the evidence offered is not the chatter of a Grafigny, but Voltaire's own words. The great Frenchman has been too long left the exclusive possession of the scoffers and cynics. "Je voudrais que vous écrasiez l'inf——" he wrote to d'Alembert. "That is the greatest service one can render to the human race." But he added—and those who are fondest of quoting "Ecrasez l'Infâme" are most loth to complete the quotation—"You know well that I speak only of superstition. As for religion, I love and respect it as you do." Mr. Noyes is not blind to the iniquities of bigotry (his statement of the Calas case is proof of this), nor is he blind to that spirit of worldliness which can make religion a complete mockery while conforming to its outward practices. But religion is something more than its abuses. It is something more even than the pundits of theologians or the speculations of metaphysically-inclined minds.

The Inward Spirit

"He has been judged again and again," says Mr. Noyes in the concluding paragraph of his book, "on the cruder and more superficial witticisms that, in isolation, have little significance. If he is to be judged by isolated sayings at all, we might well choose a subtler and deeper epigram, revealing the inward spirit which so constantly shines out in so many of his more important works all through his life. None of his sayings has more of that many-sided spirit in it than his devastating reply to the philosopher who wanted to start a new religion and consulted Voltaire about the best way of doing it.

"'The best way,' said Voltaire, 'is to get yourself crucified, and then rise from the dead.'"

German Winter

A Conscientious Picture

German Journey. By Christopher Sidgwick. London: Hutchinson. 18/- net.

MR. SIDGWICK, on a raw January morning, set out to discover how Germany proposed to tackle a hard winter. He already had lived in the country for quite a considerable time, and enjoyed life on the "musical comedy" banks of the Rhine; but now he thought that "the time had come for a sly prowl along the murky streets, a glimpse of life in the labour camps, in the concentration camps, in the home of the ordinary German man." With this purpose he "packed a bag with clothes, maps, films, notes and books, took a Zeiss and a Remington, and went to Croydon." He had no special facilities for the examination he was about to make of Hitlerism, but he "let it be known in certain well-chosen circles" that he was coming.

Old Arguments

There is queer quality about this book, almost of lifelessness, or slowness, and yet it is occasionally quite humorous. Mr. Sidgwick writes in an undistinguished, direct manner, and he is extremely conscientious, and extremely fair. Both sides are granted the stage with almost monotonous regularity. Yet neither side produces a new argument. All the known facts are reproduced—Hitler has saved the country from anarchy . . . . . Nazi propaganda is revolting . . . . . a superbly healthy race is being built in the Labour Service . . . . . men die slowly in concentration camps, paralysed with fear. Perhaps it is that Mr. Sidgwick is ordinarily observant, without having that minute precision of observation that really brings the unknown before one's eyes.

German Cities

In his distinctive descriptions of the cities of Germany, however, Mr. Sidgwick is notably successful. To him each city has its own personality, and the reader will find that he retains the same impression himself. Bremen, Hamburg, Hanover, Berlin, Danzig, Nuremberg, Munich and Heidelberg are only a few of the cities which Mr. Sidgwick visited, and he has described so well their charms and their failings that they really live. If this book had been written in quicker tempo it would have been quite absorbing. As it is one's attention is inclined to wander.

Rambles in Irish

An Excellent Translation

Cam-Chuarta i n-Eirinn (Rambles in Eirinn). William Bulfin (Che Buono) do scriobh i nBéarla. Eoghan O Neachtain do chuir Gaedhilg air. Baile Atha Cliath: Oifig Diolta Foilseachán Rialtais. 2/6 net.

ALTHOUGH it is nearly thirty years ago since William Bulfin published his "Rambles in Eirinn," his work has not yet lost its appeal. In its time it was an Irish book of the year. In it Bulfin was one of the first to break away from the stiffness and formality of the ordinary guide book. He wrote it in serial form originally, for the information of Irish people in South America. By invitation he reprinted it in Ireland in the United Irishman and Sinn Fein, and in the United States in the New York Daily News. Its freshness, originality, humour and urbanity made it an instantaneous success, and although it has had many successes it is still worth reading as the work of a broad-minded and much-travelled Irishman who looked at his country and people through Irish eyes.

Idiomatic Irish

The Ireland of thirty years ago has passed away, but out of it has grown the Ireland of to-day. Bulfin was not a Lynn Doyle, but much of the Ireland of this stormy century can be learned from a comparison and contrast between "Rambles in Eirinn" and "The Spirit of Ireland."

Eoghan O Neachtain has now turned Bulfin into excellent, if highly idiomatic, Irish. The author would have appreciated that. Since the publication of this Irish version another contributor to this volume has followed Che Buono to the other world. The late "Sean-Ghall" was the writer of the introductory tribute to Bulfin. It was characteristic of "Sean-Ghall" that he should correct the impressions Bulfin had formed of the Ulster Black North.

Eighteenth Century Dublin

Mr. Bulkeley's Visits

Mr. Bulkeley and the Pirate. Edited by B. Dew Roberts. London: Oxford University Press. 7/6 net.

MR. BULKELEY was an eighteenth century squire who lived at Brynddu, Llanfechell, Anglesey, and could claim kinship with the Viscounts Cashel. He kept his diary with unfailing regularity up to the time of his death, and, although many facts of historical and social interest relating to Anglesey at that period are recorded, the references to Dublin may have more interest.

Extracts from Mr. Bulkeley's accounts of his journeys from Holyhead to Dublin and back are given, and particulars of these appeared in the Irish Times of September 14th, 1931. Here it may suffice to mention that Mr. Bulkeley had a cousin, William Parry, who was a registrar in Dublin, and whose brother, Ben., had a post as keeper in the Phœnix Park. Mr. Bulkeley's object on the first visit to Dublin, March, 1735, was to bring his daughter over to stay with the Parrys, a visit which was to have its sequel later

Dublin's Pleasures

We cannot but agree with the editor that Mr. Bulkeley was "evidently determined to drink deep of the pleasures of the town"; he records spending as much as 4s. 6d. or 5s. in an evening on punch, or 1s. 8d. for a quart of wine or claret; and another night he and Mr. Parry were treated to "a skinful" of claret by two gentlemen from Waterford. Theatres were visited, though we are told that the diarist makes no criticisms on the plays or the actors. The first piece he saw was "The Beggar's Opera" in the new playhouse in Longford street, where later in the month he saw "The Tragedy of Don John."

Under the date of December 15th, 1735, Mr. Bulkeley records being at the first play ever acted at the new playhouse in Smock Alley; this was "Harry the IVth.," and later he saw here "The Recruiting Officer." The editor in a footnote quotes Gilbert's "History of Dublin," which says that Smock Alley was re-opened on December 11th, 1735, with "Love Makes a Man" or "The Fop's Fortune," but considers that the diarist who was on the spot at the time is more likely to have been right.

"The Pirate"

Later we meet "the Pirate" in the person of Mr. Fortunatus Wright; who actually was a merchant and privateer. He married Mr. Bulkeley's daughter in Dublin, after a career of "villainous imprudence" in which that lady had been all too closely involved.

The Rise of Hitler

Criticism that Falls Flat

Hitler and the Nazi Dictatorship. By Frederick L. Schuman. London: Hale. 10/6 net.

HERE is a large, laborious study of Hitler and Nazi Germany which is offered as an impartial work. We would like to read a book which the author would consider partial. In his 500 close pages he has no good at all to say for the men whom he depicts as degenerates, madmen, murderers. He describes Hitler's rise, the "Blood Bath" of 1934, and the present régime.

Certainly, the grim facts of the revolution in Germany deserve clear statement. He is a strangely insensitive mind who dares to applaud the Nazi creed and Nazi methods. Yet one need be no partisan to affirm that Germany has progressed in power and order under the new rule; that the vast material works like the new highways have called forth the highest genius in construction; and that mere criminal lunatics never could achieve all this.

This book is so extreme in its condemnations that it never convinces. In fact, Herr Hitler may be helped by its circulation; for readers will think that only a good man and a sound cause could be abused so passionately. This is a pity. Cool, firm criticism of Nazism is needed by Germany, and would help the world.

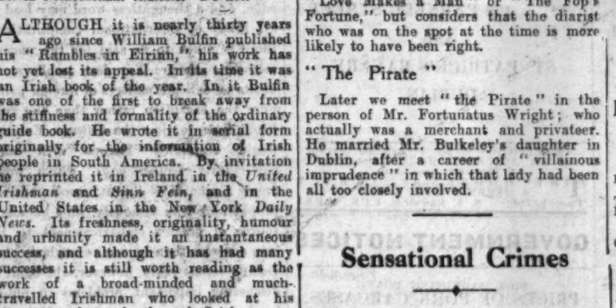

Herr Hitler.

Sensational Crimes

Corpus Delicti. By David Whitelaw. London: Bles. 10/6 net.

THOSE ghoulishly inclined will find their morbid tastes fully satisfied by Mr. Whitelaw's critical examination of a number of sensational crimes. The author, who is a prominent member of the "Crimes Club," has studied his subjects carefully and methodically, and he divides his material into three parts, according to the means employed by the criminals in disposing of their victims through the media of earth, fire or water. His work is meritorious, inasmuch as he deals with a number of crimes unknown or at the most barely heard of in these islands, as many of his subjects come from the United States or the Continent. Particularly interesting are his careful analyses of the various crimes, and the way in which he shows how so very often the seemingly perfect crime is marred by some minute unforeseen flaw which eventually brings the evil-doer to justice.

"In Praise of Dogs"—one of the illustrations.

The course of Bulfin's travels can be followed easily in the half-dozen excellent maps accompanying the text, and there is a useful index—too rare a feature in books in Irish. Printers, binders and publishers have done credit to themselves and honour to author and translator by turning out a volume comparable to first-class work in any language, and at half-a-crown this Bulfin in Irish is marvellously cheap.

The Dog in Literature

In Praise of Dogs. By C. M. Harnett. London: Country Life. 10/6 net.

MR. HARNETT presents a charming anthology for dog-lovers, and the extracts cover a wide range of writers from Homer up to the present day. Owing to the enormous amount of material the choice has been hard, but the selection is excellent. In the course of his research Mr. Harnett remarked how interesting it was to notice how some writers were manifestly dog-lovers while others merely ignored them, the division being quite a sharp one. Shakespeare showed no interest in dogs, nor, among others, did Milton, Shelley or Keats. Wordsworth, on the other hand, was a devotee, while Scott's dogs are immortal. Thackeray left them severely alone, but Dickens knew dogs intimately, and portrayed them among the noblest of his characters. The inclusion of sixteen beautiful studies of dogs of various breeds from chalk and pencil sketches by Mr. G. Vernon Stokes gives a finishing touch to a very attractive volume.

A Man of Action

Scott of the Shan Hills. By C. E. Mitton. London: John Murray. 15/- net.

THE late Sir George Scott was one of those rare individuals who show a particular tact and ability in making peaceful contact with savage peoples. He it was who made possible the penetration of the Shan Hills of Burma with so little trouble. His handling of the wild tribes was masterly, and his becoming a "blood brother" to the most intractable people of all—the wild Was—was the greatest tribute that could be accorded to his tact and intrepidity. The story which his widow has written from his diaries, reports and personal papers is one of loyal, and at times thankless, service to his country. Scott was, first and foremost, a "doer," and gave small heed to honours or recognition, so that he made little enough out of his fine accomplishments. The stories now made public of his labours among the Burmese hill tribes and his handling of matters as the first Anglo-Chinese Boundary Commission are stories of great achievement and selfless devotion to duty; and, incidentally, they give much little-known information about the primitive peoples at the "back of beyond" in India. The book is a fine biographical work, and the photographs are unusual and interesting.

Shorter Notices

Sir Philip Sidney: A Study in Conflict. By C. Henry Warren. London: Nelson. 7/6 net.

WE have commended three volumes uniform with this on the Tudor and early Stuart periods. The present volume is agreeable reading, and may be commended, like the other volumes, for reading in schools where the teacher follows the sound plan of giving general reading on periods before drilling the students in the details of the programme.

In the brief account of Sidney in Ireland the author speculates on his hero's likely meeting with Grace O'Malley, or Granuaile. A chapter on Sidney as poet is good criticism, and would have pleased Elia.

A Blind Musician Looks Back. By Alfred Hollins. London: Blackwood. 15/6 net.

THE seemingly contradictory title of this book is fully justified by the great range of vivid recollection covered by this blind but most alert of men. In a work of over 170,000 words, all typed by himself, Mr. Alfred Hollins has told the story of a long life, handicapped with, perhaps, the saddest of disabilities, blindness, which he, nevertheless, overcame by his courage, perseverance and talent. Mr. Hollins has known most of the great musicians of his time, and he tells many a good story of these. He studied under Frits Hartvigson and Hans von Bulow, and met Anton Rubinstein, Saint-Saens, Liszt, Manns, and Paderewski. Though a fine pianist, to which Pachmann himself bears a tribute in the book, the author is best known as one of the world's great organists. In this respect he has travelled over much of the world, and, thanks to his fine senses and observational powers, he managed to "see" as much or more even than those fully gifted with keen sight.

New Novels

Lords and Masters. By A. G. Macdonell. MacMillan. 7/6 net.

MR. MACDONELL is in the happy position of being unable to write a novel that is unamusing. A few years ago he produced "England their England," and, although his subsequent publications have not quite lived up to the vastly elevated standard of that gem, they have maintained his reputation as one of the most witty of contemporary English novelists. Of late he seems to have been becoming a thought more serious, to have settled down in earnest to "de-bunk" the shams of modern life, and here, in his latest novel, he brings off his most violent "de-bunking" coup. "Lords and Masters" is all about armaments, and steel magnates, and a grizzled old millionaire, but in the course of the story Mr. Macdonell flays the life out of high society, intelligent army officers, Herr Hitler, society slummers, gay Lotharios, common cads, and a multitude of other matters. He has so many cracks to make that now and then he breaks completely the thread of his story to unleash them. Still, it does not matter, for Mr. Macdonell, talking about anything under the sun, is a joy for ever.

Old Heart Goes on a Journey. By Hans Fallada. Putnam. 7/6 net.

Hans Fallada writes a charming romance, partly fantastic and partly philosophical. A retired schoolmaster, gentle and childish, becomes involved in the rescue of his godchild, Rosemarie, from villainous and gold digging guardians. There is pathos and humour in the description of the old professor's unpractical efforts to give practical assistance to Rosemarie. Hans Fallada is a German with a lighter touch that the majority of his compatriots and English readers should enjoy in Mr. Eric Sutton's translation.

Laughter in Cheyne Walk. By Ursula Bloom. Collins. 7/6 net.

THE McGrath's were a great family. Father McGrath was a scientist who had the honour of being buried in Westminster Abbey. Mother McGrath wrote great novels; one son painted; a daughter gave 'cello recitals, and so on, but poor little Lesley, an "afterthought" of the parents McGrath, had no accomplishments whatever.

Miss Ursula Bloom is a popular novelist, and this novel should certainly add to her popularity; for in it she proves conclusively that Leslie McGrath, the perfectly ordinary young woman, without talent, artistry or a career, is the greatest of the McGraths simply because wifehood and motherhood loom on her horizon more importantly than anything else.

Bitter Summer. By Nancy Morison. Sampson Low. 7/6 net.

"Bitter Summer" is a triangular drama which is, perhaps, a little unnecessarily sordid and involved. The characters concerned are railway officials in Northern India, their women folk and some half-breeds. Vivien Selby is depicted first as the cause of all the disaster. On her way to rejoin her husband in India she indulges in a typical ship-flirtation; later conscience pricks her; later still she gives up the struggle; and later still again tragedy ensues. Then suddenly and without warning the author relents. Vivien is her heroine after all, and her honour must be vindicated. She gives the tail of her novel a twist which is not very credible or satisfactory.

Our Father. By Cardinal Lepicier. London: Burns, Oates and Washbourne. 5/- net.

THESE ten discourses illustrative of the "Our Father" are intended by the distinguished author to call the attention of lay faithful and clerics to the sublime thoughts in each of its invocations. His considerations are redolent of love of human beings, and are addressed not only to one creed. In the next edition, for many will be enamoured of this book, misprints should be amended.

Major Operation. James Barke. Collins. 8/6 net.

WE like the novels of James Barke. He has had always something to say about Scotland and Scottish people which only a Scotsman could say, and he has never up to the present sacrificed truth for stunts. In "Major Operation" everything is changed. He has become infected by the modern international craze for original presentation. The styles of some of these very revolutionary moderns have led him astray, and in attempting to give a gigantic impressionistic study of Glasgow City, through a series of kaleidoscopic close-ups he has betrayed his weaknesses and lost much of his strength. There are good things in "Major Operation"—things far too good to be overlooked or ignored, for a genuine talent cannot so easily be destroyed. But Mr. Barke should revert to his own style, which is infinitely more effective.

Edgar Prothero. By Hector Winkle. Duckworth. 7/6 net.

Edgar Prothero is, rather deliberately, something of an abstraction, and stands for Mr. English Everyman or Mr. John Citizen. We follow the course of his everyday life from the age of forty-five to that of fifty-two. We learn about his people, his business, his little peculiarities, and his home life. We know what newspapers he reads and what his opinions are. He is a nice little man, ordinary and dull as the house he lives in, and his wife, Bertha, is in every way his complement.

Long Vacation. By K. F. Tegart. Faber and Faber. 7/6 net.

"LONG VACATION," by K. F. Tegart, is rather a pleasing novel, and infinitely better than it sounds. To be told that it is about a clever young barrister on the verge of a nervous break down, who finds health, happiness and serenity in a country rectory, would drive away most sophisticated readers. But the rectory which is looking for a P.G. is no common rectory, and its inhabitants have individuality and charm. Mr. Tegart avoids the obvious in treatment, if not in plot.

A Doctor Abroad

A Doctor's Odyssey. By Victor Heiser. London: Cape. 15/- net.

FOR thirty years or so Dr. Heiser has wandered the earth for the Rockefeller Foundation, seeking to bring health, and then happiness, to the peoples of forty-five different nations. When he began his life's work among native peoples he found opposition on every side to the health regulations that he wished to impose, for they had their own way of life, and could be induced to change it only after years of arduous, heart-breaking labour.

Dread Diseases

In this long book he describes the causes and the course of such plagues as cholera, smallpox, hookworm, beriberi, malaria, consumption and leprosy, and though it most definitely is not reading for the unduly squeamish, one quickly loses sight of the mere horror of the thing and becomes absorbed in the nearly unbelievable endurance, sympathy and courage shown by the doctors for their black, bewildered and ignorant patients. "A Doctor's Odyssey," however, is not all horrors, for Dr. Heiser can tell an amusing anecdote with a lively and fluent pen.

Homes in Japan

The Lesson of Japanese Architecture. By Jiro Harada. Edited by C. G. Holme. London: "The Studio." 30/- net.

THE author of this sumptuous volume is attached to the Imperial Household Museum at Tokyo. He has lectured in England and America, and now explains in a fascinating essay the principles of the building art as understood in his home-land: explains them, moreover, with a perfect understanding of what Westerners want to know.

"The lesson of Japanese architecture for the Western world," the editor says at the outset, "may be summarised briefly as standardisation, variety in unity, conformity to a mode of living, connection with nature, simplicity, and, of course, usefulness to purpose." As we turn the pages of magnificent photography, however, it is rather the poetic taste of the buildings which impresses us.

Hours may be spent in delighted admiration of these dwellings as depicted here so well; and we doubt not that some intrepid Western designers will conceive suggestions and give us, perhaps, a Japanese vogue in drawing-rooms.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

The Free State Government have fixed the standard price of flour at 47s. per sack, and the retail price of bread at 10½d. per 4lb. loaf.—(Page 9.)

The next move in the athletics' dispute between the N.A.C.A. and the International body lies with the Irish body. The new Irish body is ready to go forward with its plans.—(Page 9.)

ABROAD

Allegations that Italian soldiers are taking part on the side of the insurgent forces in the Spanish civil war are contained in a statement communicated by the Spanish Government to their Embassy in London. The statement was presented to the Foreign Office yesterday by the Spanish Ambassador.—(Page 9.)

SPORTING

At Windsor yesterday Rydal won the Combermere Plate.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL

London Stock Markets closed the week on a firm note. Tin shares were the strongest spot. Kaffirs, Mexican Eagles, and Aircrafts were also very prominent.—(Page 14.)

The Treasury bill rate was higher at 11s. 3d. per cent., as compared with 10s. 10¼d. per cent. last week. Gold rose to 142s. 6½d. per oz. on the weakness of sterling, and £440,000 in bars was sold.—(Page 14.)

Dublin market was firm. Guinness marked a further improvement, and Carroll Ord. rose 2s. 9d. to 34s. 9d., after 35s. 6d.—(Page 14.)

Whirling Words

"Open covenants, openly arrived at," was one of the many slogans which the late President Woodrow Wilson used as a basis for his international policy eighteen years ago, and a world that was sick of the tortuous ways of the old diplomacy grasped eagerly at this new idea. Since that time many things have happened. Mankind has grown disillusionised after a long spell of somewhat dishevelled idealism, and it has found, inter alia, that the open diplomacy of the Wilson period had failed to achieve the objects towards which it was directed. More and more frequently the decisions that really matter in the political world are being taken behind closed doors. The old machinery of the Chancelleries is at work again, and, taken all round, the results are at least as satisfactory as those that were obtained when Mr. Lloyd George and his diplomatic circus were perambulating throughout the Continent, holding conference after conference with but scant success. Particularly at a time when people's nerves are on edge, and a thoughtless word may lead to all kinds of international complications, there is much to be said for the ancient methods. In pre-War days public statements on delicate matters of foreign policy were the exception rather than the rule. From time to time the German Emperor would scandalise Europe with some particularly foolish gaffe, which would create a nine days' "sensation"; but few people took him seriously, and he was a source of greater embarrassment to his own advisers than he was to anybody else. During recent years, however, the habit of discussing important problems in public has been growing apace. Signor Mussolini and Herr Hitler have been notable sinners in this respect, and have pressed all the machinery of the cinematograph and the loud-speaker into their service in order that their remarks shall reach the widest possible audience. Neither is a conspicuously wise or tactful statesman, and the result has been that their periodical utterances have been keeping Europe in a condition of constant and increasing tension.

Signor Mussolini's speech at Milan the other day was a case in point. He took advantage of the occasion to deliver a somewhat ill-mannered lecture to Great Britain, manifestly under the influence of the heady wine of his military victory in Abyssinia; but the British people have become hardened to that sort of thing throughout the centuries, and nobody in the Commonwealth is likely to lose very much sleep as a result of the Duce's extravagances. Unhappily, he did not confine his rhodomontade to a "warning" to Great Britain: he also made a quite gratuitous reference to the case of Hungary. Those who remember the conditions that existed in the Danube Basin in pre-war days will smile rather cynically when they contemplate the spectacle of Italy's leader as a champion of Hungarian interests; but times are changing very rapidly in Europe at the moment, and people have ceased to worry about consistency. If Signor Mussolini had contented himself with a mere expression of sympathy with the Magyar cause, little harm might have been done, although even that attitude would have been ill-advised; but he went very much farther. He virtually informed the world that he proposed to secure redress for the alleged wrongs that had been inflicted on Hungary, thereby throwing down a very definite and impudent challenge, not only to Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, the States that had obtained territory at Hungary's expense after the war, but also to France and the Balkan Entente, which stand committed to the maintenance of the existing condition of affairs in Central and South-Eastern Europe. It is possible that his remarks were thrown out in the heat of the moment, because when dictators find themselves the idols of a hysterical crowd they are apt to throw diplomatic caution to the winds; but the fact is that he made them, and that they have caused something like consternation over a wide area. The Hungarians naturally are overjoyed, but everybody else along the Danube has been thrown into a state of high indignation.

If anything were needed to consolidate the unity of the Little Entente, Signor Mussolini's speech has had that effect. Dr. Juliu Maniu, of the Rumanian Peasants' Party, and a former Prime Minister, has answered the Duce in language which leaves no room for misunderstanding. Rumania obtained Transylvania from Hungary in 1918, thereby acquiring one of the richest areas of Central Europe, and Dr. Maniu informs Signor Mussolini plainly that an attack on Rumania's frontiers will mean war. The Rumanians, he declares, have no desire for war; but, if it should be forced upon them, they will wage it with "fanaticism." Another Rumanian statesman, Professor Nicholas Torga, who also is a former Premier, is almost equally emphatic in his words. He calls for a demonstration of Rumanian solidarity, and, it seems, arrangements will be made to hold such a demonstration on December 1st, which will be the anniversary of Transylvania's return to the Rumanian fold. The Czechoslovaks are not so vocal as the Rumanians; but, if anything, they are even more staunchly determined that there shall be no attempt to filch from them any portion of Slovakia, which was under Magyar rule for almost a thousand years. They will not willingly cede a square inch of territory to anybody, and they have made it perfectly clear on a score of occasions that they will go to war, if need be, in defence of their national integrity. The Yugoslavs have been improving their relations with Italy of late; but we cannot believe that they will be parties to any whittling down of their territories in favour of the Magyars. When King Alexander was murdered they very nearly went to war with Hungary without having consulted anybody, and the mere suggestion that their ancient enemy might be strengthened is sufficient to make even a Croat see red. Signor Mussolini has become the greatest mischief-maker in Europe. He seems to be entirely irresponsible in his treatment of the most delicate problems of international politics; and, if war comes again in our time, he, more than any other living man, will have been to blame for its coming.

The Dog in Danger

The horrors of air warfare have been the theme of much thought of late. No nation is so confident of the power of treaties to prevent the use of gas-bombs as to fail to provide its citizens with gas-masks. All men in the big cities are contemplating the day when their families may be hurried into gas-proof shelters under the ground, and the few defenders left on the surface will hope for survival in hermetic suits and helmets. The full character of the menace to civilisation is brought out in a curious piece of news in journals read by lovers of animals. The Canine Defence League, it seems, approached the British Home Secretary with the inquiry whether any measures would be taken to protect the lives of dogs. Would man's animal servants be left to suffocate when humankind was hurried to safety? The Home Secretary replied that the provision of gas-masks for dogs "was under consideration." Here is the grotesque mingled with the horrible. Cartoonists will draw with gusto the dog, cat and canary in gas-masks, but the imagination will conceive how the creatures will rush madly hither and thither, trying to rid themselves of an encumbrance that has been designed not by a mischievous, torturing boy, but by a merciful Department concerned for their defence. To animals masks will be as unnatural as muzzles. To men the unnatural is the only hope of life. Whether the fantastic project will be approved by the officials who are considering it, we cannot guess. Whether masks that animals will tolerate can be devised we do not know. What the problem shows beyond yea or nay is the abominable nature of modern warfare. Let gas-war come, and the tormented human beings who emerge at last from the gas-proof tunnels will find themselves in a world hardly able to support the life which they have managed to preserve. They will go with reeling minds to their homes, to find the watch-dog dead in the yard, the singing bird in its cage, and even the pests of the air on the floors. Then news will come in from the suburban dairies telling that the cattle have perished. From surrounding farm lands in the zone of war will come tidings of lost flocks and herds. The herbage itself may have died. When an experiment in chemical warfare was carried out in Russia, and a village evacuated of mankind was shelled, it was found afterwards that the gases had blighted the trees beyond recovery and had withered the grass. Thus must famine and pestilence ride after the death-dealing fleets of the sky. A gas-mask, perhaps, can be fastened on a dog, and the dog made to tolerate it; but the gardens and the fields cannot be rendered proof against poison. Man has used animals in his wars always. The horse had pawed the earth as it scented battle. The elephant has thundered down upon defenders' lines. Dogs have played the courier between trenches and base. Yet hitherto man's loyal dumb servants have been required to suffer only in the same proportion as their masters. Campaigns, therefore, have left man with his animal auxiliaries not more heavily depleted than his military ranks. This is the new horror: that the earthly lord of creation is likely to find himself robbed of subject creatures, and he cannot live without them. In the famine years men burnt the humus of Irish fields for manure and won a new harvest at the cost of soil impoverished for a long age to come. Organisms which had increased in the conquest of the inorganic during many centuries were destroyed in a season. Is man about to devastate on a more enormous scale the soil on which he lives?

National Roads

The problems arising from motor traffic are far more severe than those which arise from railway traffic, and the difference can be explained, roughly, by the statement that the first form of transport was "created," whereas the latter "just growed." After the first few years of confusion the railways became completely self-contained. They were given the power to build certain tracks for their own exclusive use, and Acts of Parliament were able to ensure that all the traffic which they carried should be subject to very strict regulations. The consequence has been that railway trains represent the safest of all forms of transport, while the motor cars, which have been allowed to develop almost without control, kill hundreds of people every week. Unlike the locomotives, they share their route with pedestrians, cart-horses and bicycles, and one cannot be surprised when the official figures show that they do not share it in safety. Sooner or later special tracks will have to be built for motorists, but the change cannot be made overnight, and in the meantime it is well to know that the authorities are moving gradually towards that end. The British Government, for example, seems to have taken a step forward by its decision to bring thousands of miles of trunk roads under its direct control. The new bill embraces 4,500 miles of main road in England, Scotland and Wales—or 17 per cent. of the total "first-class" mileage—and it will come into operation next spring. Under it most of the powers which formerly were exercised by local authorities will pass to the Ministry of Transport, and the latter, in its turn, will take over the whole financial burden which is involved in the maintenance of these roads. The change is not very far-reaching, but at least it will mean a greater degree of uniformity in the policy towards main roads in Great Britain, and it should pave the way for other changes.

Boxing Fans

The sport, as distinct from the art, of boxing has blossomed mightily since the days when Mr. John L. Sullivan set about his opponents with those painfully bare and gigantic fists. Mr. Sullivan received the adulation of boxing experts; but the modern heavy-weight counts as his very closest friends cabaret proprietors, patent food producers, correspondence colleges, politicians, theatrical stars, artistic photographers and thirteen million people whose knowledge of boxing is confined to the fact that men fight. The arrangement of a match these days is dignified by a series of complex negotiations which would not be out of place before a world merger of steel manufacturers, and so delicately adjusted is the final agreement that the smallest defection tends to throw it into a state of chaos wherein money can be the sole solution. There is no doubt, however, that an international heavy-weight contest supplies the earth with a positive orgy of frenetic speculation, rumour, humour and news; and, consequently, we welcome the Royal Air Force innovation at Uxbridge, as increasing still further the number of wheels within wheels. At this novices' boxing tournament electric fans were used in place of the inelegant, and, to a degree, ineffectual, towel-flapping that has been indulged in by seconds for centuries. The wiring for the fans was carried on telescopic arms which could be extended over the ring. This invention is important, because it shows inventors, and people who think they probably could invent something if they tried, a new field of effort. Boxing is too little mechanised. We would offer a spray to blast iced water into the faces of the contestants, and a portable wireless by which they might receive instructions while they were in action—if we did not feel so sure that somebody else had thought of these things yesterday.

COURT AND PERSONAL

Queen Mary yesterday visited the Imperial Institute, South Kensington, and in the afternoon went to see Field-Marshal the Duke of Connaught at Clarence House. He left London yesterday for Bath.

The Duchess of Gloucester is staying with Queen Mary at Marlborough House. On Thursday evening she attended the Gunpowder ball at Claridge's, in aid of the London Association for the Blind.

The Earl of Bradford will return to his residence in Shifnal, after spending the week-end in the country. The Countess of Bradford will spend a few days in London next week, after which she will join her husband at Shifnal.

The Countess of Dumfries has been spending a few days at Castle Forbes, Co. Longford. She is again Joint Master of the Longford Harriers, and was present at the opening meet at Moydow last Tuesday.

The Countess of Mayo was in Viscountess Curzon's party at the ball which was held at Grosvenor House, London, on Thursday night, in aid of the British Homœopathic Association; and in co-operation with the National Jewellers' Association the Countess of Mayo is now busy making arrangements for the Noah's Ark ball, to be held in Claridge's on the 16th November.

LONDON LETTER

THE KING'S EMPIRE TOUR

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

MR. MACKENZIE KING, the Canadian Premier, has stated that the King intends to visit Canada soon after the Coronation, and that it was hoped that the visit would take place as soon as possible after the return of the King from India. Mr. King was in London during October, and while here he had audiences with the King and Queen Mary. There has been no visit hitherto of the reigning Monarch to the Dominion, but as Prince of Wales the King, accompanied by the Duke of Kent, was in Canada in 1927. There is a possibility that the King while in Canada may pay a visit to the United States, as it may be recalled that in August last President Roosevelt invited him to pay such a visit when next in Canada.

Welsh Nationalism

The little Welsh party of thirty-five members in the House of Commons, which includes representatives of all parties, is suffering from a grievance which it will bring to the attention of the Government shortly. No mention of Wales was made in the Speech from the Throne, and a sense of neglect was intensified by the paragraph which promised to give close attention to the improvement of conditions in Scotland. In this connection it is said that the Prime Minister has been warned of the danger of neglecting Wales, where the national movement is steadily growing. At present the Welsh constituencies return only ten supporters of the Government, and these supporters state that there are five seats in Wales which can be won for the Government if it would pay greater attention to the requirements of the Principality.

The London Naval Agreement

The Anglo-Italian trade agreement signed at the Foreign Office in Rome to-night is expected to be followed by a resumption of the exports of British coal to Italy. Before the application of sanctions these exports formed about forty per cent. of the total export trade to that country. Another agreement signed to-day was the protocol of Part 4 of the London Naval Treaty which deals with the humanising of submarine warfare. It was signed by Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Japan, the Dominions and India. The signatories on behalf of Britain were Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty; Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, Lord President of the Council; and Mr. Eden, the Foreign Secretary. Signor Grandi, the Italian Ambassador, signed for Italy. Germany, it is learned, has already indicated that she will adhere to a similar agreement, and is expected to sign almost immediately.

Ireland and Rearmament

An article in The Witness, the organ of the Irish Presbyterian Church, regarding disarmament, quoted here to-day, has aroused interest in political quarters, inasmuch as it says outright what many people are thinking. There is a feeling of uneasiness that the rearmament policy of the Government is being hampered by official red tape, it states, and, if such is the case, the Government must act promptly, so that work for the protection of the Empire shall not be held up. Little is heard of Ireland's point of view on the rearmament question these days, which is not a little curious, as Ireland is as deeply interested in the matter as England and Scotland. A few days ago I was told by an Irishman that, in the event of another war, England would be only too glad to take Irish foodstuffs to keep her people going. In reply to a query as to whether he thought an enemy air force would not attack Ireland—if only to prevent the exportation of foodstuffs—he confessed that he had not even thought of such a possibility.

French Finance

The weakness of the franc in the London Foreign Exchange market reflects the fear of a political upheaval, culminating in the defeat of M. Blum's Administration. The decision of the Prime Minister that the Budget is to be passed this year with no resort to temporary votes on account was not unexpected, but it places him open to the danger of defeat on financial bills. The French financial position is not improved by the intention to extend the Maginot line of fortifications from the Channel to Geneva, adding over 300 miles to the fortified line, involving an enormous expenditure, to meet which a new loan will be necessary. The Budget will be unable to bear the total cost, though an initial grant to permit the work to be started has already been made.

The L.C.C. Elections

Conservatives and Liberals are to unite in a campaign against the Socialists in the London County Council elections next year. The example has been set in Southwark, where in each of the seats Conservatives and Liberals are fighting in conjunction in the Municipal Progressive, or United Front, ticket. This example has been followed in Shoreditch, South Hackney and South Poplar, where United Front candidates have been selected; while negotiations for a similar arrangement in other districts are taking place. If this movement is carried through to a satisfactory conclusion, the grip of Socialism on the London County Council should be shaken off. At the same time the organisers of the Conservative Party do not intend to be lulled into a sense of false security by their successes in the municipal elections. At these elections great use was made of the Parliamentary organisation of the Conservative Party, and there is no doubt that much of the success was due to the degree of co-ordination attained between the various branches of the party. Conservative electoral machinery has been improved to a considerable extent, and it is noteworthy that membership of the local organisations has shown a great advance in the last few months.

THE FIGHT FOR MADRID

AFRICAN TROOPS AT GRIPS WITH GOVERNMENT FORCES

SHELLS FALL IN CENTRE OF CITY

CLAIM THAT INSURGENTS ARE FALLING BACK

WITH the first shells falling on the city from batteries eight miles away, the last fight for Madrid has begun, it is reported in Lisbon.

The correspondent of the newspaper, "Diario de Lisboa," who telegraphs this news, adds that the first masses of African infantry, supported by hundreds of armoured cars and tanks, are now engaged in hand-to-hand fighting with the Government troops holding the front lines of the Madrid defences.

The insurgents' batteries at Alcorcon and Getafe have been shelling Madrid since yesterday dawned at 6 o'clock, while several air squadrons have been seen flying to Madrid, carrying tons of bombs.

Reports from the insurgent front lines say buildings in the Puerta del Sol, the central square of the city, have been destroyed by the bombardment.

The Government, on the other hand, claims that an appreciable advance was made by its troops in the afternoon in the fighting South of Madrid. The enemy are now stated to be "falling back with enormous losses."

A FORMIDABLE OBSTACLE

Reuter's Special Correspondent, John R. Allwork, telephoned the following despatch last night from Madrid at 10 p.m. (the hand of the censor could be seen in blank spaces in the message):—

The flash of the guns fired by Madrid's defenders and the distant crackle of the insurgent artillery can be clearly heard in the city to-night.

Most of the defence is concentrated on the south and south-west, where the danger is greatest. About a dozen insurgent 'planes flew overhead this evening, bombing the outlying districts and villages round Madrid which are still in Government hands.

From a vantage point on the heights I watched for some time as they tried to discover the Government batteries, which were keeping up a heavy and continuous fire on the insurgent positions round Romanes and Getafe.

FOR THE FRONT

As I left the Toledo road I saw a regiment, which must have numbered at least a thousand men, ready to march out to the front line, doubtless to relieve the troops who have been there all day under heavy shell fire and violent bombing.

The men look as cheerful as possible under the trying conditions, climatic and otherwise, since there is a bitterly cold wind blowing and a fine drizzle of rain.

The streets of Madrid continued to be thronged by pathetic streams of refugees — some, no doubt, who stayed in their villages till the last moment, others inhabitants of Madrid itself who have left their houses because they are continually under fire.

The barricades on the main outlets are now excellently finished off. Those constructed of torn-up cobblestones are at least a yard thick, and they should provide a formidable obstacle. Nine armoured cars, carrying light guns instead of the more ordinary machine-guns, are also in position around the barricades.

CALL TO MILITIA

Although insurgent bombs have fallen on many parts of the city, it is impossible to find out what damage has been done. There are far fewer people about the streets, but otherwise the population of Madrid has stood up to the continuous bombing and shell-fire very well.

A call to all militiamen in Madrid to present themselves at their barracks to-night was read over the wireless by the Minister of the Interior this evening. All who did not present themselves, he said, would be considered deserters, and would be "judged according to the necessities of war."

In order that Madrid's bread supply may not be affected, arrangements have been made for the bakeries to work day and night, the work being shared by all persons who have not been mobilised.

All refugees from Madrid's suburbs have been ordered to present themselves to a central housing committee if they want to be helped, and porters in all blocks of flats have been instructed to send in a list of available flats where refugees could be housed.

RECAPTURED

Another Madrid message says:—The War Minister announces that the Government forces have recaptured Navalcarnero, a small town about 18 miles south-west of Madrid on the Madrid-Talavera main road, which has been the scene of fierce fighting recently.

It was first captured by the insurgents on October 16th, after a bitter resistance. Four days later the Madrid militia made a counter-attack and apparently carried the town. The next day the insurgents invested it again. Since then it has apparently remained firmly in insurgent hands, though the Government, until the recent retreat, had repeatedly attacked it and bombed it from the air.

No insurgent 'planes flew over the city yesterday. The Government positions outside the city are unchanged. The nearest insurgent positions are in the neighbourhood of Carabanchel, about five miles from Madrid, and Villverde.

A report from the insurgent wireless Radio-Seville that internecine fighting has broken out in Madrid is denied.

IF MADRID FALLS

Minute plans have been made by General Franco for the immediate replacement of anyone with authority in Madrid, should it be captured. Whole sections of technicians have been organised to take over the running of the Post Office, trains, police, and the municipal administration of water, gas, electricity, etc.; also the Finance Department and the Department of Public Instruction.

Seven Government 'planes were brought down by nine insurgent 'planes in an air fight, according to an announcement by Radio Seville. Only one of the anti-Government 'planes crashed.

CABALLERO'S REPORTED THREAT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LISBON, Friday.

"I will stop them yet, but I will shoot myself if they break in. In no circumstances will I abandon Madrid alive."

Señor Largo Caballero, the Spanish Prime Minister, is reported to have made this statement to an intimate friend, according to a captured Government officer.

BRITISH GOODS PREFERRED

ANGLO-YUGOSLAV TRADE TALKS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BELGRADE, Friday.

"I hope that on the basis of increased purchases of our produce by Britain an agreement will be reached wiping out all difficulties in the way of mutual trade."

This statement was made to Reuter by Mr. Milivoj Pilja, Assistant Minister of Foreign Affairs, in charge of economic relations, who will arrive in London to-morrow to carry through important negotiations to remove difficulties which have badly hit British trade circles in Yugoslavia.

"Owing to the fact that we now do most of our foreign trade through clearing arrangements based on equal exchange of produce with other countries it is now impossible for us to get the foreign currency necessary to buy goods from countries which do not buy from us, and which, therefore, have to be paid in currency," he explained.

"We have been forced, therefore, to impose restrictions on imports from those countries, otherwise our stock of foreign currency and our gold reserve would have been drained away. But these measures are in no way anti-British and pro-German as has been suggested. We would infinitely prefer it if Britain could take the place of Germany and become our biggest customer for our produce and our biggest supplier of manufactured goods."

U.S. SHIPPING STRIKE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Hunger, fatigue and lack of money owing to exhausted strike funds are beginning to have an effect on the shipping strike, and at Boston to-day there were indications of a break, a number of seamen returning to work. In other parts of the country the deadlock continues and Government intervention is possible.

DUCE'S HUNGARIAN REFERENCE

RUMANIA TO DEFEND HER FRONTIERS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUKHAREST, Friday.

"We shall defend our frontiers to the last drop of blood," said Dr. Juliu Maniu, former Peasant Party Prime Minister, commenting on Signor Mussolini's reference to Hungary in his speech at Milan last Sunday.

"Any attack on these frontiers will mean war—a war which we do not want, but one which, if necessary, we shall wage with fanaticism, in the conviction that we are defending our national inheritance and the cause of justice."

Dr. Maniu said that the Trianon Treaty brought justice to the oppressed peoples of the basin of the Danube, and that the peace treaties were signed with the active and heroic participation of Italy.

Referring to Hungary, Dr. Maniu declared: "Hungary, far from being mutilated, has remained inside her ethnographical frontiers."

Professor Nicholas Iorga, also a former Prime Minister, calls for national solidarity to resist all attempts to tamper with the sacred rights of Rumania.

The Anti-Revisionist League has passed a resolution condemning tendencious propaganda in favour of a revision of the peace treaties, and proclaiming the solidarity of the States which rose from the ruins of the Hapsburg Empire. The Rumanian nation will defend her rights to the ultimate sacrifice, the resolution continues.

Mr. Eden's references to the Mediterranean in his Commons speech have aroused great interest in Athens, where the newspaper Ethnos says:—"Greece, a wholly Mediterranean Power, notes with special pleasure the prospect of understanding between the great Mediterranean Powers."

ARTILLERY FROM ROME

A SPANISH PROTEST

ITALIAN SOLDIERS COMPELLED TO SERVE

ALLEGATIONS concerning assistance given by Italy to the Spanish insurgents are made in a memorandum from the Spanish Government presented by the Ambassador at the British Foreign Office yesterday, says Reuter.

The memorandum states:—

"The Italian soldier, Luigi Corsi Siliberta, native of Villa Castelli, in the Province of Brindisi, was taken prisoner by Government forces on the 1st of November near Parla, on the Madrid front.

"This soldier belonged to the 10th Artillery Corps in Rome. . . . Corsi has stated that neither he nor his companions went to Spain voluntarily, but were compelled to do so by orders of the Commendatore Luigi, who commands the 10th Artillery. The Commendatore, after arraigning them in Rome, picked out fifty men for the expedition to Spain, not one having volunteered. . . .

"They embarked at Genoa on the last day of September, and disembarked at Vigo at the beginning of October.

GUNS AND SHELLS

"The vessel, adds Corsi, carried 15 guns and fifty cases of ammunition, each containing ten 65.17 shells. From Vigo they went to Ledo, by way of Salamanca, Caceres, Talavera and Torrijos. This has been verified from the notebook carried by the prisoner.

"Corsi states that in Caceres he saw fifteen armoured cars of Italian make and driven by Italian soldiers. The prisoner declared that six guns, whose emplacements he was employed in constructing, were in the Illescas line.

"Every gun, continues Corsi, was in charge of an Italian officer, and the loader, gunner and assistants were of the same nationality.

"The vessel which took them from Genoa to Vigo was Italian, and the captain, officers and crew all belonged to the Italian Navy. Upon his arrival in Spain Corsi was promoted by his superiors to the rank of non-commissioned officer."

VILLAGE IN WALL OF FLAME

BIG AUSTRALIAN BUSH FIRE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SYDNEY, Friday.

Dense smoke from the great bush fire which is sweeping down on a number of New South Wales townships is interfering with shipping many miles out to sea. The British steamer Nestor, bound from Brisbane to Glasgow, wirelessed from a point sixty miles off shore that she was running into the smoke, "which resembled a thick fog," and asked for a pilot steamer as escort.

At least fifteen homes have been burnt to the ground between Glenbrook and Valley Heights, where the raging flames are leaving a ten miles trail of destruction.

The fire-fighters' task seems hopeless. Glenbrook is engulfed in a wall of flame. Volunteer firemen have been summoned by S.O.S. calls from radio stations and by the tolling of bells of local schools and churches.

BRITISH SUCCESS AT NEW YORK SHOW

FREE STATE RIDER FOURTH

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Great Britain secured her first victory in the National Horse Show to-day, when Lieutenant Talbot-Ponsonby, riding the chestnut gelding Maguire, won the Brooks Bright Foundation Challenge Cup with perfect riding.

Captain R. G. Fanshawe, another British competitor, on Blue Dun, was second. Colonel Timmis (Canada) third on Squire, and Captain D. Corry (Irish Free State) fourth on Red Hugh.

This is the third time that the Brooks Bright Cup has been won by a British officer, and it would have become the property of the exhibitor; but Major A. L. Cameron, leader of the British team, waived the right, as previous winners had belonged to different units of the British Army. His gesture was received with cheers.

A LONDON PROTEST

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Friday.

A brief report of the demonstration in front of the German Embassy in London is printed to-night from the London Correspondent of the German News Agency, who comments "that Edgar Andre's execution provided a welcome ground for Communist incitement."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung says the demonstration "raises the question whether the British police are in a position to provide timely and adequate protection for our diplomats," and adds: "Moreover, several British Parliamentarians need to be reminded of the duty of international politeness."

ROOSEVELT AND WORLD PEACE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Friday.

President Roosevelt, re-elected with a record popular majority of over 10,000,000 votes, announced to-day that there was a possibility that he would make a 6,500 miles journey to Buenos Ayres for the Pan-American Conference at the end of the year.

The President is believed to be most anxious that this conference should succeed as a preliminary to a call for world peace, which is regarded as the ultimate aim of his foreign policy.

POLISH VISIT TO ENGLAND

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WARSAW, Friday.

Colonel Josef Beck, the Polish Foreign Minister leaves to-morrow for London, the first Polish Foreign Minister to pay an official visit to Great Britain.

"My visit to London," he said, "is in reply to the visit of Mr. Eden to Warsaw in the spring of 1935. Mr. Eden's visit took place at a time of important changes in the alignment of the Powers and of political systems, changes which have become much more accentuated since then. At such times a personal exchange of views between the leaders of the foreign policies of individual countries is, in my opinion, especially desirable."

THE KING AND CANADA

AN INTENDED VISIT

TO FOLLOW TRIP TO INDIA

DOMINION PREMIER'S ANNOUNCEMENT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

FARTHER POINT (ST. LAWRENCE RIVER), Friday.

FOR the first time in history a reigning British Monarch is to visit Canada. King Edward is planning to visit Canada as soon as possible after his return from India, for which country he proposes to set out almost immediately after the Coronation.

These announcements were made to-day by Mr. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Prime Minister, in an interview on board the Empress of Britain, in which he returned home to-day from England.

Mr. King added that His Majesty was looking forward again to seeing Canada, which he had visited as Prince of Wales.

BRITISH PROSPERITY

The Premier said that he had found that defence and warlike preparations were not the paramount interest in Great Britain, where increasing prosperity was evident.

"I don't think any country wants war," he declared, "and I am certain that Britain will keep the peace if at all possible. That was the feeling expressed by the Prime Minister and by all members of the British Government."

Mr. King also stated that the tension in Europe at present seemed to him less than when the League Assembly opened in September.

"There are many hopeful signs," he continued, "and I see no reason to fear that the forces working for peace will not prevail."

QUESTION OF DEFENCE

In regard to Canada's own plans, Mr. Mackenzie King emphasised that the reports that a large defence programme was on foot were "quite misleading." While defence matters had been generally discussed in London, neither Canadian nor imperial defence had been discussed as such, and Canada was not committed to anything. He had returned to Canada convinced that each nation should mind its own affairs while exerting goodwill for peace.

The Vimy pilgrimage in the summer, added the Premier, had left a most favourable impression in Europe. "King Edward spoke to me about it," he said, "and also Queen Mary, and they seemed immensely pleased, while the French were very appreciative in regard to the visit."

RIGHT EXPECT M. BLUM'S FALL

ACTION AGAINST ROYALISTS

NEWSPAPER CHARGE OF DICTATORSHIP

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Friday.

TROUBLES are gathering around the head of M. Blum, France's first Socialist Prime Minister, and there is a certain uneasiness in the air. Already the Right Wing Press are speculating on his successor.

The latest rift is the announcement to-day of the resignation of M. François Latour, who was to have organised next year's International Exhibition. It has aroused strong protests, for he is a very popular municipal councillor.

His resignation is believed to have been demanded by M. Blum at an interview this morning because of a letter of sympathy from the municipal councillors to Mr. Charles Maurras, the Royalist leader, now in prison for writing an article inciting to murder M. Blum.

Some of the papers are asking what is the difference between a Fascist and Socialist Dictatorship.

DIFFICULTIES

Other difficulties which are accumulating are:—

The Senate has insisted on discussing immediately interpellations on the attitude of the Under-Secretary of Marine, M. Blancho, to naval ports, and the beating-up of one of Colonel de la Rocque's supporters at Soissons.

The Transatlantic flyer, Mermoz, has been charged in connection with his support of Colonel de la Rocque.

The Paris Press Syndicate and five Senator journalists are demanding that competent Commissions should be appointed to study the Government's Press Bill.

The price of bread goes up again on November 13th.

M. Kerrilis, the Right deputy, writing in the Echo de Paris, says that the fall of M. Blum is not yet imminent, but either M. Daladier or M. Chautemps will be the probable heads of an all-Radical Ministry, which is regarded as the only possible transition and for which Right-wingers would vote on condition that it was prepared to support a struggle against Communism, additional security on frontiers and electoral reform.

OVERCOME

The first of the above difficulties was safely passed to-night, when the Senate discussed the interpellation regarding the visits of M. Blancho to Toulon, Cherbourg and Brest.

"You have no business to laugh. It's a scandal," M. Blum was told by M. Dumesnil, a former Under-Secretary for Marine, when he smiled during his recital of how M. Blancho was welcomed by the workers singing the "Internationale" and raising their fists in the presence of Admirals and other naval officers.

The Government reply was that the incidents had been exaggerated.

The Senate adopted a resolution, which the Government accepted, expressing the Senate's regret at the incidents and confidence in the Minister of Marine to prevent a recurrence.

APPEARANCE OF STALIN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Friday.

Wild cheering, lasting some fifteen minutes, greeted Stalin here to-day, when he appeared on the stage of the Bolshoi Theatre to open the celebrations for the 19th anniversary of the Soviet revolution. Stalin appeared to be in good health.

THE ATHLETICS DISPUTE

NEXT MOVE LIES WITH N.A.C.A.

NEW BODY READY TO GO AHEAD

The news that the International Amateur Athletic Federation had sent an ultimatum to the National Athletic and Cycling Association of Ireland, published exclusively in the Irish Times yesterday, caused rather a stir in Irish athletic circles, especially in Dublin.

In Mr. Ekelund's letter, the full text of which was printed, it was definitely stated that, unless the N.A.C.A. decided by January 1st to submit to the ruling of the Federation's Congress at Stockholm, the Federation would consider itself at liberty to communicate with the new Free State body which was seeking membership.

This latest phase of the dispute between the N.A.C.A. and the Federation, which latter includes in its membership England, Scotland and Wales, with Northern Ireland linked up with the A.A.A., opens up extremely interesting possibilities, writes our special correspondent.

THE NEXT STEP

Mr. Ekelund's letter must, of course, come up for the consideration of the Standing Committee of the N.A.C.A., who may decide to mark it "read," and so put to the test the sincerity and the courage of the clubs concerned in the formation of the new body. On the other hand, they may summon a congress to deal with it.

That the N.A.C.A., as a body, would go back on the decision of its congress is not likely—particularly in view of the attitude adopted by Kerry and Cork.

CAN FORM NEW BODY

In that event even half a dozen Free State clubs could create a position that would be unique in international athletics. They could form a new association; apply for, and be admitted to, membership of the Federation, and as a member of the international body be entitled to represent the Irish Free State at its board.

The new body would be free to arrange fixtures with Northern Ireland, British and continental clubs. Not only that, but such a body could hope for a place on the Olympic Council, as representing the Irish Free State.

No doubt the G.A.A. would, in such circumstances, close their grounds to the "rebels," but the ten or twelve Dublin clubs of the new association would not lack grounds that are eminently suitable; for there are many such grounds in Dublin. The other interested clubs outside the city also are capable of getting over any such difficulty which may be placed in their way.

The further developments will be intensely interesting.

JAPANESE ARMY COUP RUMOURS

LIBERALS DENOUNCE FASCISM

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TOKYO, Friday.

A resolution pledging full support for the parliamentary system and denouncing Fascism and the participation in politics by those in active military service was made public by about seventy M.P.'s of the Minseito (Liberal) Party here to-day.

This lead by the Minseito Party, which is the largest political party in Japan, has been followed by other parties, who have begun an agitation following rumours of an impending army coup.

In view of the "flurry" caused in political circles, Mr. Terauchi, the War Minister, has issued an informal statement clarifying the army's views on parliamentary reform. The statement expresses the army's desire for the development of a form of constitutional government peculiar to Japan.

It is considered that Mr. Terauchi gave a similar expression of views at to-day's Cabinet meeting, and denied rumours current that the army authorities plan the establishment of a dictatorship and the abolition of the Diet.

The Minseito Party holds 205 seats in the Diet. The next largest party is the Seiyukai (Conservative) Party, with 174 seats.

"UNFORTUNATE CHOICE" BY GOD

NAZIS WANT MOSES BANNED FROM BIBLE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Friday.

The demand that the Bible should be re-written, and particularly that Moses should not be mentioned as the recipient of the Ten Commandments, is made to-day by the Westdeutscher Beobachter, quoted by the Jewish Telegraph Agency.

The official Nazi organ points out that this problem of eliminating the Jews from the Bible must be dealt with urgently, because school teachers do not know how to explain to their pupils why God should have chosen the Jew Moses to whom to reveal His commandments.

MR. SEAN LESTER IN DUBLIN

Mr. Sean Lester, High Commissioner in Danzig, is at present on a short holiday in Ireland. After visiting friends in the North, he is now in Dublin, where he will remain for some time. Mrs. Lester will join him in a few days, and at the end of next week they will return to Danzig by way of Geneva. Mr. Lester continues in the office of High Commissioner until his successor takes up his duties. During yesterday he visited the Department for External Affairs.

"STORK DERBY" CASE OPENS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TORONTO, Friday.

A hundred British, Canadian and United States photographers swarmed over every point of vantage outside the Law Courts here to-day, when the "Stork Derby" case opened before Mr. Justice Middleton. Those in the crowded court-room followed with eager interest the opening skirmishes over the clause in the will of Mr. Millar, the eccentric millionaire, leaving a sum of £100,000 (now about £150,000) to the Toronto mother bearing the most children in the ten years period following his death. The Judge adjourned the hearing until November 16, so that further affidavits may be offered, ordering that the evidence of the interested parties must be filed by November 12.

TO BOYCOTT COMMISSION

ARABS' SURPRISE DECISION

JEWISH IMMIGRATION PERMITS SEQUEL

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

JERUSALEM, Friday.

THE Arab Higher Committee to-night decided to boycott the Palestine Royal Commission.

The Committee at the same time issued a manifesto to Arabs urging them not to co-operate with the Commission's work owing to the Government's refusal to suspend Jewish immigration and the granting of new permits.

The Arab decision is a sequel to the announcement made on Thursday in the House of Commons by Mr. Ormsby-Gore, the Colonial Secretary, in which he stated that the six-monthly labour immigration for Palestine had been fixed at 1,800 certificates, compared with 8,000 in April, 1935; 3,250 in October, 1935, and 4,500 last April.

The Government considered, he said, that a temporary suspension of immigration into Palestine while the Royal Commission carried out its inquiries would not be justifiable.

The Royal Commission, which arrives in Palestine next Wednesday, is charged with investigating the causes of the recent disorders in Palestine, and suggesting how legitimate grievances, if any, could be permanently removed.

It is expected that the members will first tour the country to get a first-hand picture of events.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS

The Times in a leading article says:—The debate on the Address, which reached the half-way stage yesterday, has revealed the unusual spectacle of substantial unanimity upon all the important issues of the day. The showing of the Labour Party during the debate has evoked a good deal of quiet sympathy for its evident discomfort. Its members, in common with all their fellow-citizens, are anxious for the safety and the progress of their country, but the contribution which they might make to both causes is frustrated by deep divisions in their own ranks, and while they will the end they are unable to agree in willing the means.

The Labour Party to-day is at the parting of the ways. It can either go on struggling to be blind to events and clinging to the chance that some day some tremendous series of errors by the Government will give it a majority on the rebound, or it can offer during the present difficult and dangerous times, and in matters in which there is a common purpose, a collaboration none the less constructive because it would rightly continue to be critical. If it wishes for ultimate success it must build up a reputation for responsibility which is at present far to seek.

The two main issues discussed so far in the debate have been the Government's proposals for increased physical education and foreign affairs. On both there have been many signs of general agreement. The immediate objective of foreign policy is an agreement between the Western European Powers for mutual guarantees of security. This agreement would not condone aggressive adventures elsewhere, and the Government would welcome similar agreements in Central and Eastern Europe, even though they cannot in those regions be parties to a similar guarantee.

The Government are trying to revive the system of collective security from which this country hopes to draw advantage in common with others.

ANGLO-ITALIAN TRADE PACT

STEP TOWARDS BETTER RELATIONS?

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Friday.

The Anglo-Italian trade agreement was signed at the Palazzo Chigi this evening. Sir Eric Drummond signed for Great Britain, and Count Ciano for Italy.

The pact embodies two agreements. The first governs payments between the two countries, and provides for the gradual liquidation of frozen debts, amounting to £2,250,000, and the second fixes quotas for goods to be imported by Britain into Italy.

The conclusion of the agreement is regarded here with considerable satisfaction, and it is hoped that it may prove to be a first step towards the return of better relations between England and Italy.

GALLANTRY IN PALESTINE

THREE AWARDS TO NAVY MEN

The King has approved of the following awards "for gallant and distinguished services rendered in connection with the emergency operations in Palestine" during the period April 15 to September 14:

Distinguished Service Cross—Lieutenant Peter William Gretton, Royal Navy.

Distinguished Service Medal—Henry Jack Shorter, stoker petty officer, H.M.S. Barham, and Walter Arthur Richards, leading seaman, H.M.S. Durban.

C.B. FOR PALESTINE AIR FORCE COMMANDER

It was announced in the London Gazette last night that the King has appointed Air Vice-Marshal R. E. C. Peirse a Companion of the Order of the Bath (Military).

Air Vice-Marshal Peirse had held the command of the Air Forces in Palestine and Transjordan for three years, and the appointment of Air Commodore R. M. Hill, A.F.C., as his successor was notified by the Air Ministry this week.

NAVY CONTRACTS

SUBMARINES AND GUNBOAT

The Admiralty have decided to entrust construction of vessels under the 1936 programme as follow:—

Submarines: H.M.S. Triumph—Vickers-Armstrongs, Ltd., Barrow-in-Furness; H.M.S. Trident—Cammell, Laird and Co. Ltd., Birkenhead; and H.M.S. Tribune—Scott's Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. Ltd., Greenock.

River Gunboat: H.M.S. Scorpion—J. Samuel White and Co., Ltd., Cowes, Isle of Wight.

PRICE OF BREAD CONTROLLED

10½D. PER 4LB. LOAF IN FREE STATE

ORDER MADE UNDER NEW ACT

STANDARD PRICE FOR FLOUR

THE Bread Prices Act which was passed in July last is now in operation in the Free State. Under it the Minister has power to fix the price of bread. This will be based on the price of flour, and, as the price of flour varies from time to time, the Minister is empowered to fix a standard price, which can itself be changed as, and when, circumstances require.

An order which has now been made fixes the standard price of flour at 47s. per sack, and on this the price of the 4lb. loaf is fixed at 10½d., delivered to the customer.

At present the price of the 2lb. loaf—which is the loaf usually sold in Dublin—is 5½d. According to the official order this should now be reduced to 5¼d.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The following statement was issued last evening by the Department of Industry and Commerce:—

"The Bread (Regulation of Prices) Act, 1936, which became law on the 11th of July last, was enacted for the purpose of enabling the Minister for Industry and Commerce to control the price of bread. The main factor regulating the cost of bread is the price of flour, which fluctuates from day to day. For the purpose of fixing the maximum price of bread, therefore, the Act empowers the Minister to determine the 'standard' price of bread for the whole of Saorstat Eireann, or any part of it; this is not a statutory maximum or a minimum price for flour, but a definition of the most important factor affecting the price of bread.

"A rise or fall in the price of flour to the extent of 4s. per sack of 280lbs. is generally regarded as justifying an increase or a decrease in the price of the 4lb. loaf by ½d., and the Minister is advised that as long as the price of flour varies between 45s. and 48s., the price of the 4lb. loaf delivered to the consumer should not exceed 10½d.

PRICE OF FLOUR

"The Minister has made an Order, dated 2nd November, 1936, under Section 2 (1) of the Act fixing for the purpose of the Act the standard price of flour for Saorstat Eireann at 47s. per sack of 280lbs. It is the intention of the Minister to fix new standard prices from time to time as circumstances require, and a fresh Order fixing the standard price of flour will be issued if, and when, the Minister is advised that the price of flour has fallen below 45s., or has risen above 48s., per sack.

PRICE OF BREAD

"Simultaneously with this Order, the Minister has made a Bread (Price) Order fixing the maximum price for batch bread, and the effect of this Order will be that so long as the Order fixing the standard price of flour at 47s. per sack remains in force, the maximum price at which batch bread per 4lb. loaf may be sold by way of retail, either delivered to the consumer or sold in a shop owned by a person other than a baker, will be 10½d. per 4lb. loaf. In the case of bread sold retail by the baker thereof in a shop owned by him, delivery being taken by the purchaser at such shop, the price per 4lb. loaf shall be 1d. less.

"In the case of bread sold wholesale the price shall be 10½d., less 10 per cent., in cases in which the bread is delivered to the purchaser, but in cases in which the purchaser takes delivery at the place where such bread is kept by the vendor the price shall be 10½d., less 1d., and less 10 per cent. on the sum remaining after the deduction of the said penny.

"The Bread (Price) Order further provides that batch bread may not be sold or offered for sale unless it is sold or offered for sale either in units of less than 8 ounces in weight, or in units of 1lb., or multiples of 1lb., in weight. The Order will come into force on November 16th, 1936."

TEN MILLIONS MAJORITY

U.S. POPULAR VOTE FIGURES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Friday.

President Roosevelt has passed the 10,000,000 majority mark—a record in American Presidential elections. The latest figures of the popular vote are:—

Mr. Roosevelt	25,936,277
Mr. Landon	15,839,609
Mr. Lemke	744,573

THE RUSSIA OF TO-DAY

GREAT CHANGE IN LAST FIVE YEARS

RECENT NOTABLE TRIALS

SIR BERNARD PARES, K.B.E., Professor of Russian History and Literature in London University, who has come back from an extended tour of Russia, spoke of present conditions in that country in a lecture before the Royal Dublin Society yesterday.

Sir Bernard said that there was a great change in the Russia of 1931 from the Russia of to-day, and that change had been due to Hitler and to the fear of attack from the East.

THREE IRISHMEN

In his previous stay in Russia there were three notable Irishmen who certainly had left their mark in the history of that country, said Sir Bernard. They were foreign correspondents of newspapers. The first was Dr. E. J. Dillon, a man of remarkably fine intelligence and great scholarship, who, at the time when the speaker began his work, was the natural leader of all the correspondents there.

"I think myself," said Sir Bernard, "that he rather lost his way, and my opinion was that he did not realise that peoples are more important than governments."

Then there was David McGowan, a glorious mixture of Abraham Lincoln and Mr. Micawber. He made foreign influence count in Russia. When they began their parliamentary life in 1906 Mr. McGowan, as president of all the foreign correspondents, made it clear to the Government that our opinion of them would depend on what they did. Lastly, there was Francis McCullagh, a little hero, a model of daring chivalry and modesty, who had been turned out of every country in Europe, and elsewhere when it was an honour to be kicked out.

They loved him in the Russian Army. When his colleagues asked him why he thought it necessary to go up so close to the front, he said: "It is because I am short-sighted."

There were plenty of reasons why Irishmen should count in Russia. There was in Russia a remarkable feeling which went very far. The Russian was not happy if people in his company were not happy.

THE GREAT CHANGE

The lecturer said that when he was in Dublin five years ago Russia was at war with the Russian people. When he went there last January it was as a critic. Then he noticed the great change. Besides the fear of Germany there was the fear of Japan and the East. These impending dangers were realised by Moscow. The reaction was that the Russian rulers made up their quarrel with the United States. They joined the League of Nations, or, rather, those countries that stood for democracy. They certainly showed their desire for goodwill with Britain.

"Of course, there are still concentration camps, persecution of religion, and war between the Russian Government and the peasantry, but the changes have been many," said Sir Bernard. "The head of my Faculty in Moscow University told me that they were going back to the old way of doing things."

Continuing, he said that there was now a desire not to overburden the child mind with political training; there had been a strengthening of the marriage tie and restrictions put on easy divorce. Now both of the parties had to be consulted about divorce, and if there is objection, the man had to go to court.

Again, parents had been asked to take an interest in the discipline of their children. There was one point, however, where reform had not been reached, and that was in respect of religion.

THE VICKERS TRIAL

Sir Bernard said that the Vickers trial had been a faked trial, but the recent Moscow trial was not. Zenovieff was the worst type of bully and coward; he had at least 2,000 murders on his soul.

Their social services was the strong side of the present Russian régime, especially in the treatment of children. That, however, was typically Russian and not Communistic.

In regard to religion, he said that on last Christmas Eve he had noticed as many people go to church as attended a football match between Arsenal and Chelsea. The service was devotional, and when he came out of the church there was as great a crush waiting to get in.

"Do not tell me that religion is dead in Russia," said the lecturer.

INSURED PEOPLE INJURED

HOSPITALS CAN RECOVER FOR TREATMENT

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

The Court of Appeal in Belfast decided to-day, by a majority, that a hospital was entitled in law to recover from an insurance company in respect of treatment given by it to a person injured while travelling as a voluntary passenger in a motor car insured under the Road Traffic Act. The appellants were the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast, and the London Guarantee and Accident Corporation, Ltd., were the respondents. The appeal had been heard by the Court in a case stated by Lord Justice Best on the application of both parties, and judgment was given to-day.

The Lord Chief Justice dissented from the judgment of the other members of the Court, Lord Justice Andrews and Lord Justice Best.

The appeal was brought by the hospital authorities against the decision of the Recorder on July 8 last dismissing a civil bill claim for £25 17s. 6d. against the insurance company in respect of treatment in hospital of Desmond Haldane, of Lansdowne Park.

Mr. Haldane was a passenger in a motor car driven by Mr. Alan Carswell, which was in collision with a motor omnibus, owned by Messrs. Catherwood, in a Belfast street on April 14, 1935. Mr. Haldane was severely injured, as were two passengers in the omnibus. All three were taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where Mr. Haldane remained under treatment until June 22, 1935.

In the course of the appeal it was stated that in consequence of the injuries he received Mr. Haldane brought an action in the King's Bench, naming Mr. Carswell and Messrs. Catherwood defendants. The jury found negligence as against Mr. Carswell and awarded Mr. Haldane £650 damages against that defendant. The damages awarded against Mr. Carswell were paid by his insurers, the respondents in the appeal.

On the facts of the case, the question for the Court of Appeal was—"Were the plaintiffs entitled in law to recover from the defendants the sum sued for under Section 12 (1) of the Act of 1930?"

Lord Justice Andrews and Lord Justice Best answered the question in the affirmative and the Lord Chief Justice in the negative.

Sir Abe Bailey has made a Coronation gift of £3,500 to assist civil aviation in Southern Rhodesia.

£7,500 VERDICT IN SLANDER CASE

JUDGMENT FOR B.B.C. EMPLOYE

MR. JUSTICE SWIFT ON PRIVILEGE

IN the King's Bench Division London, before Mr. Justice Swift, the jury in the slander action brought by Mr. Richard Stanton Lambert against Colonel Sir Cecil Levita found for Mr. Lambert and awarded him £7,500 damages.

Judgment was entered with costs.

Mr. Lambert is the editor of The Listener and a member of the British Film Institute. He alleged that words used by Sir Cecil Levita in a conversation with Mr. Gladstone Murray, assistant controller of programmes at the British Broadcasting Corporation, on February 7 last imputed that he was unfit to hold office; that he believed in a talking mongoose, and had changed his residence through fear of being pursued by an "evil eye."

The defence was a denial that the words were spoken, and it was pleaded that if the words were spoken they did not bear the meaning alleged, or any defamatory meaning, and that they were true in substance and in fact. There was also a plea of privilege.

A QUESTION OF DOCUMENTS

When the hearing was resumed yesterday, Mr. Valentine Holmes, for Mr. Lambert, asked if it would be convenient if at that stage he called Sir Cecil Levita on a subpœna which was served on him after the Court rose on Thursday.

Mr. Justice Swift agreed and Sir Cecil Levita went into the witness-box.

Mr. Holmes asked whether the subpœna called upon him to produce correspondence passing between himself and Mr. Norman, Chairman of the B.B.C., and added: "Have you got that correspondence here?"

Sir Cecil Levita—I regret that I must refuse to produce it, seeing that such correspondence as there is was between me and Mr. Norman for the purpose of sending to my solicitors to prepare my case, and I did send the letters to my solicitors.

Mr. Valentine Holmes said that it was a claim, as he understood, for privilege for the documents. It must be seen, however, whether the documents which Sir Cecil was now refusing to produce were, in fact, privileged. It was claimed that the Master had read them, and had come to the conclusion that they were covered by the claims of privilege.

Mr. Justice Swift—"As at present advised, I am not disposed to commit him if he does not produce them, because, at any rate, he has the authority of the Master for saying that they were not liable to disclosure."

LADY LEVITA'S EVIDENCE

Lady Levita then returned to continue her evidence. Questioned by Mr. Tristram Beresford (for Sir Cecil Levita) about the talking mongoose, she said: "I asked him (Mr. Lambert) several times if he believed in the talking mongoose or not, and he always said that he had never been able to prove that it was not true. I don't know that he ever said he actually believed in it, but he was not able to show, in any way, how the swindle was done."

She added that throughout the time she was Governor of the Film Institute she had had no violent disagreements with Mr. Lambert.

Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., for Mr. Lambert, cross-examined Lady Levita about the "swindle" of the talking mongoose.

"You don't think, do you," he asked, "that the fact that you don't know how the swindle was done is evidence that you are not in your right mind?"

Lady Levita—Sir Patrick, are you asking me if I think I am in my right mind?

Sir Patrick—No; what I am trying to find out is, why that is evidence of insanity; because your husband says it is?

Lady Levita—I don't think it is evidence of insanity.

Further questioned, Lady Levita said that when her husband went to see Mr. Murray she did not think that Mr. Lambert was unfit for his position as Governor of the Institute. She should think her husband, too, thought Mr. Lambert perfectly fit to be a member of the Council.

AN ALLEGATION DENIED

Mr. Walter Reginald Fuller, General Secretary of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association, and a Governor of the Film Institute, who next gave evidence, denied that he told Mr. Lambert that Sir Stephen Tallents had said that if he would not proceed against Sir Cecil, the B.B.C. would treat him well.

Sir Stephen told him, said Mr. Fuller, that Mr. Lambert's health was so bad that he had arranged to give him leave of absence.

Sir Patrick—Did you get information from Sir Stephen Tallents when you came back and give it to Mr. Lambert?—Yes.

And was the substance of it this: "If you don't settle this action, the B.B.C. are going to turn you out"?—No.

Mr. Justice Swift, in summing up, said that he felt sure he would one day have a case in which counsel would claim: "This was said over the luncheon table, and is therefore privileged." Luncheon gossip was not privileged. You could not pour poison into an employer's ear about an employé, and then escape the consequence by saying, "This is in confidence." One did not make an occasion privileged by saying, "I am telling you a secret," or "I am speaking within these four walls." If you go and pour poison in the ears of a man's employer you must justify it, or answer for the consequences.

The jury, in answer to the Judge's questions, found that Sir Cecil Levita spoke the words complained of, that the words were not true, that there was no duty on Sir Cecil to say them, and that the words were spoken maliciously. They awarded damages as stated above.

NEW ARCHBISHOP IN AMERICA

A NATIVE OF COUNTY TIPPERARY

The Roman Consistorial Congregation has announced that they have raised the Most Rev. J. J. Cantwell, Bishop of Los Angeles, to the dignity of Archbishop. Bishop Cantwell, who is a native of Tipperary and was educated in Ireland, has been much before the American public during the past year owing to his activities in Hollywood, which is within his diocese. He took an important part in the "clean-up" campaign which has spread over the United States. In this he has been ably assisted by the members of other Churches.

Dr. Cantwell is one of four brothers—all priests—who left Ireland for the American Mission. They hold distinguished positions in the Church. Dr. William Cantwell is Chancellor of the Diocese of San Francisco.

Dr. Cantwell visits Ireland frequently and takes a great interest in his native county. On the occasion of his last visit he brought his aged mother to California, where she died last year. His sister, Miss Nellie Cantwell, is well known in social welfare in San Francisco.

Archbishop Cantwell takes a leading place as an educationist. He recently called the Carmelite Fathers of New York to his diocese to assist in the reorganisation of the Catholic schools.

THE WATERFORD INQUIRY

FINAL SITTING YESTERDAY

SPEECHES ON BOTH SIDES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Friday.

AT the Waterford Municipal Inquiry to-day, before Mr. J. MacLysaght, Local Government Inspector, Mr. Liam Raftis, Borough Treasurer, who was recalled, gave further evidence on various matters concerning the accounts of the Corporation. He submitted, as requested, a list of Corporation members and officials defaulting in their rates at the end of the following years: 1933-34, 1934-35, 1935-36.

Mr. O hUadhaigh, solicitor (for certain corporators and ratepayers), said that one rate collector was owed £56 4s. 3d. in the current rate. Another collector was owed £126 10s. by members of the Corporation over the three years. This he had to pay out of his own pocket under the terms of his appointment, but of course, if it were a case of hardship he could claim a refund. All the Corporation defaulters had paid off portion of the amounts.

When the evidence had concluded Mr. O hUadhaigh addressed the Inspector. In the course of his speech he referred to the managerial system, which, he said, had produced no appreciable reduction of rates wherever it had been introduced.

Regarding Mr. Woods's cross-examination of Alderman Edmonds, Mr. O hUadhaigh said that this alderman had been accused of being an Englishman and a gas manager.

"All I can say to that," said Mr. O hUadhaigh, "is that there are as many Irishmen occupying good positions in England as Englishmen in similar positions here, and if they all behaved as Alderman Edmonds had done at this inquiry there could be nothing against that. The most dreadful allegation against him is that he changed his mind regarding the election of Mayor, and that he refused to bind himself to any party."

COUNSEL INTERVENES

Mr. Lennon, who, with Mr. Wood, K.C., is appearing for the Corporation, intervened at a later stage to ask Mr. O hUadhaigh to withdraw the innuendo that a witness before the tribunal had not been given fair play.

Mr. O hUadhaigh replied that if the law adviser did something on the instructions of senior counsel which, in his (Mr. O hUadhaigh's) opinion, could not be justified from the professional point of view, it was a sufficient answer. He did not allege it was a criminal thing, but if it was not terrorism, he did not know what it was. As a general rule, when there was no case the other side abused their opponents' attorney, but in this case it had not been confined to abusing their opponents' attorney, but to insulting the whole profession. In a long experience of courts, and, indeed, up to the present moment, he had never heard the like, and now at the eleventh hour no apology was forthcoming for the grievous insult that had been levelled at that branch of the profession which fed the other section.

It was dastardly and scandalous in the extreme, he said later, for members of the Corporation to have taken up the attitude they had done against the Auditor. Such an attitude was only consistent with the desire to produce anarchy, disaster and dishonesty in the public administration of this country. If the auditor was not free to get the information he required from anyone who could give it to him, then the whole system of local government in this country was at once in grave danger of being wrecked.

Mr. Lennon said that if Mr. O hUadhaigh had any charge against him of professional misconduct, there was a disciplinary tribunal before which he could bring it.

Mr. O hUadhaigh said that he had made no such charge against Mr. Lennon, but that he was bringing a charge against his leader, Mr. Wood.

Mr. Lennon protested against the use of the word "terrorism," which, he said, was a charge of a criminal nature against the Mayor of the city and certain of his colleagues.

COUNSEL'S REPLY

In his address, which lasted over two hours, Mr. Lennon said they were told that Alderman Dawson and his coleagues were searching for the truth, but he would submit that they were more concerned with searching for triumph. He did not want to make it appear that they were afraid of auditors in Waterford.

After dealing at length with the evidence, he reviewed the city's long and distinguished history, and said that the clients whom he represented were men of great civic pride, whose sole object, as members of the Corporation, was the advancement of the city's interests. In fact, he knew of no city in the country which had a stronger spirit of civic pride.

Mr. Wood, K.C., in his final address, said that if he had cast any reflection on Mr. O hUadhaigh, or on the great profession to which he belonged, he would now like to say openly and frankly that he did not intend to do so.

In a letter apologising for his absence at the concluding stages of the inquiry, the Mayor said that the Council had discharged its duties as efficiently and with as high-minded a purpose as was humanly possible.

After a sitting extending over six weeks the inquiry concluded to-night at 9.40.

LAST NIGHT'S DANCES

THE ARCHITECTURAL ASSOCIATION

As usual, the annual dance organised by the Architectural Association of Ireland was a great success. It was held last night in the Aberdeen Hall of the Gresham Hotel, which presented a gay appearance, for there was a large attendance, and the band, which played at its best, enabled all present thoroughly to enjoy the evening. The Architectural Association was well represented, members came from near and far, and several of them brought large parties. Supper was served at midnight in the ballroom.

Unusually pretty frocks were to be seen; velvet, possibly, was the most popular material, the frocks being cut on graceful lines, and generally worn with flowers of contrasting colours.

Among those present were:—The Lord Mayor, the President of the Association and Mrs. T. F. Inglis, Mr. and Mrs. V. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Crampton, Commissioner and Mrs. O'Sheil, Mr. and Mrs. R. Collen, Mr. P. C. O'Grady, Miss M. Hefferan, Miss D. Dillon, Mr. G. Little, Mr. R. A. Guise Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Mr. Gollock, Mr. M. F. Costello, Mr. and Mrs. R. O'Hara, Miss M. White, Miss Doreen O'Hara, Mr. and Mrs. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. McLoughlin, Mr. Allan Hope, Miss Dacus, Mr. I. Roberts, Mr. Swanton, Miss Gilligan, Mr. J. A. Ryan, Mr. Fairweather, the Misses Allberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Walden, Mr. Longhauzen, Mr. Iffner, Miss E. O'Shea, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Munden, Miss Roantree, Miss Kathleen Murphy, Mrs. Bretland, Miss P. Dempsey, Mr. William Roche, Dr. George Furlong, Miss Brenda Gogarty, Mrs. A. C. Goodbody, Miss Maureen Cuffe, Mr. S. Lyons, Miss Farley, Mr. V. S. Lyons, Mr and Mrs. H. J. Lyons, Mr. Dunne, Miss Cottell, Mr. and Mrs. D. Glasgow, Mr. F. G. Hicks, Mr. S. G. O'Kelly, Miss A. Brennan.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaughton, Mr. and Mrs. S. Spratt, Mr. F. Russell, Mrs. Dunne, Mr. W. Dunne, junior; Mr. Balfe, Mrs. Balfe, Miss R. Balfe, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Byrne, Miss M. Ryan, Mr. J. A. Douglas, Mr. S. Deane, Mr. T. Campbell, Miss F. Lyons, Miss E. Summerfield, Mr. A. B. Lyons, Miss A. O'Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Dermot Gogarty, Mr. P. J. Leonard, Miss M. Strickland, Mr. Atkinson Grimshaw, Miss M. Browne, Miss P. Browne, Mr. Ross, Miss R. Cullane, Mr. F. Hicks.

MESSRS. WILLS AND MESSRS. CLARKE & SON

A most enjoyable dance was held last night in the Metropole Ballroom, Dublin, under the auspices of Messrs. W. D. and H. O. Wills and Messrs. W. Clarke and Son. This dance, which was the first one organised by those two well-known firms, was even more successful than the committee had dared to hope. No fewer than four hundred people were present, and dancing, which commenced at 9 p.m., continued until after 2 a.m. During the evening several spot dances were held, while each lady was presented with a most attractive souvenir on arrival.

Among those present were:—The Lord Mayor, Mr. and Mrs. C. Whitcroft, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. West, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dowson, Mr and Mrs. N. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Rosling, Mr. T. J. Quigley (hon. secretary, dance committee), Mr. E. K. Carter, Mr. R. N. O'Connor, Miss M. Jackson, Miss H. Meredith, Miss N. Caulfield, Miss B. Sugars, Miss E. Keogh, Mr. I. Meeke, Mr. E. Drought, Mr. P. Comerford, Mr. C. Frazer, Miss D. Connolly, the Misses Lalor, Miss E. Kelly, Mr. J. Kelly, Mr. P. Brennan, Miss E Neville, Miss P. Quigley, Mr. H. Thompson, Mr. W. P. Willis, Mr. K. Tanham, Mr. J. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wilson.

Murphy, Captain and Mrs. Barry, Mr. Lannigan, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hannon, Miss Sheridan, Lieutenant Smyth, Lieutenant Dalton, Miss S. O'Brien, and Mr. Gilligan.

THEATRE ROYAL AND SAVOY STAFFS

There were over 400 people present at the annual dance of the staffs of the Theatre Royal and the Savoy Cinema in the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dublin, last night. Dancing continued until 4 a.m., and spot prizes were presented. Miss Nina Mae McKinney, the chief attraction at the Theatre Royal this week, gave a short selection from the act which she is presenting at the theatre, and other members of the cast were among the dancers.

Among those present were:—The Lord Mayor, Mrs. J. E. Pearce, Mr. J. R. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Margey, Mr. J. Ellis, Mr. P. Saw, Mr. W. Margey, Mr. W. Curtis, Mr. P. Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. R. FINE INNINGS BY BARNETT

M.C.C. RECOVER FROM WEAK START

HARDSTAFF ALSO RUNS INTO FORM

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the absence of W. Hammond, taking a well-earned rest, C. Barnett, a county colleague of his, assumed the rôle of century-maker for the M.C.C., who scored 326 for seven, when a four-day match against Victoria was begun on the Melbourne cricket ground to-day.

Anxious to redeem himself as an opening batsman and make sure of a place in the Tests, Barnett, like Hammond had done in previous matches, played an innings almost foreign to his nature in scoring 131. Admirably restraining his natural desire to hit, he presented an impregnable defence and overcame his weakness for nibbling at swinging deliveries on the off stump. He took an hour for his first dozen runs, completed his 50 in 2¼ hours and reached his century in 3 hours 8 minutes. Despite the cautious nature of his innings, Barnett never failed to punish anything loose, and his scoring shots, outstanding among which were his powerful cuts, were crisply and confidently executed. Barnett opened out later in his innings, his last 31 runs coming in 28 minutes, and it was in attempting a big drive off Ebeling that he gave Rigg a catch at extra cover. He was fourth out at 239.

It was Ebeling, one of the best fast-medium bowlers in Australia, who got the first wicket. Fagg, after appearing to have broken his run of bad luck, flicked at an off ball and was caught at the wicket. Worthington's dismissal five runs later was a blow to the M.C.C. Before opening his account he played over a good length ball, the second of McCormick's fifth over, and two wickets were down for 34.

Leyland, playing in his first big match of the tour, was given a rousing reception. He was a little uncertain with his timing against the fast bowlers, but had settled down by the time luncheon was taken with the score at 74 for 2. The Yorkshire left-hander seemed to have run into his best form at his first appearance. It was extremely unfortunate that his innings should have been terminated by his eagerness to run short singles.

Hardstaff became Barnett's fourth partner, and after being dropped in the slips by McCormick when 8, scored 85, his highest innings of the tour. He did not bat in quite his best style, but judiciously blended caution with aggression. After reaching 50, including six 4's, in just over an hour and a half, Hardstaff glanced and cut the ball with delightful precision.

TO-DAY'S PLAY

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The weather was again cloudy and cool when the M.C.C. continued their first innings at 326 for 7. Score:—

M.C.C.—First Innings.

Barnett c Rigg b Ebeling	131

FAMOUS HUNTING COUNTRY

POSITION ON THE PLAINS OF BOYLE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BOYLE, Friday.

Thousands of acres of grass lands in North Roscommon, known as the Plains of Boyle, and which have been famous hunting country for generations, are being divided up under the Government land division schemes. Across the Plains lines of sod fences are being erected, too high for horses to jump.

At the annual meeting of the Boyle Harriers' Hunt, the Chairman, Mr. J. A. Kiernan, Co. Registrar, Leitrim, said that it was rumoured that, owing to the Plains of Boyle being divided, there would be no more hunting there. He was glad to say that that was not so. They acknowledged the kindness they received from all the late owners of the lands on the Plains, and he was sure the new owners would be willing to allow the hunt to go over their lands.

The Secretary, Mr. W. F. White, read correspondence which Mr. F. X. Burke, solicitor, had with the Land Commission on the matter. Mr Burke wrote that over portion of the lands divided a very successful point-to-point meeting was run, and the division of the land, it was feared, would end this. Mr. Burke referred to the good work hunting was doing for the horse-breeding industry and training, and said it was for this reason he had been asked to solicit the co-operation of the Land Commission in securing that the national work of the relief of congestion would not interfere with the national industry of horse-breeding and training which had done so much to keep Ireland's name to the fore. Mr. Burke suggested that hunting gaps be left in the fences.

Mr. White said that a deputation interviewed the Land Commission, and were informed that everything possible would be done to facilitate the horse-breeding industry. They also said that they were sorry the deputation did not approach them before some of the lands were fenced, as they did not like to go back on it.

Mr. R. Cotton said that they could not keep on the Plains the whole time. After another year the plains would be practically done away with, and they should be opening new country.

A committee was appointed to inspect suggested new hunting country.

The following were elected:—Master, Mr. R. F. Odbert; Field Master, Mr. H. Notley; Secretary, Mr. W. F. White; Treasurer, Mr. Cathal Flynn; Committee, Sir Cecil Stafford King Harman, Messrs. J. A. Kiernan, A. Smith, J. Candon, F. X. Burke, R. Cotton and J. Kilgallon.

MISSIONARY WORK SALE

The need for greater co-operation among the members of the Church to advance missionary work was stated by Mrs. William Hayes while opening a sale of work in St. Andrew's Parochial Hall, Dublin, yesterday, on behalf of missionary work and Church expenses.

Mrs. Hayes said that such work should not be left to a few, but should be the concern of all.

There were seven stalls and, in spite of the bad weather, they were well patronised. The workers included:—The Rev. and Mrs. R. Northridge, Mr. and Mrs F. Flint, Mrs. Mullen, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Raddin, Miss Clarke, Miss Eakin, Miss Middleton, Miss Lewis, Miss Jackson, Miss Dickenson, Miss Brown, Miss Douglas, Miss Bellew, Misses M. and E. Mullen, Miss Landon, Mrs. and Miss Howe, Mrs. Parmee, Miss J. Jones, Mrs. Grace, Mrs. Murtagh, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Rafter, the Misses Callaghan, the Misses C. and H. Northridge, the Misses Lazenby, the Misses Young, Miss E. Wallace, the Misses P. and E. Ralph, Miss A. Grace, Miss B. Northridge, Mrs. T. Hobbs, Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Grainger, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Wallace.

DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRY

NEW DEMANDS FOR PRODUCTS

NEED FOR TECHNICAL EXPERTS

IT was stated at a meeting of the National Agricultural and Industrial Development Association, held at 3 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin (Mr. J. J. Holloway presiding), that industrial development was reaching phases of industry in which high technical skill was required, and, owing to increasing prosperity in England, it was hard to procure reliable technical experts when no Irishmen with the necessary qualifications were available. The Association had recently given information which led to a new Irish industry for making certain types of ply-wood. Inquiries had been received from the Pigs Market Board with regard to the production of pig markers, tin numbered strips for the process of rationalising pig production and sale. This was being considered. Many demands were being filed for products not yet made here: stamped tin badges, non-fouling paint, scissors, etc.

Two cases had recently come before the Association of soap and pencils manufactured in Saorstat Eireann, but in which the cartons were printed abroad and the words, "printed in England," pasted over in the folding process. In view of the efforts made by all-Irish firms to use Irish cartons, even to the use of Irish paper where available, the Council considered the use of foreign wrappers by a huge combine operating here most unfair.

CINEMA SEAT STANDARDS

The Council considered a letter from the Irish Engineering and Foundry Union and from the Hammond Lane Foundry Company protesting at the continued importation of foreign castings, notably seat standards for cinemas, actually creating unemployment in an industry subject to high tariffs.

Seat standards were in the vast majority of cases imported, although much employment could be given manufacturing them at home.

The Government were to be approached on the matter of insisting that the seat standards should be produced in the Irish Free State, and a quota to be imposed if necessary. The secretary was instructed to obtain the view of the Irish Cinema Owners' Association on the question.

CONCRETE REINFORCEMENTS

A further case of alleged unnecessary importation was brought to the notice of the Council in the use of British concrete reinforcement for a factory. Nine-tenths of the imports of this product had been eliminated owing to the excellent reinforcement available, made by two Saorstat firms—Messrs. Macnaughtons Twisteel Reinforcement and Messrs. Thos. Pearson and Sons. The architect reported that the continuous foreign material was more suitable for upper floors bearing heavy loads, but admitted that Irish reinforcement, if overlapped, was as effective, but that it might be dangerous to use for fear that those engaged in construction might, through carelessness or oversight, omit the overlapping.

The Secretary had reported the suggestion to the Saorstat Eireann Federation of Building Trades Employers, who replied that any builder of repute would carry out the necessary overlapping. It was learnt that in the construction of another factory ten men had lost work for a year owing to the use of foreign reinforcement. Irish reinforcement had been used for heavy loads on suspended floors in the Pigeon House, mills of various types, and in other Irish buildings, and had proved to be, if anything, superior to the foreign product and easier to lay.

The Council instructed the Secretary to make the strongest possible protest at the use of a foreign material, which in no way was superior to Irish material, and which created unemployment among male adult workers.

It was reported that all arrangements were completed in connection with the private dinner to be given by the Council of the N.A.I.D.A. and the National Manufacturers' Council to Mr. H. D. Pearson, President of the Association for three years. This function would mark the generous gift of a medallion by Mr. Pearson to be worn by the President of the Association, and would signify the successful formation and initial activity of the National Manufacturers' Council.

The Secretary reported that he had received inquiries from various development associations regarding possible industries. Investigations were being made with regard to the possible manufacture of toys, domestic glass (imports over £50,000 annually), naps and velours, whose production required stimulation, and other products.

MANUFACTURERS' COUNCIL

At the usual meeting of the National Manufacturers' Council the Secretary was instructed to send the Minister for Industry and Commerce the preliminary report on alien penetration, and to ask for a Governmental inquiry into the whole question. A considerable volume of evidence was already prepared and more was promised.

The public were asked to contribute information to be given in confidence to the Government on the question.

OBITUARY

REV. J. F. McCOURT

The death took place at Milford Nursing Home, Limerick, after a short illness, of the Very Rev. John F. McCourt, S.C., Rector of the Salesian College, Farnborough, Hants. He had been on a holiday at Copsewood College, Pallaskenry, when he took suddenly ill two weeks ago, and was removed to Milford House. His parents belonged to Newry, but he himself was born in London. He was Rector of Copsewood College from 1922 to 1925, and the community there and all others who knew him deeply regret his death. The funeral will leave for London to-day.

RATHMINES PARISH SALE OF WORK

No fewer than 157 stallholders and assistants took part in the two-day sale of work in aid of foreign missions, which was brought to a close in the Parochial Hall, Belgrave square, Rathmines, yesterday. Canon Tobias presided and the opening ceremony was performed by Canon E. H. Lewis-Crosby.

The stallholders included:—Our Own Missionary Stall—Mrs. Tobias, Mrs. W. Tarleton, Mrs. Irwin. Children's Service—Mrs. Erskine, Mrs. Cookham, Miss Quin. Sweets—Mrs. Thrift and Mrs. Yates. MARSH'S LIBRARY, DUBLIN

THE 226th ANNUAL VISITATION

The 226th annual visitation of Marsh's Library was held at the library, on Friday, 6th November. The Governors' present were: The Archbishop of Dublin (in the chair), the Dean of Christ Church, and the Dean of St. Patrick's.

Apologies for non-attendance were received from the Primate and the Provost of Trinity College.

The Librarian presented the accounts for the year, which were passed.

Mr. David Greene, Sch.,T.C.D., was appointed assistant librarian, in place of Mr. Desmond Neill, B.A., resigned.

The Librarian referred in his report to the death last February of the Rev. Dr. Newport J. D. White, librarian from 1898 to 1931, and mentioned that Dr. White's widow and family have made several interesting donations to the library from his belongings. These include—beside several printed books—a M.S. transcript (with collations) by Bishop Reeves of the "Hymn of Saint Sechnall," and a note-book containing transcripts made by Dr. J. H. Todd at Rome, in 1852, from the famous Irish M.SS. then at Isidore's, and now in the Franciscan Friary, Dublin. Another gift is a curious statement signed, in 1688, by Sir Martin Beckman, who served in the Irish war and was Chief Engineer of England (a post which was revived a few weeks ago). A portrait of Dr. White came from the same donors and has been hung in the library.

Mr. H. V. White, of the Bank of Ireland, has presented a number of interesting books of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, purchased at the sale of the Ormonde Library at Kilkenny Castle. Other donors of books were Bishop White, Professor E. Curtis, and Mr. James Coleman.

The library is also indebted to Dr. T. Percy C. Kirkpatrick, for a number of gifts. Among printed books, these include the magnificent "Records of St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield, 1921," and several works relating to early printing. He has also given a facsimile of the binding executed by A. Bradley for the "Journals of the Irish Parliament" (these splendid volumes were destroyed in the Record Office in 1922); also, an engraved portrait of Primate Hugh Boulter; also, two volumes containing addresses presented to Sir Benjamin Lee Guinness after the restoration of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and photographs and memoranda relating to the same matter.

Dr. Kirkpatrick has also generously defrayed the cost of cleaning and restoration (by J. J. Gorry, Dublin) of the portrait in oils of the Rev. Thomas Cradock, librarian, 1776-1815. This portrait is (possibly) the work of Gilbert Stuart, several of whose paintings of eighteenth century Irish worthies are in the National Portrait Gallery.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

RYDAL'S SUCCESS

Clever Performance of Ivy Grey in Eton Nursery

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

WINDSOR, Friday Night.

FOR once in a way Windsor had a fine afternoon for the opening of its November meeting. Such an occurrence on this low-lying course on Thames-side, an area more subject to fog and floods than, perhaps, anywhere else in the country, is so rare as to deserve special chronicling. It was a pleasant, sunny afternoon, not even cold, but the recent rains had made the going very holding.

The standard of the racing did not reach a very high level, but a filly with some pretensions to class, Lord Stanley's Rydal by Winalot out of Grasmere, won the Combermere Handicap, and won it easily, too, having a couple of lengths to spare from the bottom weight, Hollands.

This was Rydal's third success this season, but in the other two races that she won she had not a great deal to beat. She had, however, run third in the Park Hill Stakes at Doncaster to Traffic Light, and she had divided Silversol and Barrowby Gem in the Yorkshire Oaks, receiving a lot of weight from each.

She did not go too well in the market here, but she went better in the race than the more fancied Tapageur, who finished third, four lengths behind her. Hollands had made nearly all the running, but Rydal took it up from him a furlong out and beat him easily.

Only Finished Fifth

Silver Birch, who was nearly as good a favourite as Tideway for the Oaks after winning the Haverhill Stakes over the Cambridgeshire course at Newmarket, had support here, but she could finish no nearer than fifth, behind Lord Ellesmere's filly, Hold Hard.

The day began with the Black Nest Handicap, in which A. Richardson, who rode the Cesarewitch winner, Fet, got up in the last few strides on Stella Warden to catch Buck Bean and beat her by a short head, Clematis finishing third, a length away. Richardson, who is quite the strongest jockey of his weight that we have, could only have got his mount's head in front as he came under the judge.

The top-weight, Knighted, ran well for five furlongs, but did not last out the six in the heavy going. Totaig was slowly away, and never improved much, while Atalanta dropped back after showing up well for five furlongs.

Very Much Fancied

Born Pal, a daughter of Highborn, was very much fancied to win the Mill Maiden Selling Plate, but after starting from one of the most favourable positions in the draw she was beaten some distance out, and then Wootton's filly by Flamingo from Love Sonnet won cleverly from Jock Gordon, with Marsh Light third, a length and a half away. This winner only cost 115 guineas to buy in.

The executive did not have much from surpluses accruing from selling plate winners; for the winner of the River Handicap, the three-year-old filly, Idle Jest, by the exported Flamboyant, only made 130 guineas.

This one, who is trained by the South African, James Russell, and was ridden by G. Nicoll, was a very easy winner, indeed, by three lengths from Brushwork, after she had drawn away well clear some distance from home.

A Stylish Performance

There was the biggest field of the afternoon for the Eton Nursery, in which the top-weight among the runners, Ivy Grey, accomplished a stylish performance by winning cleverly from one of those low in the handicap, Bold Bidder, and the Penny Rock filly. Ivy Grey, who is by Empire Builder out of Eleni, was bred by Mr. John Harris and sold at Doncaster for 1,300 guineas to the late Mr. J. J. Bell-Irving, and went into the stable of R. Armstrong, for whom she won twice early in the season.

Mr. Bell-Irving died early in the summer and his executors then sold her to Sir Victor Sassoon, who sent her to be trained by Basil Jarvis with the rest of the horses he has at Newmarket. This was her first win in his colours, and was her best performance of the season, for she was giving weight to a number of useful ones.

Solenoid's sister, Caldo, who ran in blinkers, seemed to be fancied, but she did not get the best of the start, and was never a dangerous factor.

In the last race the favourite was Mrs. Arthur James's Castel St. Angelo, but he continues to disappoint, and was beaten a length and a half by Dytchley, whom Captain Boyd-Rochfort trains, and who had won not long ago at Lingfield.

Selections

There is a £600 race here to-morrow, the Mayor's Handicap, from which the top-weight, Sea Bequest, will be absent. That consistent grey, The Font—negotiations for whose sale recently fell through—will be in the field, and this is one of his best courses.

Astyanax has missed some recent engagements on account of the ground being thought too firm for him, but he has been given a chance here. Tract has won his last two races, but over shorter courses. Low in the handicap there is Slieve Mish not out of it, but the best may be ASTYANAX. Next to him I like The Font.

The College Nursery should be won by HARVEST MOON, and the Thames Handicap by AURORA III.

GALTEE MORE.

SLIEVE MISH NAPPED

The Reeve Selected for the Thames Handicap

BIG fields will again be the order of the day at Windsor this afternoon, and the Mayor's Handicap, the principal event, bears a particularly open appearance. Slieve Mish may solve the problem. He was strongly supported when beaten three-parts of a length by Hold Hard at Worcester last month, so now he will be out to atone.

R. B. Bennett is likely to make a gallant bid to concede nearly 2st. to Slieve Mish. R. B. Bennett keeps his form very well in spite of increasing years. He failed only by three-quarters of a length to give 15lb. to Spinifex at Newmarket on his last appearance.

Sands o' Dee has not had a great deal to do in winning his last two races. In my opinion, he will have to pull out something extra here is he is to complete a "hat-trick." Although West Highland has had a lot of racing this season, he is expected to give a good account of himself. Victor Norman, last year's winner, has more to do now, and as he has not run for several months, I do not fancy his chances of repeating the success.

The Font rarely runs a bad race. This is his best distance, so he should not be easily beaten. Fairhaven has been shaping well in gallops at Newmarket recently, and he may carry Lord Derby's colours prominently with all his weight. Fox Star is consistent, and will have the assistance of Gordon Richards. Such as Samarkand, Gamesmaster, and Salopette may not be disgraced, though I hope to see win from R. B. Bennett and Fox Star.

I place most confidence in

THE REEVE

in the Thames Handicap. The filly was just beaten out of a place in the event won by Brave Warrior at Newmarket last time out. Earlier she was a clever winner at Thirsk, and that form has been enhanced on Idle Jest. Danger is likely to come from H.W., now that the gelding has struck winning form, and Connemara.

MOISHA

may at last succeed in getting his head in front in the College Nursery. The gelding has been placed in his last four races, so will not be winning out of his turn. Other fancied competitors are Harvest Moon, Titlark, and Giorgetta. I consider that Harvest Moon is the biggest danger to Moisha.

BRUMMELL,

who has a similar record to that of Moisha, may win the Athens Stakes. Avonian Laddie and King's Highway may follow Gil. Bennett's charge past the post.

Birth Token, Roselyon, and Minos are the trio I like best in the Forest Selling Nursery. Preference is given to who is expected to recover some of the money lost over him at Gatwick last September.

SUCH FUN

should be equal to winning the Rays Selling Handicap.

LEOPARDSTOWN FORM AND SELECTIONS

WALTER'S PRIDE FANCIED

Phylactery May Score in the Sandyford Plate

VISITORS to Leopardstown this afternoon are assured of an excellent afternoon's racing. The Autumn Plate for two years old will afford another opportunity for judging the merits of Walter's Pride, who won his last two races in convincing style. Each of these was over a distance of six furlongs, and to-day's is a furlong further, but this should not trouble him, as his stamina is beyond question. The danger to him may be Poul-Na-Bran.

For the Bray Steeplechase many horses will be fancied. Little Ant, who usually shows her best form on this course, and Bryan O'Linn, who has been running consistently well in the South, look to hold good chances, but the recent running of Lizzie's Nephew, who was second to Lucky Fool at Powerstown Park, suggests that Mr. Urquhart's horse holds the beating of most of those likely to run. Lizzie's Nephew is named as the winner, and Little Ant may be the best for a place investment.

Several horses that ran in the Irish Cambridgeshire are among the sixteen declared runners for the Sandyford Plate, including Corrib Lady, second in the Curragh race, and Phylactery, who was only deprived of third place by a narrow margin. Phylactery now has a pull of 6lb. in the weights, which would be increased to 11lb. should the stable apprentice, J. Ryan, have the mount, and this should enable Mr. F. More O'Ferrall's filly to reverse the placings and probably win. Selections:—

NEWMARKET HINTS

At the Windsor fixture to-morrow. Crampit is a recent winner, who will be well supported for the Thames Handicap Plate. There may not be much to choose between The Reeve and H.W. Should Aurora III. be on her best behaviour, she may prove to be the danger to CRAMPIT (next best).

Those we have running in the Forest Selling Nursery are not brilliant. I have weighed up their merits, and have come to the conclusion that who ran very well in the Welbeck Nursery at Derby, should be our best, and is worthy of each way support.

Fairhaven is well up in the weights for the Mayor's Plate. I prefer Sands o' Dee to Baber Shah. The issue may be fought out by Conway and

SLIEVE MISH.

In the corresponding race last year Conway ran extremely well, but I give Ted Leader's charge a slight preference.

The Newmarket horses in the Rays Selling Welter are moderate. Squash, who figures at the bottom of the weights, should beat Knight of the Garden. If we win the race it will be by the aid of KINCLAVEN.

Spectrum's best form was when she was third to Morning Flight and Verona at Haydock Park. She is entitled to respect in the College Nursery Handicap. It may be a very close race between J. Jarvis's representative and

GIORGETTA*

Giorgetta has done well in recent spins, and must have my vote.

KING'S HIGHWAY

should take the Athens Maiden Stakes.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Field Trial Sold as a Stallion

Lord Astor's Field Trial, the top weight for the Manchester November Handicap, has been sold privately as a stallion for a substantial sum. The name of the purchaser was not revealed. Field Trial will not run in the November Handicap, and will stand next season at the Littleton Stud, near Winchester.

Trainer's Cheap Purchase

Buena Esperanza, a three-year-old gelding, was sold at Windsor yesterday to his trainer, J. Beary, for 10 guineas.

N. Scobie to Visit Australia

Sir Charles Hyde's trainer, Norman Scobie, and his wife, leave for Australia to-day on a holiday trip. They return in the middle of February.

Change of Training Quarters

The three-year-old, Hornby Park, has left J. Scott's training quarters for W. Stubb's place at Letcombe Regis.

Bloodstock for Russia

A big consignment of racehorses will leave Newmarket within the next few days for shipment to Russia. An enormous expansion of racing is contemplated in the U.S.S.R., and it is probable that the heavy purchases of Bloodstock in Great Britain will continue. It is stated that the idea at the back of the enterprise is the exclusive use of the Totalisator on Russian racecourses. The belief exists that if up-to-date racecourses are provided with free transport and admission sufficient revenue will be forthcoming from the Totalisator deduction from the betting turnover. Thus, by taking a fairly substantial percentage of the pool, the authorities will be in a position to provide everything gratis.

Turf Club and I.N.H.S.C.

A meeting of the Stewards of the Turf Club and of the Irish National Hunt Steeplechase Committee will be held at the Registry Office on Tuesday next at 11 a.m., followed by the statutory meeting of the Turf Club.

NEW SOUTH WALES TEAM TO MEET TOURISTS

SYDNEY, Friday.

S. J. McCabe will captain the New South Wales side to play the M.C.C. in the sixth match of their tour on November 13, 14, 16 and 17. In this match the tourists will meet Australia's bowler-in-chief, W. J. O'Reilly, for the first time during the tour. It will be interesting to see how they get on against his leg trap, which proved to be such a success when the Australians toured South Africa earlier in the year.

J. Fingleton, the hard-hitting opening batsman, will have a chance to redeem his failure at Perth, and A. G. Chipperfield, one of the successes of the last tour of England, is playing. The team is:—S. J. McCabe, W. J. O'Reilly, J. Fingleton, A. G. Chipperfield, R. Robinson, A. Marks, E. White, A. McGilvray, L. Hynes, H. Mudge, W. A. Oldfield. Twelfth man—V. Jackson.

IRISH SPORTSMEN ABROAD.

RUGBY FOOTBALL

VISIT OF HERIOTS?

Blackrock's Stiff Task in the College Park

A NUMBER of interesting matches are arranged for this afternoon, and probably the game in the College Park between Dublin University and Blackrock College will prove the chief attraction. Blackrock have, with Clontarf, the honour of being the only unbeaten side, but Trinity ran Clontarf close last Saturday and have been showing improvement in every game since the opening of the season.

Heriots, the crack Scottish side, who beat Glasgow High School by 9 points to 7 last Saturday, pay a visit to Lansdowne road to oppose Lansdowne with a side which includes the internationals, J. D. Kerr (full-back) and J. D. Lowe (forward). E. J. Oxley and J. G. Napier are Scottish Trial players, and they and A. R. Robson played for Edinburgh against Glasgow. Lansdowne will have their work cut out to hold in check such a strong side. Bective will be visited by Queen's University at Donnybrook, and another close and interesting game should be the outcome of their meeting. Clontarf should readily account for Monkstown, but Palmerston will have to show their best form to hold University College, Galway.

Three Dublin clubs play away matches, U.C.D. meeting their sister University at Cork, where Wanderers will engage Dolphin, and at Limerick Old Wesley oppose Garryowen.

SENIOR LEAGUE GAMES

STRONG OPPOSITION FOR TRINITY

Trinity, leaders in the Senior League competition, will face another severe test this afternoon, when they oppose Pembroke Wanderers at Serpentine avenue. Although weak in attack, Wanderers are strong at half-back and in defence, and they should give the University a hard game. Their greater speed should give Trinity a slight winning advantage. If Three Rock Rovers strike their best form, they should worry Railway Union, while the other challenging team, Corinthians, should collect full points at Y.M.C.A.'s expense.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

OPENING MATCHES IN THE LEAGUE

LEADING SHIELD TEAMS PLAY AWAY

The Shield competition made out Bohemians, Waterford, Shamrock Rovers, Shelbourne and St. James's Gate to have the strongest teams in the Free State, and in that respect it was cheering to see Shelbourne making such a bid for the honours in the first tournament they took part in following their reinstatement.

To-day the same twelve clubs begin the League championship, which is an entirely different competition, inasmuch as it is played on the usual League system of home and away matches. That, of course, makes it much more interesting than the Shield, but, unless the other seven teams are strengthened for the longer and more exacting tournament, it is quite probable that after a few weeks the leading division in the Shield will have retained their position. They are, however, likely to do so, and we can look forward to Dolphin, Drumcondra, Dundalk and Cork figuring more prominently in the League.

It is not often that we have three matches in Dublin on a Saturday, but that is the position to-day. Shelbourne are at home to Dundalk, who consolidated their defence during the week by signing on a couple of cross-Channel players; but the advantage of playing at home will likely be fully availed of by Shelbourne. Dolphin will give St. James's Gate a tough fight at Tolka Park, but Bohemians ought to be able to beat Brideville on the latter's ground.

The meeting of Drumcondra and Shamrock Rovers to-morrow at Tolka Park, where Waterford lost the all-important points in the closing match in the Shield, will be the tit-bit of the day; but Waterford will be a big attraction at Sligo. With such a Shield record, it is not to be expected that Bray Unknowns will spring what would be the surprise of the season should they succeed at Cork.

IMPROVED DISPLAY BY LIVERPOOL

LIVERPOOL UNIVERSITY 3
NEWCOMES 2

The Liverpool University ladies gave a much-improved display yesterday against Newcomes at Stradbrook, and gained the first victory of their Irish tour by 3 goals to 2.

Five minutes after the start Miss Robinson scored for Liverpool. From this until three minutes before the interval play was of a very even nature, when Miss McAuley equalised. Early in the second half Miss Robinson got two goals in quick succession for Liverpool, and five minutes before the end Miss McAuley scored again for Newcomes. Teams:—

Liverpool University — Misses Mitchell; Capper, Little; Hogg, Dodd, Williams; Garner, Melhuish, Jones, Robinson, Rose.

Newcomes—Misses Phillips; Murdock, C. Robinson; Hines, F. Robinson, Quinn; Cruise, McCarthy, McAuley, Buckley, Murray.

BOXING

A SURPRISE FOR J. SAUNDERS

KELLY WINS TITLE FOR FIFTH YEAR

The Leinster championships were concluded at Portobello Gymnasium last night, and, while there was a considerable improvement on the form shown in the preliminary bouts on the previous night, the general standard of the boxing fell below what one might reasonably expect from representatives of the leading province.

J. Dolan confirmed the good impression he had created in his previous bouts by outpointing J. Dunne in clever style to gain the fly-weight title.

The best performance of the night was that of J. Foley, of Phœnix, who decisively outpointed J. Saunders in the bantam-weight final. As Saunders had gained a splendid win over L. Casey, the former A.B.A. champion, only a week ago, there was considerable merit attached to Foley's win last night. Saunders was disappointing. His punches in the first round lacked sting, and Foley, boxing cooly, caused the Arbour Hill boy to miss frequently. In the second round Saunders timed his punches badly, while Foley was accuracy itself, and the decision in his favour came as no surprise.

Tommy Kelly in outpointing a tough opponent in P. Finnegan (Arbour Hill) retained the Leinster light-weight title for the fifth year in succession—a truly splendid achievement. Finnegan gave a plucky display and several times had Kelly in trouble, but Kelly was the cleverer and at close quarters was always the master.

Corporal C. Evenden, showing considerable improvement on recent form, went a step higher in his attempt to come back to the first rank by giving a delightful exhibition of skilful boxing to outpoint the welter champion, J. Sweeney, who was never in with a chance after the first round, during which his hustling tactics had Evenden temporarily in difficulties. Details:—

Fly-weight—J. Dolan (Corinthian) beat J. Dunne (Avona) on points.

Bantam-weight—J. Foley (Phœnix) beat J. Saunders (Arbour Hill) on points.

Feather-weight—E. Humphrey (St. Joseph's) beat B. Kennedy (St. Andrew's) on points.

Light-weight—T. Kelly (Corinthian) beat P. Finnegan (Arbour Hill) on points.

Welter-weight — Corporal C. Evenden (Collins) beat J. Sweeney (Avona) on points.

Middle-weight—M. Connolly (Corinthian) beat C. Forde (St. Andrew's) on points.

Cruiser-weight—Private J. Kerry (Collins) beat C. Healy (St. Andrew's) on points.

J. Brannigan (Garda) beat T. Penny (St. Andrew's) on points.

Special welter-weight — J. D. Dennehy (Dublin University) beat Private Guilfoyle (Collins) on points.

BOLAND CUP TIES AT KILLESTER

MAYO AND LAOIGHIS MEET IN FOOTBALL LEAGUE

(By PAT'O.)

Faughs (county champions) and Young Irelands (Boland Cup-holders) always draw a big crowd of Dublin hurling enthusiasts. Their recent draw left the question of supremacy undecided. The teams did not meet in this year's championship. I learn that full senior sides will line out to-morrow and will include a dozen All-Ireland men.

Faughs will field Ryan (goal); Quinn and Gill, of Galway; Farrell, Downes, O'Brien and Duggan to support Wade (captain), who is again playing well. Young Irelands will have Leahy and Byrne, of the Kilkenny fifteen, with Skehal, the Westmeath "star," playing in front of Martin White at centre-back. Coughlan and the younger of the Leahys will make matters lively for the Faughs' defenders; yet I expect Faughs to win.

The Army v. Civil Service game in the other semi-final will be the more attractive, though less strenuous, game. The Service hurled a brilliant match against the Garda in the earlier round. They are the neatest hurlers in Dublin. The Army can always turn out a useful side, and Daniels, Murphy, Culleton, Forde, O'Connor, Delaney and O'Brien will extend Civil Service, for whom Barry, the Crowley brothers, O'Riordan, Desmond and Shortall are prominent in present inter-departmental matches.

Civil Service are building up a very strong side and will be a force in coming League and championship matches. They have a wealth of young material from hurling counties.

Twenty counties, playing at ten venues, keep the interest keen in to-morrow's third round of the National Football League. Dublin, who visit Kells, will find Meath formidable opponents, following their sweeping win over Louth at Drogheda. Meath always turn out a good League side, and have visions of going through Group A in Division I. without defeat. Loughran, Donnelly, McGuinness and Rogers make a powerful attacking force, and should test the McDonnell, Feeney and Brennan combination. Much depends on the form of Dublin's new grouping in front—they need points badly following defeats by Cavan and Kildare.

Mayo, at the head of affairs, will be at full championship strength at Ballina, where they have Laoighis as visitors. Laoighis are again playing the six Delaneys. They have brought on Short and Rankins, of Stradbally, in defence, with Haughney, of the Carlow border, and Moran (Army) filling the top corners, in room of the lighter men, Keating and O'Reilly. Laoghis are bent on extending Mayo at home, and will put up a far better battle than at Croke Park.

Kerry look a certainty for points at Listowel against Tipperary, who have not recovered their 1935 form. Kerry have selected a skilful fifteen, who are expected to shake up Mayo when they meet in the new year. Cavan and Kildare seem to be very evenly matched at Athy. Both are unbeaten and have League ambitions. Kildare only scrambled home against Louth and Dublin. An improvement is necessary, particularly in the attack. Their front line cannot always depend on Pat Byrne's place-kicking to win their games.

FROM THE HUNTING FIELDS

WARD UNION HOUNDS

The first mid-week meet of the season brought out a big field with the Ward Hounds at Fairyhouse Bridge on Wednesday. After a fine morning, rain commenced just as hounds were laid on, and got heavier as the day advanced, but excellent sport provided compensation for the unpleasant weather conditions.

An untried hind was enlarged on the old point-to-point course at Mullinam by invation of Mr. "Jim" Brindley, the veteran ex-huntsman of this pack. Hounds ran right across Fairyhouse racecourse and in front of the Stand House to the river. Without crossing it they swung right-handed by Ballyhack to Glascairn, and, still bearing to the right, ran hard through the bog of Loughlinstown to Phedolf. Leaving Cheeverstown fox covert on their left, they hunted by Ballymacoll to Nutstown. They crossed the Caulstown River in front of Mr. Ward's house, and went on towards Norman's Grove, but turned sharply left-handed through Portmanna to The Mayne. The best of it was now over and very few stayed with hounds, as, with heavy rain falling and scent gradually getting worse, they slowly circled through Glenmore and The Gunnocks. Between here and Clonee they were stopped, leaving the hind an outlier. This was a very good hunt, especially in its earlier stages, of an hour and forty minutes over a grand line of country.

MEATH HOUNDS

Owing to scent being a negligible quantity, the sport with these hounds on Tuesday from Pelletstown cross-roads, and on Thursday from Lobinstown was, as might only be expected in the circumstances, very moderate. There was no dearth of foxes, but hounds could make nothing of them.

There was a welcome improvement yesterday, when the meet was at Kilmessan, and a nice days hunting was brought off. A fox found in Curtistown went away over the railway line, which he re-crossed at Knocktown, and was ultimately lost at Harlands Hills. A Kilcorty fox was hunted along the "double" and back to the covert, which he left on the far side and got to ground at Knockery. Then came a capital 25 minutes from Galtrim. The quarry first pointed for Ginnett's, but, turning left-handed, he crossed the Galtrim Hills and on nearly to Riverstown. From here he proceeded through Brangstown and over the Trim-Dublin road into and through Kilcarty, and made good his escape near the garden wall, which finished, as the next draw was too far away.

BALLYMACAD HOUNDS

OPENING MEET

Although yesterday morning's weather was cold and unpleasant, there was a large gathering at Castle Cor, near Oldcastle, for the opening meet of the Ballymacad Hounds. A greater number of mounted followers turned out than has been seen at the opening meet of this pack for some years, while the crowd on wheels and on foot was also extensive.

Mr. Speid Soote is Master this year. He hunted last season in Northumberland, and is residing for the present at Castle Cor, where he and Mrs. Speid Soote entertained all present at the meet before the hounds moved off to draw the first covert, Crossdrum.

Among those present were:—Mr. Speid Soote, M.F.H.; Mrs. Speid Soote, Captain W. Naper, M.F.H., and Mrs. Naper; Mr. A. Harman, M.F.H., and Mrs. Harman; Miss Harman, Miss K. Harman, Major and Mrs. Kilroy, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rotheram, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell, Miss Olga Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer, the Misses Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. Astley Robin, Mr. A. Hone, Miss R. Nugent, the Rev. C. and Mrs. Kevin, Miss Hose, Mr. E. O'Neill, Mr. S. Henderson, Mrs. and Miss Wilson, Mrs. Carney, Miss Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson, Mr. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Hackett, Mrs. Hassard, Miss Sherlock, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. W. O'Neill, Mr. W. Aherne, Dr. Beare, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hone, Mr. B. Fagan, Miss R. Rotheram, Mrs. Wyver, Mr. E. Kilroy, etc.

CO. LIMERICK HOUNDS

A FINE HUNT

Mr. John Alexander seems to specialise in providing a brilliant hunt during the first week of each season, and he did not disappoint his followers on Wednesday last. The meet was at Cahirmoyle and a large field turned out. A fox was found at once and ran out of the demesne up Lisgordan Hill and back again. Hounds stuck to him well, and after an hour and thirty minutes he found refuge in a drain near Glenville. The rain now cleared a little and a move was made to Mr. Cousin's new covert at Meade's Fort. It was interesting to note the eagerness of hounds as they approached the gorse, denoting that a fox was on foot.

There were several foxes in the covert and one of the right sort broke at once and swung as if for Cahirmoyle, but changed his mind and ran over the deep fields towards Coolcappa. The pace became very good as he passed Coolcappa Schoolhouse on his left and, skirting Hartigan's spinneys, it looked as if he was making for Reddestown. Within sight of the Kilnedan road he was hard pressed and was headed by cattle on the road, so he turned left-handed, leaving Mannix's Folly on his right, and made again for Meade's Fort. The pace was now very fast, as we ran over a perfect, but stiff, country, and only a little band of five galloped into Ballyegna with hounds. Grief had been plentiful. Here, going through Mr. Cousin's farm, only a field in front of hounds, the fox managed to find sanctuary in a rabbit hole in the gorse.

This was a really brilliant gallop of over five miles with only one slight check. As someone said, it was a feast for a gourmet rather than a gourmand. Another fox was on foot, but hounds and horses had had enough, and the order was given for home.

QUEEN'S CO. HOUNDS

From the opening meet at Durrow the first draw was a small out-lying piece of gorse at Aghamey, where hounds found at once, but, alas, having crossed one field, he got to ground. We then moved on to Moore's gorse, and hounds, finding immediately, hunted up to Mr Sullivan's house, where he turned right-handed, crossed the road, on through Aghamey. Near Mr. Hart's house he turned left-handed, and ran as if for Hibbert's, but swung left again up the hill to Moore's gorse. Hounds soon had him out again and over the road through Aghamey, but on Mr. Fitzpatrick's land he ran us out of scent, having given us a nice hunt of 50 minutes. We next drew the gorse behind Mr. Dunne's house at Aghamey, where we found and ran by the edge of Cappenellan wood to the gorse behind Mr. Sullivan's, then through Moore's gorse back to where we found him, on past Sullivan's to the gorse opposite Carroll's, through Tinweir, and right-handed as if for Hibbert's, short of which he turned left again, and up past Mr. Sullivan's, where hounds were stopped, as it was getting dark, after a good hunt of one hour forty minutes.

NORTH KILKENNY HOUNDS

Described as the most successful in recent years, the opening meet of the North Kilkenny Hounds was held at Freshford yesterday. The hounds, of which Mr. Angel is Master, hunt a good district, and as they are in perfect trim and reports indicate a plentiful supply of foxes a good season's sport is expected.

The attendance included:—Mr. Angel, M.F.H., and Mrs. Angel; Mr. R. C. Prior-Wandesforde and Mrs. Wandesforde, Mrs. and the Misses Graham, Miss Ann Poë, Misses Poe, G. G. Butler, Miss Knox, Mrs. and Miss Hewat, Mr. E. T. Keane, Captain R. B. and Mrs. Gahan, Captain J. E. and Mrs. St. George, Mrs. Alexander, Mr. Alexander, Miss Butler, Captain Briggs, Mr. R. and Mrs. Brenan, the Misses Brenan, Mr. T. Butler, Miss Butler, Captain T. and Mrs. McCheane, Miss Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Fowler, Dr. C. S. and Mrs. Purdon, Mr. R. Purdon, Mr. Armitage, Mrs. Drennan and Mr. John Drennan, the Rev. C. A. C. Purkiss and Miss Purkiss, Mr. Palmer, Mr. R. Cahill, Mr. M. Stevens, Mr. T. B. Ponsonby, Mr. C. Tynan, Master Desmond McCheane, Miss McCheane, Dr. W. A. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. John Grace, Mr. M. COURSING

BALLINE LADDIE MAKES AMENDS

LIMERICK DOG WINS THE GREENALL CUP

Every element that could conduce to a successful finish of the Greenall Cup Meeting at Kilmallock was present yesterday. The weather was beautifully fine and mild, and the coursing was up to the best traditions of the venue. There was never a suggestion of a hare coming back the field, and all the trials were genuine tests of the dogs, the lead being beaten on at least three occasions.

It was something of a disappointment to find that last season's winner, Maigueside, had gone lame after the coursing on Thursday and he had to be withdrawn. There was little doubt that Balline Laddie and Excuse Me Sir were superior to the others, and in a deciding course, which was short, sharp and decisive, Balline Laddie put paid to the account of Excuse Me Sir.

The winner ran up to Jump Round in the Derby two seasons ago at Powerstown Park, and in last season's Greenall Cup was beaten by the winner, Maigueside. He has a wonderful mouth and the ability to shorten his work. Bred by Mr. Griffin, of Gort, Co. Galway, he is the property of Mr. J. Barry, Limerick, who also keeps some racehorses.

Balline Laddie will now become a serious contender for the Irish Cup, and the long stretches at Clounanna should suit his style of running.

GREENALL CUP—For 25 all-ages. Winner, £70 and Cup (presented by Lord Daresbury); second, £24 10/-; two dogs, £10 each; three dogs, £3 10/- each.

III.

NEWSPAPERS SUED

ACTION DISMISSED

The Lord Chief Justice, at Belfast High Court yesterday, dismissed a motion for a writ of attachment against the Northern Ireland circulation manager of the Daily Mail for alleged contempt of court in the publication of matter and photographs relating to a pending husband enticement action.

The plaintiff in the pending enticement action is Mrs. Alice Lace, of Antrim road, Belfast, and the defendant is Mrs. Madeline Powell, of Brockenhill House, Doagh, Co. Antrim, a follower of the East Antrim Harriers, who, it is alleged enticed away Mr. Lace, former huntsman of the Harriers.

For Mrs. Powell, Mr. E. S. Murphy, K.C., stated that the Daily Mail published a statement on October 24 that judgment had been marked in default of defence in the enticement action, whereas it had been marked in default of appearance. On the main news page on October 26 pictures were given of the three parties in the action.

Mr. E. Warnock, K.C., for the Daily Mail, agreed that the statement with regard to judgment being marked in default of defence was a technical mistake, but no member of the public would appreciate the difference between defence and appearance.

Th Lord Chief Justice said that it would not affect the jury hearing the case in six weeks' time. "Although it is contempt of a kind, it will not affect the trial of the action by one hair," he said.

He could not see how the publication of pictures of people in "this drama" was contempt of Court, though it might be undesirable.

DUBLIN FIRM

GUINNESS AGAIN AHEAD

SHARP RISE IN CARROLL ORD.

The feature on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday was the demand for local securities, and a firm tone prevailed in most sections. British Industrials were not quite so busy, and were rather undecided in tone.

The Free State Funds were generally sought after, and Land Bonds improved to 115. War Loan inclined higher, and Dublin 3½ per cent. 1955-80 moved up to par.

Banks enjoyed support, and Bank of Ireland Stock, Hibernians and Munster and Leinster marked fair gains.

Guinness made fresh headway to 144s. 3d., a rise of 1s. 3d. on renewed good buying.

Rails were quiet, and Great Southern Ord. lost a point. Dublin Tram Ord. added pence at 13s. 10½d.

Crowe Wilson Pref. gained 1s., but Todd Burns Deb. relapsed 1s. 3d.

Outstanding was the strong buying of Carroll Ord., which jumped at one time to 35s. 6d., but towards the close eased slightly on a little selling.

Findlater Deb. jumped 4s., and Merchants' Warehousing Ord. advanced 3s. 6d. Insurance Corporation of Ireland came to hand for the first time at 15s.

Textiles inclined easier, and Iron and Steels were off colour, with Vickers Ord. 1s. 6d. lower at 36s. 7½d.

B.A.T. Ord. rose 1s. 1½d., and Imperials repeated 174s. 3d. Imperial Chemicals hardened a shade, and Mexican Eagles returned to favour, advancing to 33s. 4½d.

LONDON HIGHER

TIN SHARES PROMINENT

Activity in Tin shares, following the agreement on restriction and the consequential rise in the price of the metal, was the outstanding feature on the London stock markets yesterday. The overnight accumulation of buying orders was of substantial proportions, and right from the start prices shot upwards. Profit-taking was encountered on the rise, but sales were well absorbed, and the leading issues all closed considerably higher. Another point of particular interest was a spurt in Mexican Eagles, which received the bulk of support in the Oil section. Kaffirs also were a buoyant market, and, among Industrials, Aircrafts developed a strong tone. Rhodesian Copper issues, although quieter owing to the interest in Tin shares, continued to move in the right direction.

BRITISH FUNDS.

The success of the Southampton Loan was a favourable influence in the gilt-edged market, and a modest volume of investment buying was sufficient to cause an improving tendency in quotations. Old Consols and War Loan were among those which gained ground.

FOREIGN BONDS.

While Japanese issues continued in favour and scored further rises, Foreign Bonds as a whole lacked support, and displayed a reactionary tendency. Scattered selling was in progress among Europeans, and German, Greek, and Czechoslovakia Bonds were all marked down. Exceptionally Portuguese Threes attracted buyers, and advanced to 83. South Americans were mainly lower.

RAILS.

Cheerful conditions again prevailed in the British Rails section, and the recent advance in prices failed to curb buying enthusiasm. Trading was not active, but L.M.S. Ordinary and Great Western Ordinary again changed hands at higher prices, and Southerns went further ahead. Foreign Rails, although quiet, were not without one or two features. Argentines showed no important alteration, but Antofagasta Ordinary added a point, and Cordoba Centrals hardened. On the other hand, San Paulo eased to 83, and Leopoldinas were overshadowed by talk of a possible moratorium on the 4 per cent. Debentures. Colonials presented a firm front, and American Rails held up fairly well.

INDUSTRIALS.

Profit-taking caused some irregularity in Industrials, but conditions generally remained firm, and at the finish the majority of price changes were favourable to holders. The brightest section was that for Aircrafts, where Bristols attracted particular attention, and Hawker Siddeley advanced on dividend and scrip bonus hopes. Motors were notable for strength of A.E.C., and Tube investments supplied a strong feature in the Iron and Steel group. Cable and Wireless stocks became more active than of late, and the A Stock scored an appreciable rise. Breweries, Tobaccos and Rayons displayed firmness, and Gamage showed to advantage among Stores issues. Transatlantics quietened down, and realisations accounted for shrinkages in certain Building and Electrical Equipment descriptions.

MINES.

The Mining groups finished an active week in good style, and, although Tin shares monopolised attention, lively dealings were witnessed in other directions. Interest in Kaffirs broadened, and many of the leaders reached improved levels. "Vogels" were especially bright on recent good developments and the belief that gold production will start shortly. West Africans continued in demand, but profit-taking in late dealings brought prices back to around their previous closing levels. Diamond shares finished easier. Elsewhere Trepca responded to the increased profits.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

TENDENCY REMAINS CHEERFUL

Cheerful conditions again prevailed in most sections of the Industrial market yesterday. A further satisfactory turnover was witnessed, and although some profit-taking occurred several gains were recorded.

After a firm opening the trans-Atlantic counters developed an easier tendency owing to profit-taking sales, and finished with an irregular appearance. "Emmies" remained quietly strong.

Cable and Wireless stocks were revived, noticeably the junior issues. An irregular tendency prevailed among Iron and Steel descriptions, although business was again on a fairly active scale. A particularly strong spot was provided by Tube Investments, a keen demand for which was based on favourable anticipations of the report which is due shortly; the price advanced 4s. 3d. to 94s. 6d. Stewarts and Lloyds Deferred, however, weakened.

Electrical Equipments generally displayed firmness. W. T. Henleys further advanced ⅛, Electrical Construction rose 1s. 3d., Siemens put on another 6d., and Crompton Parkinsons recovered 6d.

AIRCRAFTS BRIGHTER.

Several bright features developed among Aircrafts in anticipation of the defence debate. Bristols continued in good demand. Imperial Airways were 1s. 6d. higher and Rolls-Royce hardened to 8 29/32. Parnalls were an active market, rising to 16s. 6d.

In the Stores group Gamages provided a bright feature on good trade prospects and advanced to 32s. 9d.; Woolworths were steady at 156s. 6d.

Profit-taking accounted for a setback in Unilevers among Provision and Catering shares. Losses of 1s. occurred in the Ord. at 42s. 6d. and in N.V. at 45s. 9d.

Textiles developed a rather better tendency. Patons and Baldwins improved to 66s. 6d. and Linen Thread to 33s. 3d., while J. and P. Coats hardened to 50s. 1½d.

Rayons were not very active. American Celanese were supported, closing 1/16 higher. Courtaulds were maintained at 58s.

BREWERIES STRONG.

Dividend expectations and encouraging trading reports brought in fresh supporting orders for Breweries. Wolverhampton and Dudley were prominent and rose to around 96s.; Newcastles advanced to 66s. 6d. and Benskins to 98s., while modest gains were recorded by Guinness, Friary Holroyd, Ind Coope, and Watney Deferred.

Apart from Gallahers, which came in for renewed attention from the provinces and rose 1/16 to 6⅞, Tobaccos remained on the quiet side.

Shipping shares received further support at first, but profit-taking occurred later.

Movements in the Miscellaneous section continued irregular and little of interest developed. British Oxygens were slightly better. Imperial Chemicals came in for support, and Associated Portland Cements strengthened further.

EAGLE OILS STRONG

Oil shares finished the week in good style. The firmness which prevailed on Thursday continued in evidence throughout the whole of yesterday, and some further important advances were recorded. Continental operators were buyers of Shells, Mexican Eagles, and Canadian Eagles, and more particularly the last-named, but small sellers of Royal Dutch. A blaze of activity and strength in Mexican Eagles marked the opening, animated bidding taking the price up smartly. There was a small increase in production last week, but output is substantially below normal. No official news came to hand regarding the strike position. In view of the uncertainty dealers found the market an extremely difficult one, and generally endeavoured to finish the week with level books. After the market had closed an agency message was received from Mexico City to the effect that all workers of the Mexican Eagle Oil Co. were prepared to resume work after the four weeks' strike. It is stated that they are to receive a 25 per cent. increase in wages. Mexican Eagles finished with a rise of 1s. 7½d. Canadian Eagles, which received French, as well as local support, finished with a gain of 1s. A strong feature was again provided among Trinidad issues by United British, which left off with an improvement of 10½d.

RUBBERS UNDECIDED

Although the actual turnover in Rubber shares yesterday showed some contraction, active conditions characterised the market during the opening hours. Fresh buying of several of the better-class issues was witnessed, and quotations displayed an upward tendency. Subsequently, demand was offset by persistent speculative profit-taking, and prices fluctuated irregularly. The market showed resistance to selling, however, and Anglo-Dutch, Kuala Lumpur, Rubber Trust, and certain others closed above their opening levels. Firm conditions existed in a fairly busy commodity section, and spot rubber sold up to 8 3/16d. per lb. It is estimated that U.K. rubber stocks have been reduced by 1,800 tons during the past week.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET

Little of interest developed in the "Street" market after hours last evening, and, with business on a comparatively small scale, price movements were not extensive. Internationals finished with an irregular appearance. Nickels improved at first to 65⅞, but eased to 65⅝, and Steels, after advancing from 79½ to 80, were finally back to the former figure. Tractions lost ⅛ to 18 5/16, while Canadas were a like amount easier at 14½. New York Centrals eased to 47, Chryslers finished below the best at 138, and General Motors reacted to 76½. Anacondas, on the other hand, were in demand, and put on 3/16 to 11 3/16, while American Rolling Mills were bid for frequently, and rose to 35½. In the Oil section, Mex Eagles gained a few pence to 32s. 10½d., while business was done in Canadian Eagles around 19s. 7½d.

LONDON MINING MARKET

BIG BUSINESS IN TINS AND COPPERS

Although interest in the Mining market yesterday again centred mainly upon Tin and Copper descriptions, among which many substantial gains were recorded, there was still a big business in progress in Gold shares, and the general advance which has been in progress for some days past was only checked by the approach of the week-end.

Kaffirs were by no means neglected, and there was again a good demand for many of the leaders. Anglo-American were a strong spot.

Central Mining jumped appreciably higher and Union Corporation moved up. Several of the older producers were strong under the lead of Geduld and Crown Mines, and the whole market closed on a very firm note.

There was again a big business in Copper and Tin descriptions, and among the former the persistent demand for the Rhodesian issues showed no signs of slackening. The fresh demand was, however, insufficient to offset profit-taking, and at the close Rhokana and Roans were both easier. Rhodesian Selection and Selection Trust closed harder. Rhoanglo, however, eased the turn. Chartered were a trifle lower and the Gold shares were easier inclined.

While there was still a fair amount of business passing in the Jungle section, the tone was somewhat undecided, and price movements were neither numerous nor important.

A strong demand for Tin shares was again in evidence and prices throughout the list were marked up. The metal price advanced sharply. Pahangs stood out with a jump of 4s. 9d. to 25s., and a gain of 3s. 9d. was scored by Ipoh. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Booth's Distilleries New Issue

A circular to stockholders states that the directors of Booth's Distilleries have decided to issue the balance of the unissued Ordinary capital, 100,000 shares of £1 each. These are to be offered to shareholders on the register on October 26 by way of rights on the basis of one new Ordinary Share for each £5 of Ordinary Stock held, at the price of £1 11s. 6d. per £1 share. The Ordinary stockholders are invited to subscribe on similar terms for shares in excess of their pro rata proportion in the event of the total number of Ordinary Shares not being taken in accordance with shareholders' rights.

Newall Engineering

The directors have decided to issue the remainder of the authorised "A" Ordinary share capital of the company, consisting of 120,000 shares of 5s. each. The offer of these shares is now being made exclusively to existing "A" Ordinary shareholders, who are entitled to subscribe in the proportion of three new shares in respect of every five existing shares held. The price of the issue has been fixed at 8s. 6d. per share. The offer will close on November 12 next at noon.

Profits More than Doubled

Brown Bayleys Steel Works, Limited, have more than doubled their profit, the same amounting to £123,542, as compared with £58,566 for the preceding period. Moreover, the market value of the company's shareholdings in other companies is considerably in excess of book value. Increased dividends from the subsidiary companies have contributed to the improved results. With £21,582 brought in the amount available is £145,124. A further payment of two years' dividend arrears to July 31, 1935, is to be made on the 5 p.c. tax-free Cumulative Preference shares, £25,000 is to be transferred to the general reserve, £25,000 to obsolescence reserve, and £20,124 is carried forward. The directors add that trading conditions continue good, and that orders on the books at the end of the year showed no signs of falling off.

The Rise in Tin

Spot tin sold at £235 10s. per ton in London yesterday, on a rise of £22 per ton, marking an advance of £38 per ton during the past fortnight. Copper shows a rise of £2 per ton for the same period.

G.N.R. Shareholders' Meeting

A committee meeting of the Great Northern Railway Shareholders' Protection Association was held in Belfast. The following were present:—Senator McLaughlin (chairman), who presided; Mr. W. Milliken (vice-chairman), Senator O'Rourke, Inniskeen; Senator Toal, Monaghan; Mr. W. H. Todd, J.P., Newtownstewart; Judge Doyle, Dublin; Mr. W. Russell, Dundalk; Mr. A. J. Gillespie, Ballymena; Mr. W. J. Todd, Armagh; Mr. E. Buckley, hon. treasurer, and Mr. Fred. Storey, hon. secretary. The hon. secretary reported that 8,000 circulars had been sent out to shareholders and had resulted in a very large increase in membership. The hon. treasurer submitted the financial statement. It was agreed to hold the annual meeting of the association in Dublin, and a small committee, composed of Senator McLaughlin, Mr. Milliken and Mr. Storey, was appointed to make the necessary arrangements and fix a date. The same committee was instructed to interview the directors on a number of matters which were considered at the meeting.

I.C.I. Scheme in the House of Lords

The recent capital reorganisation scheme of Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., is still the subject of litigation. The matter came before the House of Lords on Thursday, when the hearing was begun of an appeal by a Deferred shareholder against a judgment of the Court of Appeal, which had affirmed Mr. Justice Eve's decision to grant the company's petition for confirmation of the capital reduction. The proceedings were chiefly occupied by a statement by appellant's counsel, Mr. H. J. Waddington, K.C. Mr. Waddington submitted that the special resolution, at the shareholders' meeting, affirming the capital reduction, was a nullity, and suggested that a separate class meeting of the Deferred shareholders had not actually been held.

THE MONEY MARKET

TREASURY BILL RATE HIGHER

Applications for £45,000,000 Treasury bills were received at the Bank of England yesterday. Tenders dated Monday to Friday of next week at £99 17s. 2d. received about 42 per cent. above in full. Tenders dated Saturday at £99 17s. 3d. and above received in full. These figures indicate an average rate of just under 11s. 3d. per cent., compared with 10s. 10·30d. per cent. for last week's bills.

Owing to the weakness of sterling the price of Gold yesterday rose 3½d. to 142s. 6½d. per fine ounce, at which figure about £440,000 was disposed of at fixing.

There was again considerable speculative buying of Silver, and the price rose another ⅛d. to 20 3/16d. per ounce for both spot and forward delivery. This is the highest price touched since May 18 last.

Short Loans were in quiet demand at ½ per cent., while the fine three months bill rate remained at 9/16 per cent.

The franc held the centre of interest in the Money Market yesterday. General nervousness over the budgetary position and threatened political disturbances resulted in a further drift of French funds abroad, and the franc opened with a very weak tendency. The market was closely watching the tactics of the French authorities, it being generally expected that the acute weakness of the franc on the previous evening was the prelude to a fresh attempt by the "control" to squeeze "bear" speculators. These suspicions were confirmed before the close of the day, French authorities entering the market in the last few minutes with heavy sales of sterling, which quickly restored the sterling-franc exchange to the level ruling prior to Thursday's adverse movement. No attempt was made to resist the rising tendency of the dollar, either on London or Paris account, and the dollar closed the day with a further substantial improvement in relation to both franc and sterling. There was a heavy turnover in Dutch exchange yesterday, and the guilder closed distinctly weaker in relation to all the principal currencies.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Ever Ready (Ireland).—Owing to the continued expansion of the business the directors have decided to pay an interim dividend of 8 p.c. (3d. per share) on the 5/- Ordinary Shares and the usual half-yearly dividend on the 6 p.c. Cumulative Preference Shares. The dividend will be paid on 1st December, 1936, and transfers received up to, and including, 14th November, 1936, will be registered in time for the transferee to receive the dividend.

Amalgamated Tea Estates.—The directors of Amalgamated Tea Estates Co., Ltd., have decided to pay the usual half-yearly Pref. payment of 2½ per cent. on December 22nd, 1936. No Ord. interim is recommended, on which class of capital 4 per cent., less tax, was paid in the form of a final dividend for the year to November 30th, 1935.

Anglo-Sumatra Rubber.—Profit £228, plus £1,205 income tax recovered, making, with £9,974 brought in, £11,408. Dividend 5 per cent., less tax (same), and £7,408 forward.

Anglo-American Direct Tea.—The directors of the Anglo-American Direct Tea Trading Co., Ltd., have decided to pay the usual Pref. payment of 3 per cent. on December 22nd. No Ord. interim is recommended. For the year ended November 30th, 1935, a first and final payment of 6 per cent., less tax, was paid on the Ord. shares.

Albert E. Reed.—Dividend of 3 per cent. (same).

Brampton Brewery.—Interim 2½ per cent., less tax. (Same.)

Brown Bayley's Steel Works.—Trading profits, after charging depreciation and tax and crediting investment income, are up by £58,760 to £126,453; while the net figure, after contribution to the works benevolent and pension funds, come out £4,976 higher at £123,542. As already announced, dividends on the £500,000 of 5 per cent. (tax free) Preference Capital are brought up to July 31, 1935, by the payment of three years' arrears. This distribution takes £75,000; while, in addition, there is this time an allocation of £25,000 to general reserve and £25,000 in reserve for obsolescence of buildings, plant, and machinery. The carry forward at £20,124 compares with £21,582 brought in. The last dividend on the £300,000 of Ordinary Capital was 7½ per cent. for 20 months to August 31, 1921.

WOMAN DOCTOR NOT WANTED

A KILKENNY OBJECTION

From Our Correspondent,

KILKENNY, Friday.

An objection to the possible appointment of a woman doctor in room of Dr. E. White, appointed to Finglas district, Dublin, has been made to Commissioner P. J. Meghen, acting as the Kilkenny Board of Health, by a deputation from Castlecomer.

The deputation consisted of Messrs. Martin Ring, Nicholas Boran, T. Comerford and T. Quinn.

A letter was also sent by Captain R. H. Prior-Wandesforde, chairman of the Castlecomer Collieries, Ltd., in which he stated: We are strongly of the opinion that the dispensary district, which is largely a mining one, requires the services of a male doctor. The district is a large and scattered one, and many of our workmen live in small houses situate up rough lanes and across fields, where a motor car cannot penetrate. The doctor has sometimes to attend underground in cases of serious accidents, and possibly travel underground distances up to a mile on a road 4 feet 6 inches high.

At their own suggestion the deputation was heard in private, after which the Commissioner issued a statement in which he stated that so far he had merely asked for sanction to fill the appointment by transfer. However, in face of the views of the deputation and the question raised by Captain Prior-Wandesforde, he decided to have the appointment made through the Local Appointments Commission, so as to leave it entirely open.

Caught while attempting to cross the German frontier, a Swiss draughtsman, who was alleged to have been sent to spy on France's "Maginot Line," has been sentenced to two years' penal servitude.

OILS—Linseed quiet; spot (small lots) sellers 26/9, November-December, January-April, also May-August 24/4½. Rape slow; crude spot 33/-, refined 34/6. Cotton steady; crude Egyptian naked spot 26/6, common edible 29/6, deodorised barrels 34/-. Soya maintained; English crude naked spot 32/-, deodorised barrels 38/-. Coconut firm; Ceylon white drums spot 25/6, November, also December 24/10½; English deodorised barrels 33/6. Groundnut steady; English crude naked spot 32/-, deodorised barrels 40/-. Turpentine dearer; American spot 39/9. Rosin steady; American Grade B 16/9, F/G 17/3 per cwt.

OILSEEDS—Linseed—Market quiet, and barely steady; Plate to Hull November sellers £11, new/old December £10 17/6, new January-February, also March £10 13/9; Calcutta to London November to January £13 2/6; Bombay to London November to January £13 6/3. Rapeseed idle; Toria November-December, also December-January £12 12/6. Cottonseed maintained; Egyptian black to Hull November to March £7 3/9 (white nominally 10/- per ton less respectively). Groundnuts firmly held; Coromandel November to March £14, April, also May £14 1/3. Soya Beans quiet; Manchurian to Continent afloat £8 8/9, new November £7 11/3, December £7 7/6. Castorseed steady; Bombay November-December, also December £13 6/3 per ton c.i.f.

JUTE—Market generally quieter and slightly unsettled at times. Firsts October-November sold £18 17/6, £18 16/3. November-December done £18 17/6. December-January sold £19 to £18 17/6, January-February sellers £19 2/6. Lightnings October-November sold £18, £17 16/3 and £17 18/9. Hearts sellers £17 6/3. Daisee £17 13/9, Tossa quoted £19 2/6 c.i.f. Calcutta hessians and twills firm, unchanged. SHELLAC steady. T.N. spot 50/- to 55/-. December buyers 49/-, March 51/-, October-November c.i.f. quoted 48/-.

OILCAKES—Linseed Cakes—The amount of business passing is still disappointing, especially for the time of year, although during the last few days there have been signs of some slight improvement, with small orders coming in rather more freely. Meanwhile, supplies continued on a very moderate scale, with shippers again demanding a further advance in prices for early shipments, which, for the moment, meets with very little response, but at the same time quotations generally remain firmly held. London made are without change at £8 2/6 for 8 per cent. oil, and £8 7/6 for 9 per cent., while foreign descriptions offer sparingly at £7 15/- to £7 17/6 for the better qualities of Indian expellers, and £8 5/- to £8 7/6 for best brands of hydraulic makes. Cotton Cakes—Egyptians meet a quiet sale at £5 1/3 to £5 2/6 in store, with sellers of afloat parcels at £4 15/- ex ship terms duty paid, while December loadings are available at 1/3 per ton less money. English remain as last quoted at £5 2/6 to £5 5/-. Groundnut Cakes—Only a very limited quantity is obtainable on spot, which finds a ready sale at £7 15/- to £7 17/6 for the various qualities of 50/55 per cent. of Indian expellers, while for forward positions the market remains quietly steady at £7 8/9 ex steamer for November-December shipments, and £7 7/6 for December-January, and values are fairly well supported at these figures. OFFALS—English weatings are barely as strong, with millers to-day quoting £7 2/6 to £7 5/-, and English straightrun bran is the turn easier at £6 12/6 to £6 15/-, and broad bran at £7 2/6 to £7 5/-. Brazilian, Danubian and Plate pollards are good value at £6 10/- landed terms, with fancy Plate and Brazilian middlings at £6 17/6 to £6 18/9. MAIZE FOODS—Gartons maize gluten feed meet a good inquiry, but flake maize may be bought at slightly less money at £6 15/-, and English maize meal at £6 7/6, and maize germ meal at £6 10/- ex factory.

LIVERPOOL.—COCOA—West African on spot steady, but the demand continues quiet. Forward shipments firm and dearer. Sellers good fermented Accra new crop Nov.-Jan. and Dec.-Feb. 38/9, Jan.-March 39/-, and buyers at 3d. less. Later 3d. dearer; 38/9 paid Dec.-Feb. JAPANESE PEAS remain steady and unaltered. Spot parcels in store quoted £19 10/- per ton. RICE BRAN—Burma steady and unchanged at £5 2/6 per ton for Nov.-Dec. shipments ex ship terms.

OIL CAKES—The demand for imported descriptions continues slow, but prices steady and maintained. Forward shipments of American Linseed quoted £7 12/6, River Plate (round) £8 10/-, and Indian expeller £8 2/6, all c.i.f. Nov.-Dec. Egyptian undecorticated Cottonseed for Nov.-Dec. unaltered at £4 11/3 ex ship terms. LINSEED—River Plate quiet, with Nov. shipment nominally unaltered at £11 5/- per ton. COTTONSEED quietly steady. Forward shipment values of white woolly sorts unaltered at £4 15/- to £5 10/- ex ship terms according to position and quality. Sellers of Brazilian at £5 7/6, and buyers at £5 5/- per ton. PALM KERNELS steady. Sellers Dec. shipments £13 1/3 and Jan. at £13 2/6, with buyers of both positions at 1/3 per ton less. Later firm and 2/6 dearer; £13 1/3 paid Dec. and £13 2/6 per ton Jan.

PALM KERNEL OIL firmly held, with crushers quoting £26 for crushed crude, £27 extracted crude, both g.m.q., and £31 10/- per ton deodorised, all naked ex mills Liverpool. COPRA OIL—Local-made crushed crude very firm, and crushers repeat £27 per ton naked ex mills. GROUNDNUT OIL steady and unaltered. Deodorised quoted £37 per ton naked ex mills Liverpool. COCOANUT OIL fully steady at late rates. Forward shipments of white Ceylon in drums quoted £25 and Straits £24 per ton, both c.i.f. to Liverpool.

SEED OILS—Cottonseed steady at 30/- for common edible and 32/- deodorised net naked. Soya—Deodorised continues at 34/- naked. Linseed rather steadier at 29/6 for raw and 31/- per cwt. boiled on spot in barrels, all ex mills Liverpool. PALM OIL steady, but quiet. Sellers soft oils Nov.-Dec. and later shipments £21 12/6 to £21 15/- with transit option, and 2/6 per ton less ex quay terms. TALLOW steadily held, but quiet. Sellers South American beefs quote 23/6 to 25/9 according to brand, and Australian good colour mixed 23/9 per cwt., all c.i.f. for shipment.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW.—Hay supplies fairly large, but mostly of secondary or poor quality. Owing to wet weather fewer buyers put in an appearance and trade ruled slow throughout, with many loads on hands at a late hour, when prices were easier at—Best first crop 3/3 to 3/6 per cwt., second and third 2/9 to 3/-, strong old meadow 2/3 to 2/6 and softer 1/6 to 2/-. Straw supplies totalled less than a dozen loads, which proved ample for requirements at 1/3 to 1/4 per cwt.

TRIBUTE TO IRISH COUNTRY CHARACTERS

"Some Country Characters" was the subject of a lecture given by Mrs. Dorothy M. Large before a very large audience in Wesley College, St. Stephen's Green, last night.

Mrs. Large described several outstanding people whom she had met in the Irish countryside—people with real character—not the stage Irishman type, who, yet, had never had a chance of doing anything in the outside world. Her admiration of character was not confined to people in the countryside; it extended also to country people residing in the towns and cities. They were to be found in St. Stephen's Green, as well as at the turf-cutting competitions—all interesting, courageous people, in face of great hardship. Chill penury had not frozen the genial current of their souls.

The Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D., presided.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

WALL STREET HESITANT

Reuter's Telegrams.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Following restricted tendency to ease, Wall street turned quiet, but steady. Sentiment then assumed a more selective character, and the closing trend was rather indefinite. Sales totalled 2,720,000 shares.

The opening was steady. The market resumed its advance during the morning under the leadership of the Chemicals and specialities, but profit-taking, together with the easing of Steels on the apparent imminence of a wage increase in that industry, imparted an irregular appearance to the list.

The Copper division made no response to the recent increase in the domestic price of the commodity, while the downward trend in the Steel section on the wage outlook tended to focus attention on the labour situation. In other fields these latter, it was believed, may be a more important factor in the near future.

The market closed irregular. Group changes showed slight gains in Tobacco, Entertainment and "Wet" stocks, but equally small losses in Copper, Oil, Rail and Steel issues.

Sterling exchange opened 1/16 down at 4.87 11/16, and dropped to 4.87 11/16 during the morning. The rate remained at this level in the afternoon, but finally improved slightly, and closed ⅛ lower (compared with the previous close) at 4.87 11/16.

Silver was unchanged at 44¾.

"SLIGO CHAMPION" CENTENARY NUMBER

AN ILLUSTRATED 48-PAGE PAPER

With justifiable pride The Sligo Champion celebrates its centenary by a special forty-eight page number this week. An illustrated article outlining the history of the paper states that "the Champion has witnessed many changes, not alone in the lives of the people, but in its own internal economy. In fact, the elderly Champion of to-day would hardly recognise the infantile Champion of one hundred years ago. People change with the years, but newspapers change more—and differently." The writer then traces the evolution of the paper from the time when the news was set by hand, and page by page the four-page paper was worked off on a little hand press about the size of a poster. When the Wharfdale machine appeared, the Champion was one of the first to use it. On this machine four pages were worked off and left to dry. Then they were printed on the reverse side. When gas power was introduced "working-off" became easier, and a paper could be printed in two days. The coming of the linotype enabled more matter to be set in a given time, and resulted in larger newspapers, increased sales, more employment and better wages. In the Champion office to-day there is a battery of five linotypes and a monotype of the latest pattern. Instead of the Wharfdale, which still does duty in many provincial newspaper offices, the Champion has a machine which works off an entire newspaper at the rate of several thousand per hour. The equipment of the Champion would be sufficient for the production of a daily newspaper of average size if that course were deemed desirable.

The Champion, we learn, was founded in 1836 by Edward Howard Verdon, who preached the gospel of toleration and liberation for the masses of serfdom. It was not till years after his death that his work bore fruit.

A page headed "Sligo in 1836" gives a list of officials and traders in town and country. Extracts from early editions of the Champion deal with the intention of the editor to put down Grand Jury jobbing, expose magisterial injustice, hold up to scorn the petty tyrant, and to be the friend of the people. In the second issue appeared a prospectus for the formation of a company known as the "Great Central Irish Railway," seeking the huge capital of £2,000,000. Its permanent way was to have occupied the route afterwards taken by the Midland Great Western Railway. In January, 1837, Daniel O'Connell visited Sligo, and was entertained by the Liberals of Sligo to a dinner, presided over by Daniel Jones, of Banada, the first Catholic High Sheriff of Sligo for over two centuries. In 1840 Father Mathew, the famous temperance advocate, visited the town, and over 50,000 people are reported to have taken the pledge in two days.

The ravages wrought by the famine, and also by the cholera epidemic in 1849, are dealt with in a special article. On 1st December, 1856, the editor of the Champion was elected Mayor of Sligo for the ensuing year, without opposition. The failure of the Fenians to land arms from America, at Sligo in 1867, is alluded to in passing. Readers are also told why Sligo was disfranchised in 1869.

In the days of the Land League the Champion passed to the proprietorship of Mr. P. A. McHugh, M.P., who became Mayor of Sligo in 1888, and shortly afterwards served a term of imprisonment for his intimidatory articles in the Champion.

Some of the later history of Sligo is given in diary form, supplemented by comment where necessary. The abstention of Mr. John Jinks from a vote of "no confidence" in the Cosgrave Government in August, 1927, is, of course, recalled as a matter of local as well as national history. The port, industries, and sports of Sligo also receive adequate attention.

DUBLIN UNEMPLOYED

NEW ORGANISATION FORMED

A new organisation, catering for Dublin unemployed workers, was formed at a meeting of representatives of the unemployed, which was held in the Mansion House yesterday.

In putting forward the aims of the organisation, Mr. M. Power said that the new body stood for a minimum amount in relief or assistance grant of 18s. per week for a man and his wife, with 2s. per week for each child. They claimed a minimum of 12s. 6d. per week for single men. They stood for the carrying out of Corporation schemes by direct labour; representation for the unemployed on the Court of Referees, and the abolition of the Means Test.

A resolution was passed calling for the provision of large-scale relief works, on which men would receive a full week's work, and not merely three days as at present.

Mr. T. Lawlor pledged the support of the Labour Party to the unemployed in their efforts to secure these demands.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman A. Byrne) said that a special meeting of the Dublin Corporation would be held on Monday next to discuss the question of a full week's work for the unemployed. He said that it was not the members of the Corporation who were standing in the way in so far as that proposal was concerned.

Mr. E. Wall said that the unemployed were Ireland's forgotten men. They would have to organise and hold public meetings in order to bring their position to the notice of the public.

Mr. Seamus McGowan said that the problem could only be solved by the abolition of the capitalist system. A sum of 4s. 6d. per week was spent in feeding a monkey in the Zoo, and the children of the public also assisted, but no such sum would be spent in feeding an unemployed worker's child. He advocated the provision of shelter for workers who were forced to queue up at the Labour Exchange. During a discussion which followed the prospects of employment on a number of public schemes were discussed.

A committee to carry through the work of organisation was elected at the conclusion of the meeting.

MAN AND THE IRISH SEA

PROFESSOR FLEURE'S LECTURE IN DUBLIN

Lecturing on the subject of "Man and the Irish Sea" before the Geographical Society of Ireland, at 19 Dawson street, Dublin, last night, Professor R. Fleure, of Manchester University, said that in older times the Irish Sea played a much greater part in the life of both Ireland and West Britain than as a strait carrying communications between the two countries. A population of hunter collectors occupied Ireland and Britain until the latter part of the third millennium B.C., when bearers of more advanced ideas, including agriculture and trade, reached Ireland's shores. Their fashion of building great monuments of rough stone had left many traces, and it was important to realise that already in those days different parts of the sea and different parts of Ireland interested different groups with different fashions.

What was, perhaps, the finest pre-historic monument of these islands was at New Grange, and monuments of its general class hardly penetrated into the area of the six Northern counties, as they are now called. On the other hand, in a zone spreading from Strangford and Carlingford Loughs they had another fashion—monuments with chambers opening into a forecourt, outlined by standing stones. Such monuments also occurred on the shores of the Firth of Clyde, in the east of the Isle of Man, and near Congleton, in Cheshire. Some simpler dolmens were like those of Wales and Cornwall, Brittany and Iberia; while some, especially near Sligo, were like those of Denmark. They still needed more detailed surveys, but they got the impression of several groups of people on the move by sea, and of their using estuarine and other harbours to penetrate into the countries they touched. The Isle of Man had three different kinds of monuments in different parts and might have ports of call for different groups.

The lecturer illustrated his remarks with lantern slides, and showed how the sea voyages north and south from Spain through the Irish Sea declined in importance, and the ways across from Ireland to Britain became of more consequence. He pointed out how the north had one set of linkages with the Hebrides, and so on, and the south another illustrated by the route, Dublin, Pembrokeshire, Gower, Bristol, and said that it was clear that period of development of north-south and west-east communication putting Ireland into almost direct touch with the European Continent had been a period of cultural importance and value not only to Ireland, but to Britain and the Continent as well.

Professor R. Lloyd Praeger presided, and, on the motion of Professor R. A. S. MacAlister, a vote of thanks was passed to the lecturer.

FUNERAL OF DEAN BRENNAN

A remarkable tribute was paid to the memory of the late Very Rev. Dean Brennan, P.P., V.F., Rathdowney, at the obsequies and funeral yesterday.

The Rev. P. Moore, P.P., Muckalee, was celebrant of the Requiem Mass; deacon, the Rev. Father Grace, C.C., Johnstown; subdeacon, the Rev. F. Teehan, C.C., Rathdowney; master of ceremonies, the Rev. M. Guilfoyle, C.C., Cuffesgrange. The Most Rev. Dr. Collier, Bishop of Ossory, presided, and there were nearly eighty priests in the sanctuary.

The funeral to the New Cemetery, where the interment took place, was one of the largest ever seen in the district, and was attended by all classes.

Among those present were:—Messrs. W. Davin, T.D.; J. Finlay, T.D.; R. Holohan, T.D.; J. Lalor Fitzpatrick, ex-M.P.; Dr. A. Harte, Dr. J. J. Comer, M. A. Feehan, Co. Surveyor; E. Brennan, Assistant C.S.; F. S. Young, solicitor; E. T. Keane, Kilkenny; T. R. White, C.E., Maryborough; J. C. Brennan, C.E., do.; Herbert Thompson, W. Roe, J. Quigley, W. T. White, J. A. Murphy.

ASSOCIATION OF SCHOOLS' UNIONS

The formation of the Association of the Schools' Unions brings together pupils of all the Protestant secondary schools throughout Ireland. The following Old Boys' Unions have affiliated:—St. Columba's College, Diocesan School, Drogheda Grammar School, King's Hospital School, High School, Mountjoy School, St. Andrew's College, and many others are expected to join the Association shortly.

The objects of the Association are chiefly of a social nature, and it is intended to act as a central body. Many men in Dublin belong to no organised Old Boys' Association, and to cater for these it is intended to establish a clubhouse in the centre of the city, to which all members of the constituent unions and associated schools will be eligible for membership.

To inaugurate the formation of the Association, a dance has been organised on a very large scale and will be held in the Metropole Ballroom on Saturday, 14th November.
